Oregon will be set in motion all over the world as a result of a visit to the state by Ralph R. Earle, representing Pathe's weekly, a motion picture record of events which is seen each week in picture houses throughout the United States and European countries by more than 20,000,000 people.

It was with the cooperation of Louis W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railway and William Hanley, of Burns, Oregon, that the motion picture man was enabled to secure some very remarkable views of Central Oregon agricultural and industrial scenes.

Making the trip into Bend over the Oregon Trunk railroad, the Hill line that has opened up the great Central Oregon country, the motion picture man was taken to Burns, in Harney county, by automobile a distance of 150 miles. For a week the Pathe representative toured Harney county covering more than 1,000 miles by automobile to secure films that will show to the world the openings for homeseekers on the free government lands of Oregon.

While a visitor on the Double O ranch, owned by Hanley, more than 2,000 head of cattle were rounded up for the pictures. Motion picture panoramas will show the extent of the great valleys of Central Oregon and the Blitzen canal, just completed by Hanley through the Blitzen valley. This big irrigation ditch, formed by the waters of the Blitzen river, drains more than 100,000 acres of land and is forty miles long. The pictures will show the hog and sheep industry, homeseekers coming into the country, the sage brush land before and after the arrival of the homeseeker and generally give a truthful picture of the opportunities and possibilities of Central Oregon.

Louis W. Hill is one of the foremost of Northwest developers and believes in the motion picture to give wide-spread publicity to what Oregon has to offer to newcomers.

The Pathe people have also secured a reel showing the scenery of the Deschutes canyon where the Hill lines expended an enormous sum of money to build the Oregon Trunk railroad into the Central part of the state. The pictures secured by the Pathe people are the first of the kind ever taken in Oregon and will be shown in the leading motion picture theaters all over the world.

SLEEPWALKER FALLS.

Painter at Ruch Falls While Asleep, is Severely Injured

A painter named Gear, employed upon C. M. Ruch's new house at Ruch, and who had been sleeping in a barn near his work got up some time during Thursday night and while asleep it is supposed, fell out of the upper part of the barn alighting upon his head with force sufficient to render him unconscious several hours. He was picked up Friday morning still in an unconscious condition and Dr Golden of this city summoned who responded immediately, rendering the necessary medical attention. At last accounts the injured man was still unconscious.

Hunts Deer on Road with Auto.

F. L. Camps had a very unusual experience last Thursday evening about 9 o'clock, when he came within a hair's breadth of running down two deer—a buck and a doe—with his Ford auto. Mr. Camps was coming into town with L. J. Ferguson and wife in the back seat and when near the Wyant mine about a mile and a half from town he was startled to see the two deer standing in the middle of the road in the glare from his auto lamps, which apparently either interested them or temporarily blinded them. They appeared to be fascinated by the lights and stood looking at them until Mr. Camps was within less of a foot of the buck and nearly as close to the doe. They apparently came to themselves just about that time and leapt into the brush and disappeared.
