THE WORD "MOVIE."

To 1000 editors the question was recently submitted as to whether the word "movie" is to be regarded as a legitimate English word to be used without quotation marks. Five hundred voted for the word's admission without adornments; 220 declared that the word is still on probation; 280 failed to express an opinion, but are probably to be counted with the majority.

MUCH BOOZE IS DESTROYED AT VALE

Sheriff Brown destroyed a lot of contraband liquors Tuesday, taking it to the river and breaking the bottles on the rocks.

The confiscated liquors consisted of whiskey, wine, beer, etc., secured during the raid on bootleggers at Riverside some time ago. Those arrested having been convicted and the stuff having been proven contraband, the sheriff destroyed it in accordance with the law.—Vale Enterprise.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

PUBLIC CAMP SITES IN MALHEUR FOREST AND OTHER NOTES

Both as a convenience to Forest users and in an effort to reduce the fire hazard, the U. S. Forest Rangers have been instructed to prepare attractive public camping sites. These will be located so far as is possible in places most accessible to the best hunting and fishing grounds The plan is to have a tent site leveled off, a rough fire place and table built, and a hole dug for the disposal of garbage and rubbish. These public camp sites will be posted with conspicuous signs, and it is earnestly requested that the public cooperate with the Forest officers in maintaining these in a neat and attractive condition. The use of these public camp sites is compulsory on no one, but it is hoped that they will be so conveniently attractive that the public will want to make use of them.

The receipt of grazing applications at the Forest office in John Day indicate that the demand for National Forest range for the coming season is going to be unusually heavy. The range has been fully stocked for a number of years. Supervisor Bingham states that the range will be allotted on the basis of applications received in his office up to the close of business on February 29, and that it will be impossible to give consideration to applications received after that date. Stockmen desiring the privilege of grazing their stock within the Malheur Forest should therefore see that their applications reach Mr. Bingham by the end of February.

There seems to be some misunderstanding on the part of a few stock owners as to the distribution of the National Forest range. It has been alleged that outside owners have been given preference over stockmen within or near the Forest. This is not the case. The fundamental basis on which the National Forest ranges are administered is that the owner of improved ranch property residing within or near the Forest shall have first consideration in the distribution of grazing privileges. After this class of owners is provided for any unallotted range is distributed to outside owners. It is the aim of the Forest Service to prevent monopoly of the range by encouraging the small stockmen who is building up a home.

Since the beginning of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1915, the Malheur Forest has consummated 23 commercial timber sales aggregating about 5,000,000 board feet, the revenue derived therefore amounting to about $800.

The same number of sales, aggregating 220,000 board feet, has been made to settlers and farmers at cost. This consisted mostly of cordwood. In addition to the timber disposed of under these sales, about half a million feet of timber (dead cordwood and posts) has been given away under free use permits.

Ranger T. M. Ray has spent the last two months in the Drewsey country on special detail. He reports an unusually heavy fall of snow, and predicts a splendid grass season. He has been looking after some timber sale business in that vicinity.

Grant County has realized the need of continuing the $3 bounty on coyotes in an effort to combat the spread of rabies, that dread disease the terror of both man and beast alike. In order to secure a most complete campaign against the spread of this disease, officers of the U. S. Public Health Service, the U. S. Biological Survey, and the U. S. Forest Service are all cooperating. A plan has been formulated whereby the States of the entire Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain slopes are to be divided into districts, with one man in each district responsible for the work of rabies control and coyote extermination. In so far as is possible the ranger districts of the National Forests are to be made such units, with the district rangers in charge of the work. Under this system it should not be many years before losses among stock from rabies will become almost unknown.

Rangers are busy overhauling their tools and equipment and putting it in shape for the coming field season. It is expected that about fifteen temporary men will be employed on the Forest during the spring and the equipment for these must be in shape before the beginning of the field season.

REACTION AGAINST THE JITNEY BUS

Cities are awakening to the idea that the jitney is a menace to community development, and that sending a streetcar system to the junkpile is not so funny as it seemed.

One California city on a show-down as to whether it should have jitney service or do without a streetcar line, voted the parasitic transportation flea out of commission.

In Sacramento one of the finest traction systems in the state has had its business ruined, has abandoned streets, and cut down ten minute to half-hour service on some streets.

Cars have been taken off some of the thickest settled residence streets of the Capital City, and permission to abandon other streets is being asked of the City Commission.

Sucking the life-blood of the traction system at the rate of $300 per day leaves nothing in the way of velvet to operate a streetcar system on, and there is no way to make up the deficit.

During the big storm period the streetcar lines are under heavy expense to fight floods and snow, and with diminished incomes are becoming indifferent about serving the public.

If the jitneys had to help pave streets, pay licenses and taxes on their gross earnings, run on schedules and in clement weather, whether there was business or not, few would operate.

On the other hand, they do as they please, cut down the earnings on which the state gets its revenues, run when they please, avoid the parts of the city that are most unprofitable.

Is it any wonder traction systems are suspending and dwellers in cities begin to cut out the jitney?—Pacific Coast Manufacturer.
