The Most Universal Piece

No matter their gender, age or occupation, everyone should own a pair of jeans. They work for 90 percent of occasions and can be paired with everything from a basic tee to a tailored blazer. There are a lot of jeans out there. Keep these tips in mind when searching for your next favorite pair.

STYLE

This can be referred to at times as cut or the fit. The most common styles, in order of slimness ,are skinny, slim, straight, boot cut and relaxed. Different fits are appropriate for varying occasions and body types. Also take note of the fabric blend. Spandex blends can be more comfortable and forgiving but they do not retain their shape as well as cotton blends.

RINSE

This refers to how light or dark jeans are. While light jeans can be fantastic, know that dark washes tend to look good on everyone no matter the style. Avoid washes that have patches of uneven color. Slight fading of color on the thighs is OK. Washes that have otherwise been distressed through a bleaching process can take a toll on the fabric over time.

SIZE

Jeans should always fit your waist without need a belt. There are no exceptions to this rule. You may even consider getting a pair on the tight side, as denim relaxes over time. Length is also an important consideration. Jeans should be long enough to create a slight break where they meet your shoes.

When in doubt, set up an appointment with your local tailor for the perfect fit. He or she will be able to take the guesswork out of the various fits and sizes on the shelves.
