Stock Market Loses Ground

NE WYORK, Oct. 16 -(AP)- The stock market today turned in a generally indifferent and irregularly lower performance.

While scattered favorites managed to retain some improvement after the start, many early advances of fractions were erased or converted into declines at the close. Dealings were sluggish throughout.

Bullish forces were more or less subdued because of the approach of the averages to the July highs where, it was recalled, plenty of stock was for sale. In addition, numerous potential purchasers inclined to conservatism pending war developments and more light on the outcome of the November election at home.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a point, first setback since last Monday. of 827 issues appearing, 414 were down against 413 up or unchanged. Transfers of 583,450 shares compared with 683,595 Friday and were the smallest for a full session since September 27.

The salary of representatives and senators in the US congress is $10,000 a year.

Considerable Farm Machinery Will Be Ration-Free, All Right, But It Still Will Be Hard to Get

By Lillie Madsen
Farm and Garden Editor

Farm scales, combines, power sprayers and 18 other items of farm machinery will become ration-free as of September 28, as previously announced, but that doesn't put them into Salem farm supply stores, Salem dealers said this week.

A few little items, more or less missing from markets for some months, were found. Among these were trailer hitches. But none of the pieces of machinery announced as ration - free were seen. These include manure spreaders, combines, corn binders, mowers, side delivery rakes, hay loaders, pickup hay balers, wheel tractors, potato planters, grain drills, power sprayers, potato - diggers, power pumps, ensilage cutters, garden tractors, deep and shallow well water systems, irrigation pumps, farm milk coolers, farm scales, irrigation systems for milk coolers and sheet metal well-casing.

Five manure spreaders were gone in less than two hours after opening on the morning of the release, Ken J. Golliet, manager of the Sears, Roebuck Farm store, said when interviewed. When more would be coming was beyond his knowledge, he admitted. The five were on hand during the ration period. Several times that many could have been sold if they had been in stock. He said that some metal work, particularly in poultry feeding equipment, was coming in a little better the past few weeks. His store had received seven garden tractors in September after having been without any for more than a year. But they went almost as they came. No information as to when more would come was available. Building materials were coming in a little better but very slowly.

"Just because the government removed wheel tractors from rationing doesn't supply wheel tractors for us to sell to farms, or supply the man power to assemble tractors so that we can get them to sell," said C. F. Walters, manager of the Interstate Tractor and Equipment company.

"We have had scores of requests, particularly since the story of the release was made public. If we could get 100 tractors we could move them out by night. People seemed to believe that notice of the release meant that they could go right into the store and get what they wanted now. If the government could supply the tractors the new order might mean something to ps," Walter continued.

Walter urged all farmers to "hang on and repair" as long as hanging on and repairing are possible.

Managers of other farm equipment stores were not available when the farm editor made the rounds, but conditions appeared to be about the same in all places. Employes, too, seemed to be of the opinion that government releases might shift responsibility from the ration board to the dealer and manufacturer, but it couldn't shift and assemble machinery into shops.

"The story of releases looks all right in print," said one employe, but the release is of little value without the machinery and manufacturers are unable to supply machinery without help to assemble it."

Hopes were generally expressed that "things may be better by spring."

They don't come more luscious, more kissable than Carole Landis, starred with Pat O'Brien in "Secret Command," Columbia's exciting action film now playing at the Grand theatre.

Oregon Wheat Growers Show Holding Trend

PORTLAND, Oct. 16 -(AP)- Rumors of possible increased ceiling prices inspired a strong holding tendency by wheat growers during the week ended October 13, the war food administration reported today. Country offerings were therefore very light.

The wheat market showed fluctuation only in small cash values, with ordinary classes unchanged to one-half cent higher and protein hard whites down one to two and a half cents a bushel. Mill demand was mostly for special quality lots for immediate needs and was slow.

Demand for cash wheat was active in midwestern markets and spot grain commanded good premiums over deferred deliveries. Locally, future contract prices drifted irregularly without developing a definite trend.

Flax continued steady and unchanged, while the forecast of a record 1944 corn crop kept feed grains moderately weak. Demand was sufficient, however, to absorb daily offerings of corn, oats and barley.

Favorable weather aided completion of the harvest and threshing of Oregon grain in small areas. While early seedings are germinating well and much grain has been seeded, insufficient moisture has still delayed seeding in many areas. Local pastures are improved in many places, though rain is needed. Most corn is mature. Livestock condition is good.

In 1922 there were only 22 miles of railway in Alaska.

Grains Show Mixed Trade

CHICAGO, Oct. 16-(AP)-There was a mixed trade in grain futures today and markets were irregular. Opening losses were erased by an early rally in wheat and rye but profit taking developed late in the session and prices eased back to near the previous close.

At the top wheat was up a cent. Offerings were light and local traders took to the buying side, encouraged by reports that eastern bakers and the government planned to re-enter the flour market.

The war food administration was said to be preparing to buy 560 thousand sacks for export.

December rye hit a top of $1.08⅞ shortly after the opening when local traders sought to cover short lines only to find the market bare of offerings. The bulge later brought out commission house selling and prices dropped back about a cent.

Some of the early bullish trade in rye was attributed to reports that government restrictions on the use of corn for alcohol may not be lifted immediately.

At the close wheat was ¼ higher to ⅛ lower than Saturday's finish, December $1.63⅝. Corn was unchanged to ¼ higher, December $1.12½. Oats were off ¼, December 63¼. Rye was ⅞ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.08-1.07⅞. Barley was ⅛ higher to ⅝ lower, December $1.03¼.

'War Babies' Face Job In Postwar Changeover

PORTLAND, Oct. 16 – (AP) – Pacific coast industries, all "war babies", will have a harder job changing to steady peacetime production than will eastern plants with established prewar markets, Col. Willard Chevalier, New York, publisher of Business Week magazine, said here today.

He forecast a bright future, however, for West coast trade in regions bordering the vast Pacific. Both India and Russia, he said, want American machinery and other products.
