Late investigations of business reports tend to discredit the French science enthusiasts, and what for a time brightened the Eiffel tower and filled the hearts of a great array of talented visitors [illegible] strength of deep conviction. One of the factors in the Japanese labor question that as yet has been given but little consideration, is that many of our big industries are now putting up big plants in China and Japan. Intemperance.

The statistics which have appeared in the temperance column of the TRIBUNE on alcoholic beverages, during the past few weeks, taken from a speech of Richard P. Hobson before the United States Senate, are well worth the careful consideration of every thoughtful reader. They have been compiled after years of research into the subject and can be taken as absolutely reliable.

Mr. Hobson shows up conditions brought about by the use of Alcoholic beverages—the inroads they are making into the moral and economic life of the nation—that are startling in the extreme, and far beyond anything the average man has dreamed of.

It has been said that all questions have two sides, but this is a question with but one side. Nothing, absolutely nothing, can be said in favor of the use of alchohol in whatsoever form, while volumes can be written of the evil effects inevitable to its use.

Good Roads.

In speaking editorially of good roads last week the Gold Beach Globe makes the suggestion that the assessed valuation of the county be raised (doubled) before a bond issue is made.

If Curry county is to be bonded at all for the improvement of her highways, this is a good idea. The limit for which the county could be bonded now, $80,000, would only make a good beginning. First there would be the surveying and relocating of a large portion of the present road. By the time these changes were made, and $30,000 or $40,000 used for the building of a bridge across Chetco river, the $80,000 would be almost, if not entirely, consumed.

There is but little question that a good highway running through Curry county, and another one up Rogue river, would do more to develop the county than a coast railroad. But $80,000 will not do it. Valuations must be raised, or some other means devised for raising a larger sum of money.

States, Illinois [illegible] piled from the pacific states, that the wealth of the country was being rapidly absorbed by the few, the class who produced nothing. It was then that old party leaders discovered that we were a lot of half-brained calamity howlers, utterly ignorant of the "science of business and finance." But old party managers have been gradually learning, and some of them have mustered up courage enough to speak out even in the halls of Congress and use precisely the same arguments and statistics used long ago by the Populists, and since with greater elaboration by the Socialists. For instance, A. W. Lafferty, Republican member from Oregon, has prepared a bill making Press Associations common carriers subject to all the limitations and penalties applicable to the common law of carriers, and in support of his measure says:

"My investigations as congressman have convinced me that the news trusts are under control of the money power and that they do not give vital facts to the public which the public ought to know. For example, while the wealth of the United States is $125,000,000,000, making us the richest country in the world, it is also true that 50 men own 40 per cent of this wealth.

"It is further true that 200,000 men own 70 per cent of this wealth, leaving 30 per cent for 91,800,000 people. This deplorable condition has been brought about by special privileges. The money power has controlled elections for 50 years and has controlled legislation and enforcement of laws after elections. This would be impossible if we had a free and untrammeled dissemination of news.

"To bring about this revolution is the object of my bill. The money power today controls the dissemination of news and indirectly exercises powerful influence on the editorial policy of all newspapers. This power will be broken if my bill becomes law, and the press of the country will be set free. Then the common people will have their innings in the election of officers, in the passage of laws, and in the enforcement of laws. Then special privilege will be eliminated and every man who works will be able to buy with his earnings a comfortable living for himself and family, take a vacation of at least thirty days each year in the mountains or at the seashore and lay by a little for his old age besides."

[illegible] paid [illegible] the [illegible] Company to establish a large cold storage plant at Port Orford. Should this plan materialize, the business may in a short while reach stupendous proportions, as the harbor of Port Orford is open at all times and is ideally situated for the business and sea fish in large numbers are known to abound in that vicinity.

(Coos Bay News.)

Sheriff Gage and deputy, Glen Cox, arrived from Coquille yesterday with the prisoners, Greenleaf, Winkler and Edwards, whom they were taking to the penitentiary. The two former are under sentence for assault with intent to commit rape, and Edwards goes up for forgery.

The Adeline Smith arrived at her dock at the Smith mill about 8 o'clock on Friday morning. She loaded over 1,500,000 feet of lumber and went down the bay before midnight, crossing the bar, outward bound, at 1:45 a. m. on the morning of the 10th. This is certainly going some.

After June 5th, the new law, which will then become effective, requires a medical certificate to be filed with the County Clerk by every male person who applies for a marriage license. This certificate must be signed and sworn to by a physician duly authorized to practice medicine within the state of Oregon. The physician must certify that he has examined the applicant and "that from said examination I have found said applicant to be free from contagious or infectious venereal disease."
