FLOOD GROWS WORSE TODAY IN MID-WEST

persons along flooded sections of the Blue river were driven to higher ground. A crevice of a clay bank now covered 100 feet of street car track.

30 Persons Marooned

Thirty persons who fled their homes in low sections of Augusta, Kansas, were marooned three days in water in the Santa Fe freight depot here early today. The water was rising steadily, and there was little hope of an early rescue because rowboats could not navigate in the swirling flood current.

Ed Brooks, Kansas residents following nine inches of rainfall in that vicinity, fled to uplands after the town was flooded.

Nearly fifty families were driven from their isolated homes along Otter creek, Kansas by steadily rising waters of the Marais Des Cygnes river following seven inches of rainfall, the heaviest in 20 years.

Emporia Flooded

Raging of flooded waters of the Neosho and Cottonwood rivers at Emporia, Kansas threw business into chaos here today. The heavy rain continued. One thousand feet of Missouri Pacific railroad track was washed out there, while trains were delayed for six hours between Parsons and Arkansas City, Kansas due to a washout.

A reported volunteer workers battled last night to save a dam at Harrisonville, Mo., which impounds Lake Tapp, source of the city's water supply. Great damage to the town and possible loss of life was averted if the dam gave way.

The highest flood in history of Pleasant Hill, Mo., rises 25 inches from their homes.

Several railways east and south of Kansas City were blocked by local washes and some of motor cars were reported stranded in much water along the routes.

Rail Service Stopped

Rail service between Kansas City and Salina was stopped last night by washouts.

The Kansas River rose over 10 feet here in a few hours and was expected to crest at the Kansas City Drought at Oklahoma City from 45 to 6 feet. The Texas Panhandle reported close notice of rain with heavy rains, but no damage reported in other sections of the state.
