THE GRANT COUNTY NEWS.

January 2, 1890.

Kansas has had fourteen cyclones in six years, and if any other state in the union can show more wind than that let the record be produced.

God loves a cheerful giver, but the devil laughs with delight when he spots a stingy cuss and orders an extra furnace for his special benefit.

The secretary of war has transmitted to the senate the findings of the military board, relative to the war claims of Oregon. The finding is as follows: Allowed for money expended on account of volunteers, $335,152; allowed for amount on expenses of military, $21,119; total, $356,271.

An old criminal lawyer says that coldblooded crimes are planned and executed in the winter. In the summer, crimes are the result of impulse. Most of them occur in the open air, and are the result of accidental contact. This is worth knowing. In the summer the timid citizen should keep his eyes open. The same advice holds good for the winter.

A valuable subscriber at Monument sends us the ten commandments and asks us to publish them. Under the circumstances we must decline to do it. It is true that the commandments were written several thousand years ago, but if we were to publish them some person would be sure to think they were aimed at him and stop his paper. The publisher of a journal has to be very careful about such things.

Rev. Sam Jones rather took the breath away from Kentuckians while preaching in one of the fashionable churches on "the proper method of raising children." An old bluegrass fellow said: "We raise horses and bring up children." "Yes," retorted Sam, "you raise horses worth $50,000 a piece and bring up children worth about $3 a head." Too many people act on this principle in this country. They pay more attention to many other things than to the bringing up of their children. The children grow up as best they may.

Newspapers in the northern states are not yet done speaking of the late Jefferson Davis, as the arch traitor, and refuse to let the past sink into oblivion. Some even go so far as to divest him of every good principle. It makes a charitable person feel sick to read them. Who was Jefferson Davis, anyway? The accident of failure possesses wonderful force in detracting from the merits of a public man. If Mr. Davis had succeeded in establishing the Southern Confederacy his name would have gone down in history along side of George Washington, that successful rebel of revolutionary times.

The operation of the new jury system adopted by the two Dakotas will be watched with considerable interest throughout the country. It is the first attempt to test in modified form the Prussian system, which permits a majority of a jury to render a virdict in criminal cases, the punishment being sealed from the maximum in proportion to the number voting for the verdict. By the laws of the Dakotas, if nine of the twelve men agree in any case, their decision will be accepted as a verdict. This is a departure in the line of reason and common sense, which commends itself. If this method is supplemented by making intelligence a qualification of jurors, it can hardly fail to work satisfactorily.

The latest piece of Chinese legislation attempted at Washington by congress is to number and keep account of the Mongolians in the United States. Representative Morrow, of California, introduced the bill proposing to require the superintendent of the census to enumerate the Chinese population of the United States, and to issue to each Chinese a certificate, which shall be regarded as the sole evidence of his right to remain in the United States, but shall not be evidence of his right to enter the country. Chinese without certificates ninety days after the enumeration may be arrested, convicted of illegal residence, and sent to their own country, the persons bringing them to the United States to be liable for the costs. The bill carries an appopriation of $100,000 to give the effect to its provisions.

South Carolina always hangs murderers in public, and she defies any one to find a spectator of any hanging who has subsequently taken human life. She claims that every execution makes a profound impression of the vengence of the law.

Justice Lamar, of the United States Supreme court, has been invited by the Chamber of Commerce of Richmond, Va., to deliver an address before a mass meeting of the citizens of Richmond on the life and character of the late Jefferson Davis whose lifelong friend he was.

The delegates from the country districts promise to make things lively for the Portland jobbers at the next republican state convention. The Eastern Oregon folks are coming down with blood in their eye in demanding the treasuryship, and Southern Oregon aspires to name the congressman and governor. But just wait until Joe Simon cracks the party lash, and dictates the nomination. —Portland World.

Novelties and Knowledge.

A new book of attractive reading, brimful of good things worth knowing and illustrated, is just issued. It contains a large collection of valuable autographs, excellent receipts for plain dishes, humor in rhyme and prose, monthly calendars, and can be had of all druggists and dealers, or, by sending a two-cent stamp to the publishers. An important feature of the work is its offer of Free Music, which offer is set forth therein, and by procuring the book, at once, any one can be supplied with a choice selection. The little volume is the St. Jacobs Oil Calendar for 1889-90, published by The Charles A. Vogeler Company, Baltimore, Md. It is fully the equal of any of its predecessors in the interest of the Great Remedy for Pain, St. Jacobs Oil, virtues never abate, and whose popularity never wanes. The demand for both book and medicine is very great.
