Uncle Sam's Navy Filmed in "Non-Stop Flight"

Scenes of Uncle Sam's great battleships, as many Oregonians and relatives in result be stationed at the time of filming and many battleships of men in battle array have a part in Emory Johnson's dramatic melodrama of the air, "Non-Stop Flight," which opens at the Arcade Theatre today and Tuesday.

Long before the production was started Emory Johnson had gone to the Pacific coast and secured the cooperation of the navy department in the production. It is stated, is an absolutely authentic pictorial record of the greatest event in the world since the invention of aviation—the world over.

As an important feature of the entertainment, Mr. Johnson introduces in many of the spectacular flight scenes the P. N. N. the navy airplane in which Commander Rogers and his men made the Honolulu hop.

Mixed into the pageant of the stirring background of the United States navy and its daring aviators is a glowing human story by Rinnie Johnson, accomplished mother of the producer, which is said to be quite the best story that has ever flowed from her gifted pen.

"Family Upstairs" Showing at Arcade Today

Teeming with human interest and pulsing over with high-class comedy, William Fox's production of "The Family Upstairs" is playing today and Tuesday at the Arcade Theatre. The film is based on Henry Dell's New York stage success of the same name and was directed by J. G. Blystone.

Interesting that one movie story has shown in this new photoplay. J. Farrell MacDonald, pace Joe Miller, the husband who "stands for anything" from his wife.

The plot of "The Family Upstairs" revolves around a typically American household. Virginia Faire plays the role of Louise Miller, the daughter who being a vaudevillian and who does not have a "nine-to-a-while". Here a good love surmounts many obstacles furnishes a stirring end to the film.

The mother is portrayed by Lillian Elliott. Others in the cast include Edward Hearn Jr., assuming the role of the brother, a lad more-to-mischiefs pal, Louis Stone, portraying Madame Clarice, a medium, and Jacqueline Wells, playing a pleasingly frank type of young girl. The screen version is by L. G. Rigby.

A new Hoot Gibson comedy is also being shown.

Thrilling Film Coming to Star Thursday

Thrilling fights are certainly no novelty in the movies. But the fight staged by Buddy Rogers and Al Taylor in "The Dangerous Dub," the sparkling Western photoplay that comes to the Star Theatre Tuesday only, is certainly worth a comedy—and a Gallant Fox after the two men have ended about a meeting tonight. Thus from the battle of manly strength Sweetheart. They engage in a fistic battle in a flat the longest with money. What results preceding the fight in the time help make up one of the most exciting action stories of recent months. Herbert Glazer directed a cast which including Sweetie Buddy and Peggy Montgomery, Joseph Girard, Fuzzy Knight, Al Taylor and Carley Evans.

A comedy will also be shown.

Mr. George: It is not true that a few wise women regarding purchase to wear mention.

WHEN WE THINK THE OTHER FELLOW KNOWS

Some people would be far better off if they used their own judgment rather than placing so much confidence in the judgment of the other fellow. The lack of self confidence has cost many a man a considerable sum. If we were able to think as fast as the other fellow can talk, likely our judgment would save us money.
