Grid Races At A Glance

By the Associated Press

Although the football campaigns is drawing to its end, distribution of the season's honors among college elevens in sectional circles goes over to the final whistle in most of the conference competition. Illinois of the western conference alone has been definitely installed as a standard bearer. The sectional situation stands out as follows:

East: Yale strengthened a claim for recognition as a national eastern championship by conquering Harvard. Yale's only setback this season was from an intersectional foe, Georgia. Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburg figure as the closest competitors with an undefeated record and one tie between themselves. Yale schedule included but other elevens play next Thursday.

Missouri valley conference: Illinois closed western conference season with two straight victories and retained Ohio state falling as last victim. Minnesota also was undefeated with three triumphs and a tie with Indiana.

Missouri Valley conference: Missouri and Nebraska stood tied for championship with four triumphs and one personal victory. Nebraska closed campaign with a decisive over Kansas Aggies while Missouri closed a chance to retain the title by losing to Kansas. Missouri may take the honors by a victory over Oklahoma on Thanksgiving day.

Southern conference: Georgia continues with five conference victories, undefeated and untied. North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt in turn as runner up teams.

Southwestern conference: Texas Aggies with three victories and no defeats topped in their territory over Texas University Thanksgiving day while Southern Methodist is runner up position with Arkansas tackles Texas Christian on same date.

Rock Mountain conference: Colorado Aggies have won six and lost one while Colorado College has won five and lost one. They meet Saturday in title game.

Pacific Coast conference: Southern California, rival of Stanford and Idaho for conference honors, scored a victory over Washington Huskies at Seattle, 7 to 0, for its fourth. Stanford concluded season in conference with four triumphs, no defeats and one tie with Southern California. Idaho finished with two wins, one tie and no defeats.

Husky Backfield Man Best Scorer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — By scoring a touchdown Saturday, Paul Williams' 48th counterpoint for Southern California, boosted his total to 73 points to replace Maximovich of Idaho in the fourth position in the race for individual point scoring honors in the Pacific coast conference. Washington had no game scheduled so Charles Carroll, leading point getter, marked time at the 72-point mark.

MILLIONAIRE BROKE

NEW YORK—Eugene G. Grace, who turned a diamond for $200 and then made $5,000,000 in silver speculation, is broke. A petition in bankruptcy gives his liabilities as $15,000 and his assets nothing. He started playing cotton in New Orleans with his $200 and then came to Wall street.

Games This Week

November 24—Oregon vs. Washington at Seattle.

November 25—Oregon Aggies vs. Chicago Tech, at Portland.

November 26—Southern California vs. Notre Dame, at Chicago.

November 26—Idaho vs. Gonzaga, at Spokane.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21—The Pacific coast conference football race is still deadlocked three way. Stanford, Southern California and Idaho finished brilliantly on Saturday's games to keep their flags flying. The Cardinals and Vandals are certain of a perfect percentage in the standings, both having completed their conference schedules, but the Trojans still have the powerful Washington Huskies to tackle on November 5.

Stanford brushed the Golden Bears of Pacific aside 12 to 6 after a terrific struggle before 40,000 spectators, the largest crowd ever to assemble in a Pacific coast stadium for a football game. It was the Red Shirts third successive "big game" victory over California and assured them a final conference title, ruling of four games won, none lost and one tie.

Trojans Have Long Journey

Southern California's Thundering Herd trampled the Washington State Cougars in the surf at Los Angeles, 27 to 0, effectively concluding the speedy Ralph Hawkins while the Trojans' two stars, Drury and Williams, rambled at large. Even at that the Trojans were holding back, for they must pay to Chicago this week, where they tangle with the Notre Dame Irishmen on Soldiers field Saturday. Then they must hurry back to Los Angeles for the final conference tilt of the season with Washington on December 3, when it will be determined whether Troy equals Stanford's mark or drops behind Idaho in the standings. Southern California now has three victories, no defeats and one tie, that with Stanford 13-13.

Idaho, with its highly touted line, demonstrated its right to consideration by smearing the Oregon Aggies in the mud of Moscow field last Saturday, 12 to 7. The Oregonians were unable to prevent that powerful Vandal forward wall which repeatedly worked holes for the yard marks to plunge through for consistent gains. An intercepted pass gave the Aggies a seven-point lead, but Idaho came back to score a touchdown, missing a goal. Then the Vandals kept plugging until finally the deciding touchdown was shoved over.

Idaho Victim of Schedule

Much is being said of the much easier Idaho's chance is to show in the championship contest, Californians pointing out that Idaho only played four conference games and none of these with the "big four" Stanford, California, Southern California and Washington. Charlie Erwin Vandals did have enough to schedule a game with one of more of these teams, but they all skipped the Gem Shrine, playing there with a short schedule. However, Idaho has two to prove its claim to the record of two conference.

Idaho has finished its conference work, but Bench Cougars at Spokane Saturday to wind up the season. The Aggies closed Oregon Tech at Portland from the same day to an end-end intersectional game.

Washington and Oregon were both idle last week, preparing for their annual argument at Seattle on Thanksgiving day. Washington is confident and therefore is pointing for the Trojans, hoping to take the Welsmen to the stride. Oregon, however, has not won a conference game, has lost three and was held to a tie in the other. With nothing to lose, McEwan's aggregation is just as likely as not to throw a few curbs into the Husky machine. Washington was automatically eliminated from any title chance when all the Huskies won their games Saturday.

Montana, pollar occupant of the conference, scored a six-point victory over its traditional rival, Montana State, in a scoreless game, setting the pacific for the Grizzlies.

Following is a table of scores of the three leading teams this year:

Caused Wilce Anvil Chorus to Stop

This is the young man whose good work for Ohio state against Chicago put a stop to the Jack Wilce anvil chorus. He is Howard Kruse, a back. All he did was catch a 50-yard pass from Robert Bell to score a touchdown and later knock down a pass that would have won for Illinois Maroon score. Ohio state's victory put a stop to the anvil chorus that was howling for Jack Wilce's head.

DEMPSEY'S PLANS

NEWARK, N. J.—After the battle of two millions there was the battle of nearly 1,000,000 and after the battle of one-third of a million will come the battle of half a million. Dempsey's counsel says that if Kearns wins the present litigation the champion will then do some suing.
