'TWAS A COINCIDENCE.

A Hay-Fork Agent's Remarkable Dream and What Came of It.

"I used to travel around the country with a patent hay-fork," said the man with a green patch on his left eye to a New York Sun man, as it came his turn to tell a story. "I am not going to say any thing about that patent more than that no farmer ever got any benefit from it. What I wish to bring out is what might be called a curious coincidence, and one that I have kicked my self over a hundred times.

"It was in this way," he continued, as he got settled back on his seat. "Farmers have their weak spots the same as other folks. You can hit some of them by praising their buildings, others by admiring their horses, others, again, through their hogs or cows. I had a way of hitting them all, and it worked to my great profit every time. When I got up in the morning, after staying all night with a farmer, I got off something as follows:

"'I had a very curious dream last night. I dreamed that I was digging out behind your barn, just on a line with a big knot hole in the sixth board from the west end, and I unearthed a tin box containing ten thousand dollars in greenbacks. The dream was so vivid that I almost felt the box in my hands. There's nothing in dreams, of course, but I never had one which seemed so real.'

"Mind you, I had taken notice of the knot hole the evening before. Human nature fixed the place behind a barn, and sometimes near a stump, or so many paces from a certain tree or stump stake; but it was all settled on beforehand. It wasn't two chances in twenty that a farmer would charge me for my lodgings after giving him this dream. It hit 'em pretty strong, and they were only too anxious to get me out of the way, so they could begin digging.

"Go on," said several voices, as he made a long pause.

"Well, one morning, after lodging with a farmer all night and getting his case for fifty dollars for a hay fork, I related the usual dream in the usual way. This time it was buried treasure beneath a stump near his barn. I saw that he was hard hit at once, and he left me eating breakfast and went down to dig. I was chuckling over his greediness when he came walking in with a tin box under his arm."

"You don't say!"

"But I do, and it was a box he had dug out a foot or so below the surface. It was broken open right then and there, and may I be drowned for a yellow dog if the contents didn't pan out 11,000 in just as good greenbacks as you ever saw."

"But—but—"

"There were no buts about it. He found the money and kept it, as was his right, and never ever paid a cent to me. This 12,000 was a part of it. He gave it to me as a reward for my dream, and I felt happy it was a way to show what a lucky dream was made of himself. That's all, gentlemen, except that I never saw or heard of you, sick nor well, as soon as I was dressed."

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.

Public notice is hereby given that the firm of Smith & McCullough, doing business in Crook county, Wyoming, and the State of Oregon, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent of the undersigned members of said firm.

The said dissolution is on the following terms:

The entire property of said firm is delivered to and belongs to John J. McCullough, and he, the said McCullough, hereby assumes and agrees to pay all the firm debts and is hereby given full authority to collect and receipt for all accounts and sums due the said firm, and the proceeds of such collections, and shall be the property of said McCullough personally.

The said McCullough accepts and agrees to carry out the mail contract of said Thomas G. Smith, between Sundance, Wyoming, and Whitewood, South Dakota, and also the mail contract between Sundance and Merino, Wyoming, on the terms specified therein, and shall receive all payments earned thereby after January 1, 1891.

The said Thomas G. Smith is to pay the claim of Henry A. Smith against said firm, in his individual capacity. All other claims against said firm are assumed and shall be paid by said McCullough as hereinbefore set forth.

All express accounts due said firm through the Whitewood, Spearfish and Sundance Stage and Express line, shall be the property and may be collected and receipted for by the said McCullough, and said McCullough shall pay all claims owing by said firm in said express business.

In testimony whereof we have hereunto set our hands this 27th day of December, 1890. THOS. G. SMITH, JOHN J. MCCULLOUGH.
