A NEW HAMPSHIRE BOY.—A good thing is floating about New York at the expense of Gen. Kilpatrick. The General returned there lately from Boston. While engaged in very earnest conversation on the cars, and gesticulating very freely—as is Kil's way of doing things—one of his staff noticed a young New Hampshire boy, listening very attentively, with his mouth and eyes wide open. The officer, thinking to have some sport, addressed the unsophisticated youth, and got floored, as follows:

Major H.—"My boy, do you know who that gentleman is you are looking at so hard?"

Boy—"No, I don't; who is he?"

Major H—"Why, that is Maj. Gen. Kilpatrick."

Boy—"You don't say so! Ain't he some on gabbing, though?"

The party retired to the smoking car, amidst roars of laughter from the other passengers, the boy still looking as innocent as a lamb. Say 'gabbing' to Kil. if you want an ugly look.

HE DIDN'T ADVERTISE.—They tell a story in New London, illustrative of Groton business enterprise, which runs thus:

A green grocer in Groton, sent his clerk to New London one morning last summer with a bag of green corn to dispose of. The young man was gone all day, and at night returned with his bag of green corn on his shoulder, and dumped it on the floor with the remark:

"There's your green corn, go and sell it yourself, I can't."

"Why," said the grocer, "haven't you sold any?"

"Sold any? No!" said hee. "I've been all over New London with it, and nobody said anything about any green corn. Two or three fellows asked me what I'd got in my bag, and I told 'em 'twas none of their d—d business."

JOSH BILLINGS' ELEMENTS OF MORAL PHILOSOPHY.—We are apt to hate them who wont take our advice, and despise them who do.

It is dreadful easy to be a phool—a man can be one and not know it.

Elegant lezzure—chawing plug tobacker and spitting in a dorg's eye.

Real happiness don't consist so much in what a man don't hav as it duz in what he don't want.

Fear is the first lesson larnt and the last one forgotten.

Nobody but a phool gits bit twice by the same dorg.

A pet lamb makes a cross ram.

Epitafs are like circus bills—there is more in the bills than is ever performed.

Tew be healthy—eat onions and go naked.
