PORTLAND BUTTER MARKET STEADY

Withdrawing from Storage Supplies; Strawberry Season at Heighth

PORTLAND, Ore., June 21 (AP)—The local butter market holds to a very steady tone. The only price change on the dairy exchange effected for today's trading was a half cent drop in the price of standards, a mere adjustment in prices between grades.

With lighter receipts from the country, dealers have been withdrawing from cold storage supplies which heretofore have been moving. Storage holdings were reduced 16,733 pounds yesterday.

All grades of eggs were advanced a cent on the dairy exchange yesterday. The market trend is firm with liberal receipts developing with the continued warm weather.

The wholesale market for poultry and dressed poultry meets conditions about steady with the week's opening less active than a fortnight ago. Trading is generally slow.

Strawberries of finest quality are now on the market in considerable quantities at season's lowest prices. The season is regarded as having reached its height.

Lettuce and peas still are being shipped from the district with peas selling at 4 and 5 cents per pound. Cabbage brings 3 and 4 cents.

Operations Are Quickly Resumed On Wall Street

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The ability of the stock market to absorb early professional selling today caused a speedy resumption of construction operations which were impartially distributed among railroads and industrials.

Several high priced issues rebounded rapidly to the buying. Baldwin rallied from 223 to 228, a new high record, while Consolidated Railways "B" recovered from 239 to 241.

Other issues pushed up 3 or 4 points above yesterday's final figures, including Western Pacific, Nickel Plate, Gulf Mobile and Northern, Houston Oil, General Railway Signal and Air Reduction.

Nearly a score of stocks were quoted at their best figures for 1927, among them American Can, Postum Corporation, Chicago and Alton common and preferred, U. S. Thompson and Canada Dry Ginger Ale.

The chemns was irregular, in spite of setting pressure against several pivotal industrials, notably U. S. Steel, General Motors and American Smelting. Behind the rail to look up in the late trading, Baldwin came from a low of 223 to 228. Postum, Coastal Texas and Pacific, Union Carbide, Air Reduction and Chicago Railway Equipment, however, extended their advances considerably before returning. Many shares pushed back may upward again in the final dealings. Total sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.

Before the Start

(NEA, New York Bureau)

Mrs. Clarence D. Chamberlin (above) wife of the pilot of the New York-to-Europe monoplane "Columbia," smiled confidently as her husband prepared to take off from Roosevelt Field, Long Island. While (below) Mrs. Charles A. Levine, wife of Chamberlin's passenger and backer, posed with Chamberlin, unaware that her husband was to make the flight. When the "Columbia" took off with him in the cabin, she fainted.

ce and because he had proved himself to be a man."

In announcing Balchen's appointment this morning Byrd said there seemed to be only about one chance in 10 of hopping off for Europe tonight. He said that with such weather reports as he had he would tentatively set tomorrow as the earliest time for a take off. More complete reports of atmospheric conditions due later in the day, however, he acknowledged, might alter this guess either forward or back.

Experienced Pilot

Lieut. Balchen is an experienced polar navigator and mechanic. He came into wide notice in 1923 when he flew over the Arctic waters in search of the missing expedition headed by Roald Amundsen. Last year he was a member of Amundsen's south pole expedition in the airship "Norge", being stationed at Spitzbergen.

There he became friendly with Commander Byrd, who was getting ready for his polar flight in the Miss Josephine and after Byrd had flown over the pole he brought Balchen back to this country with him.

Balchen became a member of the flying staff of the Fokker Aircraft at Teterboro and it was he who made the test hops for the "America" last June 3 from New Jersey to Roosevelt Field, where it was officially turned over to Byrd.

During the month of preparation here Balchen has been constantly about the hangar adding to ready ways. Byrd said today that the chief pilot would be called on during the flight to act as navigator, he would be taken his turn at the controls to relieve Bert Acosta, the flight pilot. It was also believed that he might be of great assistance to George Noville the flight engineer, because of his long experience with airplane engines.

Balchen recently took out first citizenship papers.
