Protracted meetings began at the Iron ide school and church house on Sunday and will continue every night except Saturdays during the month. A large crowd assembled on Sunday evening. The meetings are being conducted by B. F. Hooper, pastor-Evangelist of Pendleton Presbytery church, D. K. Laurie, Pastor-Evangelist of Grande Ronde Presbytery church and Rev. Harrison of Unity.

Miss Maud Caviness who has been very ill the past two months, passed away on Sunday morning. The funeral services were held on Tuesday at the Ironside church. The remains were buried in this cemetery at 11 o'clock, services by Rev. Harrison.

Miss Caviness has been an invalid since infancy. She was taken to Portland several weeks ago and was operated on, but never seemed to improve or recover from the operation.

Walter Hinton and wife after spending the day Sunday at C. E. Boor's on returning home were riding along through snowdrifts several feet deep, when all at once the doubletree was broken in two, and Hinton was pulled over the dashboard holding onto the lines and was thrown headlong into a large snowdrift, but no injuries were sustained, so after trying up the broken parts they drove home safely.

WHITE STAR NEWS

(White Star and Malheur Valley.)

Otis Thayer lost a fine Belgian horse last week.

Walter Moffet came down to the T. A. Boston ranch Monday to get a horse belonging to A. Carter, of Westfall. He reports that the coyotes are doing a great deal of damage to the stock there. John Zimmerman has lost thirty head of cattle besides a great many hogs. Eastern Oregon will certainly be ruined if something is not done immediately to exterminate the coyote.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Jan. 11.—The young people of Malheur county who are attending the Agricultural College this year are as follows: H. M. Curry '15, of Ontario; George Hardman '15, of Ontario; Thomas Lowe, of Nyssa; Esther South and her brother L. G. South, of Juntura; George Maddux '18, of Ontario; Clinton Anawalt, of Jordan Valley. Those who attended the institution last year are among the most popular students on the campus.

Hiram Curry, of Ontario, held a place on the annual triangular debating team of the college this year. The results this year will determine who will receive the prize of the various competing institutions. Mr. Curry was also on the team last year in the debate against the University of Idaho, which took place in Corvallis. Since entering school he has been very active along this line and has been rewarded by being elected president of oratory and debate this year.

Esther South, of Juntura, who also attended the college last year, is president of the Madral club of this institution this year, this club being composed of the best singers in the school. She possesses the best soprano voice that has been in the club for several years. She is also prominent in other student activities and is a member of the choir in one of the local churches.

The Cosmopolitan club of the college, of which George Hardman is president, held its ninth semi-annual meeting recently in Shepard hall. It was featured by several songs, lectures and a dainty repast. Steps were taken to raise money to send a representative to Berkley, Calif., next semester, to the annual conference of representatives of the associated Cosmopolitan clubs of America.
