Little Folks Enterprise: One of the Enterprise's Christmas gifts was a large pennant from F. R. Tichenor, now of Seattle, Wash. This banner of blue and yellow is in the way of advertising the 1914 Port Orford Agate Chestnut. The [illegible] which have probably met [illegible] eyes, are simply but little [illegible] advertising, will certainly help [illegible] spent before the public. We [illegible] long since come to the conclusion that Port Orford, his old home, [illegible] will not forget the same affection [illegible] Frank Tichenor [illegible] made some of the good old local leader when he puts his hands into the pockets of his jeans.

Salem, Ore., Dec. 30.—Declaring that there is no law in the state authorizing school boards to establish separate schools for Indian and half breed children, and that in the absence of such a statute it is the imperative duty of all school boards to admit all children of school age between four (4) years of age [illegible] Attorney General Crawford [illegible] Circuit Court of Klamath county [illegible] Williams [illegible] Crawford children are entitled to admission to the public school [illegible] the law [illegible] for Indians.

Old Election Law In Force.

Salem, Ore., Dec. 30.—Stating the election laws of the state provide that when any of their provisions are uncertain or ambiguous, the usual custom shall be followed, Attorney General Crawford rendered an opinion yesterday afternoon advising all county clerks to close their registration books May 1, for primaries to be held on the 15th of that month, and to re-open them as soon as possible for registration for the general election.

The opinion disposes of a question which arose when the Supreme Court declared the permanent registration law unconstitutional, the decision resulting in a conflict in the law relating to the registration of voters and the measure fixing the time of the primaries. The last Legislature passed a law providing the primaries should be held on the third Friday of May, and that fall on May 15, this year. This measure was in harmony with the permanent registration law, but when it was pronounced void the old registration law providing the registration books should be kept open until May 15 was revived. To continue registering on the days of the primaries, and at the same time turn the registration books over to the precinct boards would be a physical impossibility, and the county clerks were at sea as to what course to pursue.

Washington D. C., Dec. 29.—Secretary Lane proposed to withdraw all lands of the public domain suspected of containing radium, in order that these precious deposits may be secured for the general good and not become the subject of private speculation. The secretary outlined his plan today in a letter to Chairman Foster of the House Mines committee urging the immediate passage of a resolution empowering the President to make the withdrawals.

The German emperor is no longer the editorial he imagined he was. The reichstag, by a vote of 293 to 54, expressed its disapproval of his army policy, and as result the great emperor and war lord changed his plans and withdrew troops from Alsace where they had terrorized the people.

Some years ago Socialists in the Wisconsin legislature were instrumental in getting through a measure permitting all cities to own public utilities. LaFollette says: "Under this law practically all the water plants of the state have become municipal enterprises." Scores of electric plants also have been municipalized since then.
