DAMAGE IN JOSEPHINE.

(Journal Special Service.)

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 28.—The floods have receded sufficiently in Josephine County for some estimate to be made of the amount of damage done by the high water of the creeks and rivers. It is estimated that the damage done in Josephine County will reach $25,000 or more. The greatest damage done was in the washing out of bridges and the farms, orchards and hop yards along Applegate River and the Lower Rogue, a few miles below this city. Consul H. B. Miller's fine orchard on the Applegate was almost completely washed out. Sunday's trains from the North and South did not arrive until yesterday. The track in Cow Creek Canyon is now in such condition as to allow the passing of trains.

Everybody Smoked.

Shakespeare's plays were produced originally in theaters filled with smoke from countless pipes. So general was the passion for smoking that boys at that time made a living by lighting the pipes of smokers with burning coals. In the playhouse the smoker lit his pipe at the footlights or handed matches round on the point of his rapier, the only use, said Ben Johnson, to which the gallants of that day dare put their swords. Ladies smoked in theaters without fear or shame, a phase of social manners which seems to be reviving.
