COOLER WEATHER AFFECTS MARKET

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables Moving Slower—Eggs Up Two Cents

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24 (AP)—Cooler weather was blamed by dealers for a slow movement of fresh fruits and vegetables in the local wholesale market today. Fresh peaches, cantaloupes, watermelons and pears were received and offered in large quantities of fine quality, but buyers went easy and seemed to hunt for bargains.

Elberta peaches are easier, topping around $1.00 in most sales. Lovels, 65s and 70s, from California, are now plentifully supplied at 90c to $1.00 per box.

Tomatoes have dropped 15 to 25c since good loads have started entering the market in quantity. Prices range from 50c to 75c per box.

Pears $2.50 a Box

A sizeable lot of locally grown Clapps Favorite pears, well graded and packed in apple boxes, were quoted at $2.50 per box and moving fairly well.

Country dressed meats and poultry were quiet and about steady on most grades this morning. Heavy hens were weaker at an extreme 22c top.

Eggs Higher

Extra and medium eggs are 2c higher at 32 and 26c, respectively, on the dairy exchange. Scarcity of receipts brought the advance, which was sponsored by the independent dealer side of the exchange membership, some of whom have felt the price should be higher since two weeks ago. Cooperative interests trading on the exchange hold, on the other hand, any sudden rise in egg prices at this time is unjustified, since their receipts of better grade eggs have not been alarmingly low.

No changes in butter prices were made. Storage holdings were decreased by 14,037 pounds yesterday.

Firm Undertone Displayed Today In Stock Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—The stock market displayed a firm undertone today in the face of unfavorable trade news and renewed weakness of the oil shares. Pools succeeded in lifting about a score of specialties to new high prices, but hesitancy developed in U. S. Steel common, General Motors and some of the other recent leaders. Trading was moderately heavy in volume, although little public interest was apparent at the leading commission houses.

A new high record was established by Baldwin.

In the motor group, Packard and Nash were lifted to new tops on what appeared to be pool buying. Public utilities also responded to reports of steadily expanding earnings with electric power, and light and Commonwealth Power, both at new peaks, in the forefront of the advance.

Rails held up well in the face of disappointing July earnings statements and August traffic reports.

The closing was firm. Isolated points of weakness continued to crop out to join the oils. National Tea dropping 10 points but the general list maintained its forward movement as concurrent strength broke out in General Motors and Mack Truck. The former crossed 224 into new high ground and the latter gained 2½ points. Total sales approximated 1,900,000 shares.

ELECTION IS SET FOR OCTOBER 18

Multnomah County to Select a Congressman to Succeed Crumpacker

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 24. (AP)—The special election in the third congressional district, comprising Multnomah county, for the election of a representative in congress to succeed the late Maurice E. Crumpacker will be held Tuesday, Oct. 18. That date was fixed by Governor Patterson yesterday in an official writ after he had conferred with Multnomah county political leaders. The writ, according to the constitutional provisions covering the case, is directed to the sheriff of that county.

In setting the date the governor gave consideration to the legal provisions relative to time within which candidates may file with the secretary of state. A minimum of 40 days is provided in which candidates may file their certifications of nomination at the state house. Counting Sundays and holidays it is 54 days until the election.

The law requiring the county clerks to close the registration books 30 days before the election is also followed by the governor.

Three Methods

There are three methods by which candidates may be nominated. To get the nomination by party it will be necessary for a republican and a democrat to be chosen as party candidates by the Multnomah county central committee of the respective parties. Upon their certificates of nomination being left with the secretary of state he will refer them to the attorney general for final legal inquiry, and if approved they will then be certified by the secretary of state to the Multnomah county clerk.

The two other methods are nomination by an assembly of 100 or more qualified electors, and nomination by petition of individual electors. An early election was quite generally favored by Multnomah county political leaders. Election of a congressman on the date set will enable him to qualify for the next regular session of congress which convenes Dec. 5, and probably for the special session, if a special session is called this fall by the president.

Bombing Suspect Investigated By New York Police

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—Bomb squad detectives today checked up the movements of John H. Netzell, of Brooklyn, who was arrested last night after a thrilling chase underground between roaring subway trains in the belief that he may throw some light on the bomb explosions in the subways on Aug. 5. When he was arrested he carried a bundle containing a blackjack, a jimmy, two torches and two steel knives. He also had an address book with the names of prominent persons.

He was sent to the observation ward at Bellevue hospital and will be given a hearing Sept. 5. According to the police, Netzell was arrested on suspicion during the war after an explosion in a powder plant.

The police questioned Netzell's daughter, who told them that he had been acting queerly for some time.

The address book, the police said, contained names of J. P. Morgan, one of the Vanderbilts and others of national prominence. Crosses appeared after several of the names. Netzell has been employed as a night watchman but has been out of work.
