Bataan Hero Fights to Live

Fort Worth, Tex., July 6 (U.P.)—Cpl. Jim Newman, the Bataan hero whom medical opinion has doomed to death, today was given a slim fighting chance to survive Japanese brutality.

Dr. Jack Daley, inspired by his ever cheerful patient's indomitable courage, said the 25-year-old living skeleton—he weighs only 92 pounds—had one chance in a thousand to live.

Cpl. Jim's dauntless spirit had avowed certainty he would cheat death, Dr. Daley said, might pull him through—despite his starved condition and the illnesses that struck him during three horrible years in a Japanese prison camp.

Courage and prayer — Jim said prayer alone kept him alive on Luzon—might save the Fort Worth soldier if he lives a few more days, his physician explained.

But Dr. Daley agreed with army doctors that medical science and food were of little avail now.

Military authorities had fought since his liberation last February to save the once brawny six-footer from effects of malnutrition, tuberculosis, beri-beri and laryngitis. Then they sent Jim home Monday so he might die in his own bed.

That's the way Jim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Newman, wanted it.

AL FRESCO THEATER—Service men at a B-29 base on Guam enjoy a show in the open air theater, Gab Gab Gables, in the fleet recreation area. Enlisted personnel from the naval operating base furnished the talent.

Patriotic Program Presented at Pedee

Pedee—A patriotic program was given Sunday following the Sunday school hour:

Flag salute and reading, Jack Blankenbaker; duet, Marion Elnerson and Mr. Jensen, accompanied by Shirley Rouse; reading, Betty Burbank; duet, Nola Womer and Marlene Condon, accompanined by Nila Shellenbarger; roll call of service flag, Mrs. Frank Sheythe; duet, Maxine and Myra Perry; reading, Mrs. C. L. Burbank; America, audience; prayer, Rev. Howard Perry.

Dr. Youngson Will Speak Here Sunday

The Rev. William Wallace Youngson, DD., LLD., who has probably held more high offices in Masonry than any other man in Oregon, will speak from the pulpit at the First Congregational church of Salem next Sunday.

After he was made a master mason in Uniontown, Pa., in 1896, and had taken all the degrees in the York Rite, he received the degrees of the Scottish Rite, fourth to 32nd inclusive, in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1910.

Coming to Oregon shortly after, he was a charter member of Portland's Friendship lodge and became a life member of Al Kadar temple in 1925. In 1921, he was created inspector general, 33rd degree, honorary of the Oregon consistory. He has also served as prelate to the Oregon consistory; grand chaplain, supreme council, 33rd degree, of the United States, and grand chaplain of the grand commandery, Knights Templar of Oregon.

Evangelicals to Hear Dr. C. P. Gates

Dr. C. P. Gates, superintendent of the Washington district of the Oregon-Washington Conference of the Evangelical church, will be the guest speaker at the First Evangelical church at the 11:00 o'clock and 8:00 o'clock services. Dr. Gates is well known in the Willamette valley, having been pastor of a number of Evangelical churches. He has also worked with youth in C.E. work for many years throughout the state of Oregon. Special music will be provided by the music committee of the church.

William Fawk, church organist, will play for a prelude in the morning service: "Sunrise" by Verrees; the offertory: "Adoration" by Biggs, and the postlude, "Grand Choeur in G" by Faulkes.

Youth groups will meet at 7:00 p.m. under the direction of Rev. John Pike.

Spring pastures this year were in the best condition for any time during the last 15 years.

Good Morning

Did you work or celebrate? For our temporal well being our Independence can hardly be over-estimated. But in the Spiritual realm we must realize that we are altogether dependent on our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, for our Salvation; and that our greatest Victory is in unconditional surrender to Him.
