FRIENDS GUILTY

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3. (AP)—J. W. Rogers, 37, Klamath Indian farmer, pleaded guilty in federal court today to the possession of liquor on an Indian reservation. It was shown he had the liquor in his possession for another man so Judge Wolverton gave the lowest sentence that could be imposed, sixty days in jail and $100 fine.

REFORMER SENTENCED

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3. (AP)—Jerman Fletcher was sentenced to ninety days in jail by Federal Judge Wolverton Friday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing two pieces of calico and Indian beaded work from the home of Willie George on the Umatilla Indian reservation, May 24.

It's hard for the average citizen to realize that 40 years ago there was no such a thing as a mack sing and every road was a dirtary.

Wouldn't it be nice if you could wear a pair of new shoes a few days before putting them on?

If you have kept cool in the hottest of winter it should be warmest sun with wind this spring.

La Grande Theatres

"Wages of Wives" Coming to Star, Is Great Comedy

One of the most rollicking comedies ever shown on the screen is "Wages for Wives," the Fox Films adaptation of Guy Bolton's broadway hit which opens Sunday at the Star theater for a two day run.

There are probably more good wholesome laughs packed into this film than any comedy this year, and its theme, which has to do with a fair division of the family backroll, gives it an unusually broad appeal. The scene is laid in a typical American small town, where Jim Bailey, a typical middle-aged husband, doles out to his helpmate on payday just what he thinks she should have and spends the remainder as he sees fit.

The wife, one of those meek little souls, accepts her lot with a sigh, but her daughter (Jacqueline Logan), just became a bride, considers such a system all wrong, and makes no bones about saying so. She also makes it clear that she will raise on a better break in her own home and activates a strike in which three husbands are left to look out for themselves. The results may be imagined by anyone who has ever left her husband to keep bachelor hall for even a few days.

Creighton Hale, as the young husband, while outwardly pretending to be in sympathy with the impossible demands, secretly yearns to end the strike and two of the wives soon weary of the experiment. Jacqueline Logan, as the bride, however, remains adamant until and Mr. Doyle (Jack Mason), the village station agent, takes it upon himself to act as arbiter.

Supporting Miss Logan and Mr. Hale is an admirable cast, including Claude Gillingwater, David Butler, as the wise-cracker of the village, Zena Keefe as the wife who struck because she was dragged into it, Doris Fane, Margaret Livington, Margaret Seddon and Jack Mason, who was seen here as the skipper of the Bunnerville Bradley comedies. Frank Borzage directed the picture.

"Our Gang", the irrepressible youngsters of movie fame, offer on the same program "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as their latest effort in production. A burlesque on "Uncle Tom's Cabin," it is said to be the funniest comedy they have ever made, and a classic of screen fun.

Neilan's Film of Own Story, "Mike," Coming

"Mike," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture directed by Marshal Neilan, is described as one of the best and most amusing pictures that director has yet turned out in a long series of notable successes. This seems reasonable to assume as the story itself is Neilan's own.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has given this talented director another outstanding cast. Sally O'Neil, a wonderful newcomer, Charlie Murray, Earl Sterling, Muriel Frances Dana, Franklin Pangborn, Junior Coghlan, William Haines, Sam De Grasse, Neil Sparks and other well known players appear in the picture. Miss O'Neil, who plays the title role, makes her screen debut in "Mike." She is Neilan's latest discovery and he states that she will develop into a star in a surprisingly short time.

"Mike" is pure entertainment. It abounds in comedy — of the sort that Neilan is noted for. It has a charming love story and there are many moments of intense excitement culminating in breath-taking thrills. But its chief quality is its humor which runs from subtle wit to broad comedy.

The story deals with the life of the family of a section hand whose division is that part of a transcontinental railroad that crosses the desert. The home of the group is an ingeniously appointed box car.

Also showing "Medicine Hat," an Indian classic.

Gymnastics Featured In Arcade's Sunday Vaudeville

Wholesome comedy snappy and popular musical and song numbers with gymnastic novelties are on the new vaudeville bill at the Arcade theater on Sunday.

Annett Kellett Duo appears in "Gymnastics Deluxe". It is an entertaining novelty of strength and beauty showing many thrilling and sensational feats. Mazey and Mebeline offer "French Dressing." "A Night at the Club" consists of song, dance and music, popular and ragtime sing, with plenty of amusement. Harry and Lillian Ackerman in "Vaudeville Eccentricities" are well-known as comedy entertainers and their initial appearance is the starting point of what an audience will form real sure-fire entertainment. Len Rogers is known as the "Juggling Jester."

UNION PERSONALS

UNION, (Special) — Mrs. Sadie Cutsor was hostess to the M. E. Missionary society at her home in South Union Wednesday afternoon. After the business session, light refreshments were served.

William Byers arrived in Union this week with his string of race horses and chariot outfit and will be on of the performers at the stock show next week.

A bunch of tennis players hailing from Pendleton will come to Union next Sunday to spend the entire day at the courts in the city park. Players from Union, La Grande and North Powder will also be present and a full day of sport is anticipated.

Miss Marcella Sturgill who taught second grade in the schools here during the last two years just received word she had been elected to a similar position in the primary department in the La Grande city schools. Miss Sturgill is an efficient teacher and although Union dislikes to see her from their schools the best wishes of her many friends accompany Miss Sturgill to her new position.

John Homewood who taught for a while last year in the Union high school, was visiting here the first part of the week, accompanied by his bride. He was married a few days ago to a girl living in Baker, where he also lives.

About twenty members of the I. O. O. F. Encampment lodge here made a trip to La Grande Monday evening with two candidates for the Royal Purple degree of that order. The work was exemplified by the La Grande lodge team. After lodge closed the visitors were guests at a midnight lunch served by the La Grande boys. The two candidates from Union were Vandomen and Vaughn. La Grande also had candidates who received the work with the Union men.

Frank Cutsor, head of the advertising committee of the Stock show, took an auto load of boosters to Pendleton Wednesday to find out how many Round-Up people were coming to the show.

IMBLER PERSONALS

IMBLER, (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morgan are the parents of a baby son born to them June 1. The mother and baby are at the Grande Ronde hospital and are reported to be getting along nicely.
