Tales of the Great Harvest Rain In '93

EACH man around the store had told his tale of the "hardest rain he ever saw fall out of the sky." Tom Limkins was an easy winner with his of the great harvest rain in '93.

"It began with big drops kinder scatterin' like," he said. "Then it got to a shower, and I just thought I'd crawl under the canvas on the reaper till it was over—knowed the team would stand. But, sir, when the lightning took to hittin' right at that binder I concluded to get out from there. I had a gallon and a half bucket on my arm and I lit out for the mule shed. When I was about halfway there the thing begun to get heavy. I looked down, and if the blamed thing wasn't full of water I'm a"—

The lank individual who had been leaning against a barrel broke in:

"Well, now, I reckon that must 'a' been the day I am thinkin' about. What made me know it was rainin' some was seein' a flock o' wild ducks go over. Gents, them ducks had folded their wings and was just naturally paddlin'."

For the space of two minutes not a sound was heard save the purring of the cat asleep on the counter; then silently, with bowed heads, the crowd dispersed.—Woman's Home Companion.

Overheard at Commencement.

It was commencement day at M. seminary. The mother of the prettiest girl graduate was there, overflowing with pride at her daughter's success. "I tell you these girls have to walk chalk," said the complacent mother. "They can't go anywhere without a shampooner." A little later, turning to her companion, the good lady said: "Can you tell me what state Table d'hote is in? My oldest daughter is in the south somewhere for her health. She wrote me that she was better and was going to Table d'hote for the first time. Now, I've looked all over the map of the United States and I can't find that name anywhere."—Lippincott's Magazine.

His Specialty.

"It's pretty hard to determine a boy's vocation."

"Well, it seems to be pretty well settled that my boy is bound to be a contractor."

"Showing an aptitude for it already, eh?"

"Well, he contracts nearly everything that comes along—had the chicken pox and mumps last month, and now he has got the measles."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

In Confidence.

"I knew," he declared, "that we were meant for each other from the very moment I first saw you."

"I knew it," she replied, "long before that."

"You did?"

"Yes. I may tell you now in confidence, since we're engaged and it's all settled, that mamma has been mapping out our accidental meeting for three months."—Judge.

"Reading Between the Lines."

—Pueblo Chieftain.

Corrected.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "you said those losing ball players fielded badly."

"That's what I said."

"This sporting talk is demoralizing your grammar. You mean they felt badly."—Washington Star.

Tom—I don't see anything remarkably brilliant about Miss Gotrox.

Jack—Just wait till you see her with all her diamonds on.—Brooklyn Life.
