Yes, we've heard from Jonathan.

Congressman Binger Hermann has taken his seat again and drawn his salary—which we still believe was the proper thing for Binger to do. He has not yet been proven guilty.

Hitchcock has promised Senator Gearin that he will no longer withhold patents on Oregon lands which are not under contest or under suspicion of fraudulent entry. Don't rejoice. It was something like this that caused the poet to say: "Hope, withering, fled, and Mercy sighed, 'Farewell!'"

Popular and Picturesque.

The only thing necessary to make the Denver and Rio Grande the most popular, as it has ever been known the most pleasant and most picturesque way to cross the continent, has come about. This is the establishment of through sleeping car service.

In connection with the O. R. & N. a through Pullman Standard Sleeper is now run from Portland to Denver, leaving Portland at 8:15 p. m. arriving at Salt Lake at 8:40 a. m. the second morning, leaving Salt Lake at 3:50 p. m. and arriving at Denver 4:20 p. m. the following day. This schedule gives passengers seven hours stop over in Salt Lake, affording an opportunity to visit the Mormon Capital as well as a day light ride through the grandest scenery in the world.

For reservations in this car and for illustrated booklets picturing the scenery contiguous to the Denver & Rio Grande, proving it to be the "Scenic Line of the World," write to W. C. McBride, General Agent, 124 Third street, Portland.

Dangers of a Cold and How to Avoid Them.

More fatalities have their origin in or result from a cold than from any other cause. This fact alone should make people more careful as there is no danger whatever from a cold when it is properly treated in the beginning. For many years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been recognized as the most prompt and effectual medicine in use for this disease. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by O. O. Krogstad.

THE "LOST ARTS."

They Are Not So Much Lost as They Are Discarded.

"Not so many years ago it was quite commonly asserted that modern workmen could not quarry, or, having quarried, could not handle stones as large as the monoliths of Egypt," says a scientist, "and the writer has heard a public speaker of note assert that it would be impossible to handle, with modern implements, such large stones as were used in the pyramids or to join them as perfectly as they are joined there. Yet, when occasion arose, larger stones than any of these were quarried in Maine, and some of the larger monoliths themselves were transported not only to sea, but across it and erected in England, France and America.

"There are individuals today who might if they chose cause the transportation to and erection in this country of the largest pyramids or build new ones ten times larger and more durable. Pyramids are not being generally built nowadays because they are not in line with the trend of modern ambition, that's all.

"It is very doubtful if a 'Damascus blade' would stand half as severe usage as a modern band saw blade or even as much as the spring of a forty cent clock, while the ornamentation of those wondrous blades, so far as the mechanical execution is concerned, can be excelled by apprentices and amateurs of today."

NEWSPAPERS.

Striking Things That Great Men Have Said About Them.

A correspondent requests that we print some of the striking things great men have said about newspapers—that is, sayings that embody the purpose and doings of the press. With pleasure.

Bryant said: "The press is good or evil, according to the character of those who direct it. It is a mill that grinds all that is put into its hopper. Fill the hopper with poisoned grain, and it will grind it to meal, but there is death in the bread."

James Parton said: "The newspaper press is the people's university. Half the readers in Christendom read little else."

Jefferson said: "The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right, and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Cardinal Gibbons said: "The dread of exposure in the public press keeps many a man sticking close to the path of rectitude who otherwise would stray off into the byways of graft."—Chicago Journal.

ON DUTCH WATERS.

A Journey Along a Canal and the Scenery It Presents.

"I can think of no more reposeful holiday," says a writer, "than to step on board of one of those barges wedged together in a Rotterdam canal and, never lifting a finger to alter the natural course of events—to accelerate or divert—be carried by it to, say, Harlingen, in Friesland, between the meadows, under the noses of great black and white cows, past herons fishing in the rushes, through little villages with dazzling milk cans being scoured on the banks and the good wives washing and the saturnine smokers in black velvet slippers passing the time of day, through big towns, by rows of somber houses seen through a delicate screen of leaves, under low bridges crowded with children, through narrow locks, ever moving, moving, slowly and surely, sometimes sailing, sometimes being towed, with the wide Dutch sky overhead and the plovers crying in it, and the clean west wind driving the windmills, and everything just as it was in Rembrandt's day and just as it will be 500 years hence."

The Paris Jewelers.

"To stroll about the London streets," says Harper's Weekly, "is a pastime; in Paris it is also an education. I hardly understand how an Englishman after a walk down the Avenue de l'Opera or the Boulevard des Italiens can bear to even glance at a Bond street jeweler's. To see what the French are doing in jewel work of every kind is to make one feel that London is not merely a generation behind, but could not in a hundred centuries catch up."

Physiognomy.

Dr. Barnardo, the great London child saver, was once discussing crime and criminals with a Scotland Yard expert and expressed his disbelief in the theories of heredity and criminal physiognomy. He produced two photographs of two well known men and showed the faces only to the expert. "One," he said, "is that of a once notorious criminal, and the other is that of a notably good man. Tell me which is which." Without hesitation the expert designated one of the photographs as that of the notorious criminal. Dr. Bernardo was triumphant. The expert criminologist had chosen the photograph of an archbishop of Canterbury.

A Quick Delivery Letter.

It is a curious fact that a century and a half ago a letter traveled much faster than ever it has done since. It was in 1753 that Lord March made a heavy wager that he would cause a letter to be conveyed 100 miles within an hour. His lordship engaged a score of cricketers, all expert throwers and catchers, had the missive inclosed in a ball, and, arranging his men at intervals in a circle, got them to throw the ball as swiftly as possible from one to another. At the end of the hour it was found that the letter had traveled almost exactly 120 miles.—Era Magazine.

Just the Reverse.

Mrs. Naggs—I understand your husband is unable to meet his creditors. Mrs. Waggs—Don't you believe it. He can and does meet them much oftener than he cares to.
