Coos Bay News.

A Catching slough farmer informs us that, in his opinion, the partial failure of potato crops, in certain portions the bay country, is due to too early planting. He has had the best results in planting about the middle of May. The weather is favorable to rapid growth then; but if planted earlier, during the cold rains, good results are rarely obtained. Of course, this refers to lands on slough bottoms, and not to river bottoms with sandy soil.

You Can Lead a Horse

to water but you can't make him drink.

You can't make him eat either. You can stuff food into a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course. Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't. A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use it's food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again making new flesh, That's the way to get fat.

From Christmas Home.

Died—At Eckley, Oregon, at the risidence of J. C. Clark, John Geiger, in his 73d year. Uncle John, as he was called by his neighbors and acquaintences, has been ailing since early in the spring, his health gradually declining till September 17th, at 12:30 p. m., his spirit passed from its earthly abode to the land beyond. The end was peaceful and painless when the final summons came, a smile illuminating his countenance as he glanced up at Mr. Clark. A gasp, and Uncle John's sufferings were ended. Mr. Geiger has been a resident of this section for a number of years; honest and upright in all his dealings, he enjoyed the respect and confidence of all his neighbors and acquaintences. He was not what would be called well off in this world's goods, but was out of debt, had plenty to live on, a deed to 160 acres of good land, some cattle and horses, and more than money enough to pay his funeral expenses. So far as known he did not make any disposition of his property; neither did he have any relatives in this state so far as he knew. At last accounts some of his relatives resided in Pennsylvania and Illinois. He was born in Germany, his parents emigrating to America when he was a small lad. His remains were interred in the Eckley cemetery the day following his demise. Peace to his ashes.

Dr. Elgin, the patriarch of Golden Bar, tarried over night with F. S. Avery this week, having business that called him to Myrtle Point. From the Point the Dr. will go to Bandon to visit his old time friend Robert H. Lowe. While gone the Dr. promises to do his best to find the long anxiously looked-for baldheaded widow, to keep house for Mountaineer. Ta, ta, Dr.

F. S. Avery, some two or three weeks ago, had the misfortune to fall from a shed he was building, dislocating one of his shoulders. Dr. Elgin was called and set the injured limb, coming up in the night with J. C. Clark, who had went down to secure his services. Mr. Avery is getting along nicely, but has not the full use of his arm yet.

The barn of Uncle Joe Haines had a close call from fire recently. Charley Haines and Jo Clark, who had been threshing and cleaning grain, had gone in for their dinners, when some one, I believe Geo. Waters, came in and asked Charley why he was burning off his meadow. I am not, said Charley. Well, it is on fire just the same said his informant. All rushed out, and after a hard fight the fire was under control, just before it reached the barn, but the straw and fanning-mill was consumed. It is not known for sure how the fire originated. Some think from the stump of a cigarette, while others think some matches had been left carelessly on the ground and ignited from the heat of the sun.

Messrs Thompson and Searles, who have been operating their mine on South Sixes the past summer, have shut down for the season, and gone to their home in Washington state. Mr. Thompson may make a trip to his old home in Ireland before returning in the spring.

George Waters and Tom Kelley, the veteran miners, are building themselves a nice cabin opposite to what is known as China Flat. They have a claim there, your correspondent is informed that prospects very flattering, and propose to work the same this winter.

A remark that is heard the last few days: If this rain had only come the latter part of June or the first of July our tater crop would not have been a failure.

Philadelphia Record: The name of the young anarchist who shot President McKinley last Friday has proven a thorn in the flesh. Although everybody is talking about him, and his name, figuratively speaking, is in everybody's mouth, few attempts have been made to give it a correct pronunciation. The correct pronunciation, according to an interpreter connected with the Bureau of Immigration is, as near as the English language can give it, "Cholgosh." The word is derived from a Polish verb, and as is usual in Polish names has a meaning. The verb means to creep or to crawl. Used as a noun, it meant a crawling thing such as a serpent. The name certainly seems to fit.

Bandon Recorder.

William Button returned yesterday from his ranch in Curry county. He sank the gas well eight feet deeper and has a steady flow of gas, while a rumbling sound comes from deep in the earth.

John A. Bowman, the Dairyville blacksmith, is helping Peter Nelson this week in the shop here, Mr. Nelson having a rush of work on account of the smithing to be done for the new schooner Onward which is being rigged.

Public school started up in the Bandon district, Monday, with A. G. Thrift as principal, Mrs. H. T. Wooten in the intermediate department and Miss Bell Rich in the primary room. There are 160 pupils in attendance.

Last Monday marks another step of advancement as to the future of the Coquille valley. On that occasion the handsome three masted schooner which has been on the ways at Parkersburg, was launched into the water of the Coquille, preparatory to completing the vessel, by putting on the masts, rigging up and putting on the finishing touches.

A. J. Hamblin, of Jackson county has purchased A. F. Emmett's farm near New Lake, and took possession last week. Mr. Emmett will leave on the Mandalay for San Francisco, and will probably locate in the vicinity of Santa Rosa. Mr. Emmett has long been associated with the southern part of Coos, but severs this association in quest of a change, hoping that his health, which has broken slightly during the past three or four years, may be benefited by a change of climate.

New President's Family.

New York Sun.

The personality of Mrs. Roosevelt, the new mistress of the White House, is little known to the public. Her picture has been published probably less than that of the wife of any man prominent in public life today. The explanation is President Roosevelt's right ideas on the privacy of the home. He believes that a man's public and private affairs should be kept scurpluously distinct, and this belief has always governed his own life and that of his family.

In the circle of her acquaintances Mrs. Roosevelt is known to be one of the most cultivated and accomplished women who have been members of Washington society in recent years.

Mrs. Roosevelt was Miss Edith Carew, whose family had always been intimate with the Roosevelts, and Mrs. Roosevelt and her husband know one another from childhood. She is of medium height and with fair complexion, dark eyes and hair and a decided charm of manner. She has traveled much, is a good linguist and probably one of the best-read women in official society. The amount of literature she and her husband manage to read is said to be equaled only by the famous record of Lord Macaulay and his sister.

There are five children in the Roosevelt household. The President was married when very young to Miss Alice Lee, of Boston, who lived but two or three years after her marriage. She left a daughter, Alice, who is now 17 years old. The other children, Theodore, Jr., aged 14; Kermit, aged 12; Ethel, aged 10, and Quentin, aged 4, are the present Mrs. Roosevelt's

As the wife of the Vice President, Mrs. Roosevelt has naturally appeared much in society and she has entertained the most interesting figures in Washington, both foreigners and Americans. But Mrs. Roosevelt's chief interests have never been in society. Her home duties have always claimed her first, and her children and her housekeeping have her constant personal care. She is a good business woman and her household finances are under her direct supervision.

A Proposed Railroad.

Medford Or., Sept. 6, 1901.

The Timberman: Mr. Bilton of the Medford Mail handed me your letter to him making inquiry in relation to the proposed railroad from Medford to Port Orford. In reply, will say that Mr. W. Allaway, of the Allaway Trust Co., limited, of London, is the promoter of the enterprise. The proposed route, however, is from a starting point some place across the mountains in Eastern Oregon, and coming west, across the mountains somewhere near Rogue River, tapping the extensive sugar pine belt along Rogue River. Leave the river about twenty miles east of Medford, running through Medford and Jacksonville and down the Applegate River to Illinois River, thence down to its confluence with Rogue River; cross the river at this point, follow down north side of the river a few miles, and leave the river, running in a northwesterly course through a natural pass in the Coast Range to Port Orford.

Mr. Allaway came out from London last spring, but was cabled for before he could make a thorough investigation of the proposed route. Since returning to London, however, he writes me that the prospects are very flattering for constructing a road along the route contemplated.

This is about all the information I am able to give you at present in regard to the route. Such an enterprise would be a valuable acquisition to Southern Oregon, opening up its resources, which are many.

J. H. RAY.
