Stories in STAMPS

"Father of U. S. Navy."

IRISH-BORN John Barry was 15 in 1760, when he went to sea. It was natural for him, therefore, to lead the small, untrained naval force of the colonies, when the revolution broke out in 1776. He commanded the first naval vessel owned by the United States and made the first capture of an English ship.

In 1781, on his return from an errand to France, he encountered two British ships, and the ensuing battle was so intense that defeat seemed certain. Barry was wounded, the colors were shot down, all guns except one were disabled. But Barry refused to surrender. Manning the lone canron, suffering from his wounds, he fought hard until the enemy ships ran up white flags.

After the war, Congress authorized construction of a new fleet, and Barry was put in command. He led this nucleus of the American navy in raids against pirates and armed vessels of France. He died, in 1803, aged 58.

His portrait appears, with the of John Paul Jones, on the new one-cent Navy stamp.
