UNIVERSITY LOAN FUNDS $68,692.14

Loan funds at the University of Oregon for students now total $68,692.14, it was announced here today by J. O. Lindstrom, business manager for the university. The sum represents an increase of $4,964.70 over last year. Interest paid in during the past year amounted to $3,932.56, while donations to the fund were $1,032.14.
A total of 2,342 loans, most of them short-time emergency aids, were made during the year 1935-36, it was reported. Of these 107 were regular loans, in which students were allotted substantial amounts and given considerable time to repay, while 2,235 were loans for a few weeks or months.
During the past year students were loaned a total of $56,248.63, while the amount paid in was $52,413.34. The average size of loans was $24.02.
Use of the loan funds, as well as amounts, has increased greatly during the past few years, figures show. In 1930-31 the fund totalled $45,637.08, and 169 regular and 156 emergency loans were made totalling $23,275.92. At that time the average size of loans was $71.72. In 1934-35 the total had increased to $63,727 in amount, and the sum of $44,268.70 was loaned, in 165 regular loans and 1,801 emergency grants. The average amount was $22.58.
The program of emergency loans has been of great help to students, since it enabled many of them to pay registration fees and then repay the loan fund during the term from funds earned while in school. This policy will be followed during the school year scheduled to start September 21, although students are advised to write to the dean of men for information on loans.
The university loan fund was established more than 30 years ago through the generosity of William M. Ladd of Portland, A. S. Roberts of The Dalles and the class of 1904. In 1909 Senator R. A. Booth of Eugene and a number of others made substantial donations, and the amount has increased steadily since.
