COAST TEAMS SIGN TREATY

SEATTLE (AP) — A treaty of peace was signed here Tuesday by athletic representatives of the Washington and Stanford universities and indorsed by Henry Suzzallo, president of Washington. The treaty was signed to clarify the situation created by charges made by President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford that Washington players had been permitted to use illegal roughness in games this fall against Stanford and the University of California.

The treaty provides for an impartial committee of three to protect officials for future games in which both universities participate and contains the following statements:

"Stanford university on its part states that its sole interest was in developing such conditions that officials can be so appointed that they will be independent, unbiased and effective and that it has no intention to imply that the University of Washington teams or players were guilty in any sense of intentional violation of rules.

"The University of Washington on its part desires to express its appreciation of the initiative and co-operation manifested by Stanford university at all meetings of the Pacific Coast intercollegiate athletic conference where matters vital to the safeguarding of good sportsmanship were fully considered."

Wilson and Nevers Chosen by Collier's

NEW YORK (AP) — Collier's Weekly in its current issue announces an all-American football team selected by Grantland Rice, New York sports writer, who succeeds the late Walter Camp as that publication's authority.

Dartmouth, which claimed three places on the all-American team selected by the Associated Press, places two of their stars, Dodd and Oberlander, on Collier's team. The backfield in Rice's selections, composed of Grange, George Wilson, Oberlander and Nevers, are identical.

The selections for Collier's were started by Camer Whitney, now a resident of Irvington-On-Hudson, Hudson, New York, and continued by Mr. Camp until his death this year.

The makeup of the 1925 team follows:

Ends—Thayer, Pennsylvania and Gustafson, Michigan.

Tackles—Chase, Pittsburg, and Weir, Nebraska.

Guards—Hess, Ohio State, and Dodd, Dartmouth.

Center—McMillan, Princeton.

Quarterback—Grange, Illinois.

Halfbacks—Wilson, Washington and Oberlander, Dartmouth.

Fullback—Nevers, Stanford.

The ordinary team by weight is 190 pounds per man, which is probably the world record for stability among an entire team.

Sleuths Follow Chief Even into His Church

(By Charles P. Stewart)

WASHINGTON, (NEA Special) — Sunday morning, a few minutes before 11. The First Congregational church, the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor. Tenth and G streets, here in Washington.

* * *

Through the main door, this time, come the Coolidges. They're preceded by a couple of ushers—or are they secret service men? They're followed by another pair. There's no use mistaking them. They unquestionable, are of the secret service.

The party walks almost the whole length of the main aisle—to the third pew from the pastor's platform. There it's seated. Then, down sits the congregation.

* * *

The service is no different from any other Congregational church service. The sermon is something rather out of the ordinary, for the pastor is an exceptionally able speaker.

The Coolidges behave as any other human would behave under similar circumstances.

There's the benediction. The congregation is standing. It remains standing. The Coolidges and their secret service attendants are filing out of their pew now, however. Some of the congregation has been sneaking out through the side door in the meantime, to join the crowd at the main entrance. The well-behaved body of it stands at attention until the Coolidges have taken their departure.

* * *

An automobile receives them. President Coolidge lifts his hat in the crowd. Mrs. Coolidge smiles affably. The auto whisks them away. It whisks the secret service men likewise. What a life—to be whisked nowhere except ahead of a wake of secret service men.

Huge Sign for Mormon Temple

SALT LAKE CITY, (AP)—Money has been appropriated and Mormon church authorities have approved plans to paint gigantic letters spelling "Salt Lake" or "Salt Lake City" on the roof of the famous Mormon tabernacle. The sign was decided upon in the hope that it would aid aviators passing over this section.

Some men are so busy their arms never steal around a girl.

The Cheapest Thing in the World

What can you buy for your home at 57½c per 100 pounds that will give you as much comfort and satisfaction as

Aberdeen Coal

For Example: A hundred pounds of beans would cost $10.00, bread, $15.00, chewing gum, $160.00, candy, $70, two for a quarter cigars, $800, butter, $60.00, lipsticks, $1200, coffee, $55.00, tea, $60.00, flour, $5.00, milk, $7.00—in comparison with 57½c per hundred for ABERDEEN COAL.

After all, isn't coal the cheapest thing in the world?
