WOMEN DEVOTING ADDED TIME TO KITCHEN DUTIES

"Women never change," say our most prominent students of modern society and personality specialists. Mrs. Marion Rogers Spencer agrees with them. But Mrs. Spencer also will maintain the defense Mrs. Roosevelt recently made in "Kitchenette Living" here for three days beginning Wednesday, May 2. Mrs. Spencer, that her work starts from the economic freedom of women, and that, twelve years have already a marked change in what housewives want to do and how to do it.

"In my own mind, more expensive to handling cooking utensils," says the economist. "I have noticed that women have become increasingly enthusiastic about new simple and delicious ways to prepare plain, everyday foods, and, very informalistic. This I believe is due largely to changing economic conditions and to the increase in home entertaining."

Women are now buying Grandmothers books intelligently, Mrs. Spencer finds. In her experience there appears an increasing preference for nationally known brands, while attendance at cooking schools and attention to informative magazine and newspaper articles has been definitely on the increase during the past few years, she points out.

Another recent change in women's interests as noted by the prominent home economist, is that in study and social making. Women, according to Mrs. Spencer, women have during the past decade, considered it "old-fashioned" to serve time in the kitchen to such occasions. There is now a definite swing back to old-time habits.

"In fact," she states, "the old-fashioned ways are on the way back to the foreground. They do say that even the Queen girl, somewhat misguided of course, is to be with us again, and everyone remembers that the Queen girl, even in the height of her style, was quite apt to be a rather domestic person. At any rate, Julia Lee Wright, director of the Homemakers Service, has attempted the program of "Kitchenette" so that all these days will have plenty of material to appeal to the most modern-minded housewife, no matter in what circumstances she may be."

Mrs. Spencer pointed out that Saturday morning, through the homemakers service, extends a hearty invitation to every local housewife and prospective housewife to attend "Kitchenette Living." The three-day course will be held in the Benjamin Ballroom and will start each afternoon, beginning May 2, promptly at 2 o'clock. Doors will open at 1 o'clock.

Pork and Beans

HORATIO Alger whose heroes were boys of sturdy character, all prize in Dallas and Salem should be alive to write the success story of pork and beans. Many is a working man of simple, honest, goodness, advancing slowly but surely to well deserved glory. Until within the past two years, the diehard bean and its companion pork were considered an excellent home dish but hardly a company one. They were tasty everyone agreed, but for smart, "let now you should see them at midnight suppers in Newport and on Park Avenue outer cabins." A smart magazine recently showed them in silver casseroles at the same parties with the brightest social lights.

Here are two ways of serving baked beans popular now with society hostesses. But remember that although these good old old standbys have climbed the social ladder, they are still just the thing for children's suppers or late supper and for picnics on summer afternoons.

Two Smart Recipes

Baked Beans with Sausages—Bring one small onion, five, five one small green pepper and add to one lb. 2 can of tomatoes with one teaspoon sugar, salt and pepper to taste. Cook gently for ten minutes, add the contents of one 1-pound can of New England oven-baked beans and pour into a buttered shallow baking dish. Arrange twelve sausages over the top, and place in a hot oven. When sausages are brown on top, turn them over, reduce heat, and cook slowly for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves six.

Hurry-Up New England Bean Pot—Dice one green pepper, and saute it in two tablespoons fat for three minutes. Add the contents of one lb. 2 can of tomato soup, and cook three minutes more. Add one cup cooked diced carrots (fresh or the contents of one 2 whole can), one can of New England oven-baked beans and one 12-ounce can of corned beef. Heat and to taste and heat thoroughly. This serves eight.

WAYNE GEER DIES OF HEART DISEASE AT WALLA WALLA

Wayne Geer, resident of Walla Walla for the last 25 years and a native of Cove, died at his home at 8 o'clock last night of heart disease. He had been ill for a long period of time.

The death came as a sad shock to a large circle of friends, both in Walla Walla and the Grande Ronde valley. He was a member of the late ex-Governor T. T. Geer and of Field Geer. He was born at Cove March 12, 1885, the son of Herman J. and Rhoda Dulcina Geer and spent his childhood at Cove. He married Nellie Bell, of Cove, in 1903 and two children were born, a boy who died in infancy and a girl, Pat, now Mrs. Brownsberg, of Pennsylvania. Besides his daughter and two grandsons he is survived by his widow. He was a nephew of Mrs. E. P. Bell, who died at Cove early Tuesday morning.

Burial will take place at Cove.

Smart To Be Comfortable When Travelling

By Rita Ferris
Associated Press Fashion Editor

PARIS (AP) — "Sportswear" is the watchword for smart travel clothes this year.

Busy "tailoring" suits, suits and dresses are worn by the chic continentals who evidently do manner airplane and train. In sections and loose lounge. They are designed to slip smoothly on and off and show the fewest wrinkles and the minimum effect of wear. Hats are the only close-fitting note in the chic traveler's wardrobe.

The coats which swing around the knee twice at the Gare St. Lazare have gone appear in smooth fashions, rough tweeds or plain wools. But a touch of fur is seen on the smartest designs. They are fashioned with big revers or collarless necklines and worn with a flowing cravat.

Pigskin suitcase silk, knitted wool or any other fabric which retains crease and shakes off dust may be turned into the necklines of the suits, which are either long or three-quarter length.

Suits Simple, Too

Under the wraps goes a trim tailored suit of a light wool frock as simple as the one shown. Black and gray brown and beige and navy blue and green combinations are favorite in the two-toned wools which make many travel suits out with brown-blue jackets and slender tailored skirts. Most of them are worn with sweaters of knitted wool or blouses of crinkled linen or voiles, while these require less pressing and care.

Travel gloves are almost as loose as the coats. In capeskin, antelope or suede to match the bag, they are worn at least a quarter of a size larger than the hand to give a casual, easy effect.

Hats appear in crisp straw, felt felt or knitted wool and are decidedly small. The smartest turn up in the back and pull forward over the forehead to shade the eyes, through many a model turns up all around.

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER NEAR PERRY

and did, after they left the car, until someone called back and said they could see alright. She says she then turned about and came back to La Grande.

Bonney and the Johnson woman told officers they were proceeding up the trail about 20 feet ahead of Boring when they heard a noise and looked back unable to see him. They said further investigation failing to disclose his whereabouts they decided he had fallen into the river and proceeded on to the tavern where they notified J. R. Moller and Claude Sels at that place.

The police were phoned and Officers Dick Robertson and Bob Coy made the first call. Later they were joined by Chester Walker, who had been notified and other officers. All efforts of the searchers to find Boring in the water failed until daylight this morning when his body was discovered caught against a huge rock in the current of the river, about 80 feet below where his companions had reported he had fallen in.

Chester Walker reports about four dollars found in the dead man's pocket but his watch missing. A search is being conducted for the watch today.

Boring, a resident of considerable time in the community, is survived by a wife and son and two small daughters. The body was taken to Snodgrass & Zimmerman awaiting disposition.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and happy and full of vitality.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "a-1" and up. They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Insist! substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1934, M. Co.
