Syd Chaplin Provides Laughs In Sherrys Film

It is one Syd Chaplin of "Sherry's Art" and "The Man on the Box" the Syd Chaplin of the infectious comic diagram and smile and jabs and sprawling legs who appears in "Post What a Night!"

Syd starts as a newspaper reporter, but it isn't long before he finds his dandiest as a loafing coach and as a racing scow. We see him through the most wacky journalistic prices of labor since those that have been entered by a street campaign. And for more we see of him the better we like him.

Syd is a longshoreman of the front rank. Perhaps the audience prefers most the sentimental episodes of his work, as they do of Buster Keaton's, because Syd starts to play for pathos, or for courting but laughs. And laughs he gets. He gets all the laughs that you've got.

"Old What a Night!" which opened yesterday at the Sherry Theater for a run of three days, was written by Robert E. Sherwood, the motion picture critic and editor of "Life", in collaboration with Herman Roch. They have created a gorgeous, gay and rollicking story, with Syd Chaplin always in the thick of the ridiculous mixups with bootleggers, a runaway heiress and a scheming matchmaker. Not to mention letting a hot water with the editor of the newspaper, on which Syd is a reporter.

It's all Chaplin this picture, and therefore, all funny. But "Chaw" Reisner, who directed, is undoubtedly entitled to share honors, and Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays the runaway heiress, like the eye pleasantly whenever she is on the screen.

Comedy showing, "Nothing Matters."

"The Bat," Weird Story, Shown On the Screen

In Hollywood, "The Bat" is easily the costliest mystery melodrama ever made.

Roland West, independent producer, paid a record price for the screen rights to Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, authors of the famous stage play.

The recording of an all-star cast, including Jewel Carmen, Jack Pickford, Louise Fazenda, Holly Pilcroy, Eddie Gribbon, Tullio Carminati, Robert McKim, Lee Phelps, Arthur Housman, Andre de Beranger, Charles Herzinger, and Rolfe, Oriental character actor, involved a staggering payroll over a period of several months.

The huge sets designed by William Cameron Menzies, art director, had to be lighted by a special electrical plant to get the desired weird effect. An entire city office building, hotel, apartment house, stable, garage was built at the United studios in Hollywood for the production.

Every set was "wired"—that is, some of various surrounded "Bunkie," to safeguard the plot and many prowl during the shooting of scenes and some of whatsoever were employed to ferret the "No Trespass" effect.

West's ambition was to provide the public with a hundred chills, gasps and laughs for every one in the play.

Originally a novel from the pen of Mary Roberts Rinehart, "The Bat" went galloping up and down the spines of the reading millions. Then it was made into a stage drama with the collaboration of Avery Hopwood, the famous playwright.

It swept New York, smashing all box office records and dropped of road shows toward the country. Audiences abroad also hailed "The Bat" as the supreme thriller. There is hardly a town of any size in the United States that has not seen the play. It broke a three-day engagement of the Apollo theater today.

"Paradise" Said One of Best Thrill Films

"Paradise," a First National picture, received from an adaptation of Charles Hamilton's novel of the same name, is showing tonight for the last time at the Star theater.

Milton Sills is seen in the stellar role with Betty Bronson as the leading lady, and a brilliant supporting cast.

London and the South Seas are the scenes.

Sills appears to great advantage, and Betty Bronson adds much to the picture as a former dancer.

Kate Price and Charlie Murray keep you in gale of laughter every time they flash on the screen. Noah Beery is rough and tough in the role of a scheming, low-down villain. Who tries to kill Sills and steal Betty Bronson. Lloyd Whitlock, as the "heavy", is happily cast and gives a polished performance.

"Paradise" is fine entertainment. It pleased the audience at the opening and should please others. Producer Ray Rockett, one of the Rockett brothers who filmed "Abraham Lincoln," deserves much credit for his latest picture.

IRISH ACTRESS IN U. S.

DUBLIN, (AP) — Miss Una O'Connor who has left for America to play in two Irish plays, "Autumn Fire," and "Distinguished Villa," is one of the most brilliant of the younger Irish actresses trained in the Abbey Theatre in Dublin, which is the only theatre in English speaking countries to enjoy a state subsidy.

Her American engagement followed on her success in London in "Autumn Fire" by T. C. Murray, who is a Dublin schoolmaster. He is a dramatist in his spare time.

Alumni Fighting For Dr. Suzzallo

SEATTLE, Oct. 11 (AP)—The University of Washington Alumni association last night heard a description that it does not consider the presidency of the university vacant. The association is a public educational, semi-educational institution that is now considering the advisability of offering the position that it will wage a campaign to overthrow actions of regents of the school in giving Dr. Henry Suzzallo an indefinite leave of absence as president after they asked him to resign and he refused.

Meanwhile Stephen Tom Miller, national educational director of the American Bankers association, stood in abeyance his answer to a proffer of the presidency. David Thomson, dean of the school's college of liberal arts, continues as acting president.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WHEN WE THINK THE OTHER FELLOW KNOWS

Some people would be far better off if they used their own judgment rather than placing so much confidence in the judgment of the other fellow. The lack of self confidence has cost many a man a considerable sum. If we were able to think as fast as the other fellow can talk, likely our judgment would save us money.
