AMUSEMENTS.

"The Merchant of Venice."

To be recognized as a really great Shylock is one of the highest ambitions of the actor's art. This ambition has been signally realized in the case of Charles B. Hanford, who brings his magnificent production of this master piece to the Medford Opera House on Saturday, February 13. Owing to the magnitude of Mr. Hanford's Shakespearean productions, his engagements are necessarily brief. But they are invariably brilliant.

Mr. Hanford enjoys a following such as few players can boast, composed as it is not only of those who seek the theatre as a means of simple diversion, but of people who are tempted to the playhouse only by the assurance that something of substantial and extraordinary merit is to be offered. Mr. Hanford has made an especially study of the role of Shylock. He has the faculty of making every part he plays distinctly human and he invests his impersonations with a sympathetic interest which fascinates the senses and delights the intelligence. Miss Drofnah, whose previous portrayals of feminine characters from Shakespeare have delighted an ever-increasing coterie of admirers, will be seen to fine advantage in the part of Portia. The supporting company is such as to enable Mr. Hanford to provide an admirable cast for this play, whose variety of characters and ever shifting play of comedy and tragedy has made it one of the most widely studied and most popular of all Shakespeare's dramas. Curtain at 8:45.

LOOKING FOR LOCATION FOR NEW PLANING MILL.

L. J. Quigley, J. C. Godbore and Mr. Watt, all former residents of Pasadena, Cal., and former neighbors of J. O. Emerson of the Central Point State bank, were in town Tuesday, says the Herald, with a view to locating in the planing, box and sash and door business and it was with that industry in view that they were here yesterday. They expressed themselves as well pleased with the general outlook in the town and it is more than probable that they will decide to install a modern wood-working plant here in the spring. Mill industries and some kind of a pay roll is what the town needs, and there is no doubt but these gentlemen will meet with every encouragement from our citizens in launching their new industry.

HAT FACTORIES TRY "OPEN SHOP" POLICY

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Sixty-five hat factories throughout the country, which formerly employed 25,000 hat makers, were reopened to open today as non-union shops. Today's reopening of the factories was the test of the employers to operate their shops without union men. In Brooklyn a factory reported 14 men had been engaged where formerly 250 union men were employed.

GOOD LOOKOUT FOR YEAR IN CENTRAL POINT

The outlook for a good summer in Central Point is more promising at the present time than it has ever been, says the Herald. Positive indications are that there will be a big influx of business people and business enterprises into the town during the coming spring, and it is reasonably safe to predict that there will be more substantial building and more strong business enterprises launched within the next six months than within any 12 or 24 months in the town's history. The favorable outlook for the installation of a good water system between now and mid summer is the principal cause for so many business men being turned to Central Point at the present time and it will pay all concerned persons, whether they are so directly or indirectly, to keep their eyes on Central Point for a few months and see the old town get a first-class move on herself.

FARMERS PROPOSE TO HANDLE OWN GRAIN

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 12.—Ten thousand farmers, controlling a grain output in the Inland Empire estimated to exceed 20,000,000 bushels of grain yearly, formed a hard and fast combination yesterday through the executive session of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative union, when it was unanimously decided that the executive board be empowered to employ one or more central selling agents to represent the union on the coast or at other necessary places.

This means that the entire output of their grain is to be sold direct, doing away with the middleman and his profits, and putting the farmers that much nearer the consumer.

It is stated by the officers that, while no attempt will be made to fix an arbitrary price, the selling agents will hold out for the highest market prices.

TALENT TALES TURSELF TOLD.

V. A. Dunlap of Talent was a Medford visitor Thursday.

H. H. Helms and wife went down to Phoenix Thursday evening to attend the DeMoss entertainment.

Literary Thursday evening was well attended and a lively time was had.

Bason, the Phoenix butcher, was in our town last Thursday afternoon.

F. E. Furry of Phoenix was in our town Saturday on business.

John Shofner and wife and their daughter, Miss Ora, were down to Phoenix Friday.

Men are at work here again on the electric light works, and the company expects their machinery here in a few days, when the lights will be turned on, after being somewhat delayed.

Miss Bertha Dunlap of Talent, who has been at Ashland for several months attending the normal school, returned to her home the last of this week.

Welborn Beeson, our prominent nurseryman, says this stormy weather makes the work of grafting young trees almost impossible.

Two wagon loads of spray material were brought up to the Bear Creek orchard last Tuesday, but the rain will likely delay the work of spraying, as the ground is so soft that it is almost impossible to get onto it with teams.

The Ideal Young Man.

A young man in order to be truly good must recognize several relationships. He is not alone. His obligations to others are many and manifold. Just to get an idea of the many things to consider in the ideal young man, note the following relationship:

The young man as a son.
The young man as a brother.
The young man in society.
The young man as a lover.
The young man as a husband.
The young man as a church member.
The young man as a neighbor.
The young man and his money.
The young man as a citizen.
The young man as himself.

The services at the tabernacle next Sunday night will be very interesting and profitable to all, especially to the young men and young women. However outwardly unconcerned a person may be, there are always some good questions. Hear the many good answers by young ladies Sunday night at tabernacle.

Prepaid Railroad Orders.

"Something which is of considerable interest to the public generally and which is perhaps not generally known is the system of prepaid orders now in effect between stations of the Southern Pacific company and all points in the United States. By means of this system tickets may be purchased at Medford from any place in the United States and mailed or telegraphed direct to the party wishing to come here. Sleeper accommodations and small amounts of cash in connection with these tickets may also be forwarded at the same time." tf

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Unmolested by the police, a gathering of anarchists met in a hall in East Broadway yesterday afternoon and indulged in bitter attacks on established institution in this country and the curbing of "free speech." Regulations in San Francisco were particularly assailed, and a collection was taken up to further the free-speech propaganda in that city. Alexander Berkman, a companion of Emma Goldman, presided at the meeting, and protested against her recent arrest in the west. President Roosevelt, John D. Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan and others were the brunt of virulent outbursts by the speakers.
