PORTLAND PRODUCE

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31 (AP)—Wholesale prices:

Butter: Higher on three grades. Portland dairy exchange net wholesale price (cubes): Extras 46c; standards 45c; prime firsts 44½c; firsts 43c. Creamery prices prints, 2c over cube standards.

Eggs: Steady, with firm undertone.

Milk, poultry, potatoes, steady and unchanged.

Sweet potatoes: Per lb., California, mostly 5½@6c; Porto Ricans, $3@3.25.

Wool, nuts, hay, cascara bark, hops, steady and unchanged.

Butter Grades Advance Today; Eggs Unchanged

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31 (AP)—Because of increased outside demand, three butter grades advanced today. Extras went up one cent to 46, prime firsts one-half cents to 44½ and firsts half a cent to 43.

Eggs remained unchanged with a firm undertone that may betoken an advance.

Country meats are scarce and comparatively dear. Fresh pork went up to 14½@15. Increased values were imminent in other meats as long as this snow keeps up, dealers say.

Sweet potatoes were stronger at 5¾@6.

Root vegetables are scarce and consequently high in price for the few obtainable. Stalls on the Yamhill street public market have been closed for several days and until these resume business root vegetables will continue to be scarce and high.

Racing Dogs

The name "whippet" is indicative of the origin of the dogs. "Wapet" was the old English name for "cur" and "wapping" meant the "yelping of a dog."

just as gently as possible."

Brookhart lifted his voice until it was almost a shout when he gained the floor after Reed had concluded. Referring to Reed's vote for the Kellogg anti-war treaty he said: "When your record is written it will be found that was the greatest vote you ever cast in this body."

Limitation of debate begins on the cruiser bill Monday and an early vote is expected after that goes into effect.

OUST ATTORNEY FOR AIMEE FROM HARDY HEARING

what might happen. She said that she mentioned these fears and that Mrs. McPherson told her that hitherto the case had been a newspaper trial, but that she had won these men over to her side. Mrs. Kennedy said that all this time Mrs. McPherson seemed very worried and nervous."

Heated Argument

This brought a heated protest from Ormsby. Springing to his feet, he shouted: "I want to protest against this dastardly and cowardly sort of testimony. Mrs. McPherson is not on trial and if this keeps up we will withdraw from this hearing." The argument in which several members of the committee joined came to a climax when Chairman Little said: "Mrs. McPherson is not a party to this hearing and Mr. Ormsby therefore has no standing with the committee. We have suffered his presense thus far. Mr. Sergeant-at-arms, remove Mr. Ormsby outside the room."

"This is just what I expected," shouted Ormsby.

"You have gotten the publicity you came up here for," commented Little.

Aimee Interested

"Publicity!" shouted Ormsby, as he struggled with the two sergeants-at-arms. "Publicity! Publicity!" he continued to shout the word as he was thrust out of the door.

Mrs. McPherson, clad in a beige ensemble, was an interested spectator in the ejection of her counsel. She listened to the testimony throughout the day, spending much of the time drawing pictures.

"Mrs. Kennedy told me," continued Marek, "that the defense of the case had cost $100,000. She did not mention any specific items but said that when she and Mrs. McPherson settled their financial affairs, she charged this amount against Mrs. McPherson."

Marek said the only mention of Judge Hardy's service to the temple which Mrs. Kennedy made to him was to describe him as "their first contact and friend in Los Angeles."

William Parker, another newspaperman, testified as to several interviews he had with Mrs. Kennedy, concerning the $2,500 check presented to Judge Hardy.

"Did you ever ask Mrs. Kennedy if Judge Hardy had rendered any legal services for which he was paid?" Parker was asked.

"She said that so far as she knew he had never rendered any services of any kind worth $2,500," the witness replied.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Steps to have milk declared a public utility may be taken if the committee arbitrating the price dispute between producers and distributors of the Chicago area decide to pass the raise along to the consumer without due allowance for inefficient distribution, health commissioner Arnold Kegel has warned.
