HOG RAISERS FIND MADRAS GOOD MARKET

Local Buyer Complains of Poor Transportation Facilities—Farmers Get Good Prices

Several farmers are taking advantage of the good prices paid for hogs this fall and as a consequence the local buyers have been busy the past week relieving the farmers of their stock and shipping to outside markets. J. L. Campbell, proprietor of the Madras Meat Co., has handled all the hogs brought to town thus far but owing to lack of transportation at the proper time finds himself overstocked. One load of 20 hogs was shipped to Redmond and he expected to ship the others to the Portland market but could not get a car when he wanted it.

Green & Clark of Haycreek and Stanley Grewell of Trout Creek are among the big hograiser of Crook county who sold to the Madras market. The hogs were in excellent shape and brought about 7 cents on foot.

MANY COUNTIES STRIVING TO ELIMINATE RUTS

By Building Concrete Macadam Roads A Success In Michigan.

Concrete macadam roads are being built in many parts of the country in an attempt to secure roadways that will not loosen up under automobile travel nor rut under heavy trucking.

Wayne county, Mich., has built these roads for the past two seasons and now has nearly eight miles of two course concrete macadam roadways. In these roads the bottom layer is a limestone concrete of a one, two and a half and five mix, using first class cement, sand and crushed limestone. The top layer is a one, two and three mix of the same materials, except that crushed cobbles are substituted for limestone. The concrete is six and one-half inches compacted depth and from fifteen to nineteen feet in width.

Hopeful.

"It was a terrible sensation," says the man who is narrating his experiences while almost drowning. "After I went down for the third time my past life flashed before me in a series of pictures."

"You didn't happen to notice," asks the friend, edging forward with interest, "a picture of me lending you that $10 in the fall of 1908, did you?"—Life.
