NO FIRES IN COVE DISTRICT DURING YEAR

(Observer Correspondent)
100 Mrs. J. R. Price

COVE, Ore., (Special)—Keith McCool reports no forest fires so far this season on the forest under his supervision. Mr. McCool says the forest is getting very dry, however, and the danger season is at hand. He states that campers are not as numerous this year as usual.

Hugo Blank, who owned a harness and shoe repair shop in Cove some years ago, is again opening a shop adjoining the barber shop. He is also going to do the janitor work at the school during the coming school year.

The Camp Fire group is having a weiner roast at the Cove swimming pool park, Thursday evenin, after which they will have a slumber party at the home of their guardian Miss Thelma Anderson. The first girl to awaken in the morning is to arouse the others for an early morning swim which is to be followed by a waffle breakfast at the Anderson home.

A birthday party in honor of Rita Harris was given Wednesday afternoon. The girls all brought their dolls and refreshments were served out of doors with decorations of sweet peas. Those present were Burnetta Nusgrave, Jeanie Williams, Hazel Clark and Averill Harris. Rita is eight years of age.

Mrs. Nellie Johnson, of Keating, Ore., is visiting at the home of Mrs. Nellie Martin for a few days.

Alumni Body To Stage Play At Wallowa Aug. 22

By Edna Renfrow Hunter
(Observer Correspondent)

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special) — "The Poor Married Man" is the title of the play to be given on August 22, by members of the Wallowa Alumni association as their annual benefit for the high school. The play is a farce comedy and is being directed and coached by Miss Edith Shill. The cast of characters includes: John D. Wise, a poor married man, Orville McKinzie; Zoie Ford, Helen Dale; Rosalind Wilson, a reporter, Virginia Hunter; Billy Blake, a college student, Sidney Casteel; Juniper Jackson, a black tramp, Reid Cox; June Graham, Vera Eadlemon; Dr. Matthews Graham, a country physician, Don McDaniels and Mrs. Iona Ford, "some mother-in-law," Edith Shell.

Members of the Thompson family held their sixth annual reunion on the Al Thompson farm near Wallowa Sunday. The gathering was not as large as in former years but 24 members of the family attended and enjoyed a basket dinner and a social day together. Among those who came from a distance for the reunion were Mrs. Henry Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, of Halfway, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Buttler, of Allen, Wash.

Word was received in Wallowa by S. R. Royster, Friday morning, that his son, Roscoe had been seriously injured in an automobile accident in Walla Walla, where he was working. Mr. and Mrs. Royster and son, Wilford left immediately for Walla Walla.

Mrs. Ada Greer returned Thursday from a two weeks vacation trip to Portland and Medford. During her absence her position in Shell Mercantile company's store was filled by Miss Edith Shell.

Mrs. Omar Frick entertained eight women at a bridge party Thursday evening at her home. Those present were Mrs. Edwin Marvin, Mrs. Chas. Haupriche, Mrs. John Bratton, Mrs. Ross Hood, Mrs. Hugh Daugherty, Mrs. C. A. Hunter, Mrs. Earl Peffer and Miss Eula Marvin. At the close of the evening, Mrs. Frick served lovely refreshments.

Mrs. Jane Homan Faulkner, mother of Fred Faulkner, well known sheep man of Pendleton, died at the Wallowa hospital Wednesday of heart disease. She was buried in the Enterprise cemetery Thursday. Mrs. Faulkner was an aunt of Mrs. Earl Prout, of Wallowa.

Mrs. Margaret McDonald was in town Thursday and was accompanied back to Wallowa lake by Mrs. Marie Wiley, who will spend a week visiting at the McDonald cabin.

Miss Virginia Hunter returned home Tuesday evening for a two weeks visit with friends in Eugene.

Miss Agatha Marvin went to Lewiston Wednesday to spend a week visiting her friend, Miss Pearl Kerr.

The Young People summer conference is in session this week up South Fork canyon and it is reported that a large number of young people as well as adults are attending the conference. The Rev. Max Cook, Gordon Donaldson and Helene Allen are representing the Wallowa Christian Endeavor.

Colon R. Eberhard, attorney of La Grande, was in Wallowa Tuesday on his way to Enterprise.

Mrs. E. E. Thompson accompanied her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Buttler, to their home in Allen, Wash., last Monday and will visit there for several weeks. Mrs. Buttler has been in Wallowa with her mother for the past three months.

Mrs. Asa Eggleson, of Enterprise, was hostess at a lovely bridge luncheon last Tuesday at the J. A. Eggleson country home near Joseph. Twenty women from La Grande, Wallowa and Enterprise attended. The house was decorated with beautiful flowers and the five luncheon tables were covered with various pastel shades in organdy with cluster pieces of sweet peas. Misses Maxine and Miriam Searle, of Wallowa, assisted Mrs. Eggleson in serving. Bridge followed the luncheon hour and high score was held by Mrs. Ben Weathers of Enterprise. Mrs. A. K. Parker, also of Enterprise, held second high score while Mrs. Ray Foague, of Enterprise, received the consolation prize. Those attending the party from Wallowa were: Mrs. J. B. Gregory, Mrs. C. A. Hunter, Mrs. E. A. Searle and Mrs. George Dale.

Outlook For Good Prune Market Fair

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 9 (AP)—Indications that the 1930 prune crop will come upon a market of more than favorable character is seen in market conditions and reports here. Although there is little general activity the dried fruit trade is good. A fractional cleanup of old Oregons and a probably early cleanup of old California fruit is expected.

Growers are aware that it has been the old hold-overs in the past that has caused more or less stagnation in the prune market.

Chats With Parents

FIGHTING BACK
By Alice Judson Peale

Almost every day Letty would come running to her mother with a tale of woe—"Pearly, she fighted me," or "Billy is a bad boy, he took away my shovel."

It was with difficulty that her mother could persuade her to go back to play again. She developed more and more a tendency to stay at home.

She would think of all sorts of excuses for staying in the house rather than attempt the hardsaip of playing with the youngsters of the neighborhood.

It was plain that she really had come to dread them, that rather than face them she preferred day after day to play in solitude. Something had to be done about it.

When one day Letty as usual came in crying piteously because some child had hit her, her mother took her firmly by the hand and walked with her to the scene of the trouble.

"All right, Letty, here's the little girl who hit you. Now you hit her back."

So astonished was the other youngster that she forgot to strike back and Letty turned and ran away shouting triumphantly, "I fighted her and she is afraid of me!"

This was not the end of Letty's troubles, but it marked the beginning of a new attitude that eventually helped her to make a satisfactory adjustment to the children of her neighborhood.

An excessively timid or over-gentle child often needs this sort of help before he can learn to play happily with other children.

It may not seem ethical to teach a child to fight back but it is sound practical education.

H. H. STALLARD RELEASED

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 9 (AP) — H. H. Stallard, of Portland, independent candidate for United States senator, was released from the city jail here yesterday after serving 12 days for attempting to speak on the street in violation of a city ordinance. Stallard says he will speak next Sunday, the prohibitory ordinance not applying on that day.

A Small Boy's Dream
