IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF OREGON FOR CURRY COUNTY. C. E. Owen, Plaintiff, vs A. Decker, Defendant. SUMMONS. IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: To A. Decker, the above named defendant: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of plaintiff filed against you in the above entitled court and cause within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, namely, January 30, 1918, and if you fail to so appear and answer, or otherwise plead for want thereof plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sums demanded in his said complaint, namely, for the sum of Thirty Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from February 11, 1915, and for the sum of Seventy-Seven Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from April 12, 1915, and for the sum of Forty-Three Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from May 12, 1915, and for the sum of Eighty-Five Dollars and thirty-five cents, and for the sum of Sixty-Three Dollars and forty-five cents, and for the sum of plaintiff's costs and disbursements in this action accruing; and plaintiff will also apply for an order for the sale of certain personal property heretofore levied upon and attached in the above entitled cause, as shown by the Sheriff's return of writ of attachment on file and of record in the above entitled court and cause. Service of this summons is made upon you by publication thereof in the Port Orford Tribune, a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in Curry County, Oregon, pursuant to an order of the above entitled court dated, made and entered on the 22nd day of January, 1918, authorizing such service upon you by publication of said summons in said newspaper for the period of six weeks. The date of the first publication of this summons is January 30, 1918.

Local Happenings

Say a Few Words

Preparations are being pushed for the dance that will be held in Langlois Saturday night, Feb. 9th.

Guy Woodcock has recovered from his recent serious illness sufficiently as to be able to be about the streets again.

Jas. Crew, who is working on the Middle Elk road, spent a few days with his family at Langlois last week.

Tom Nielsen and Mr. Harrington, the latter a hardware drummer, made a trip by private conveyance from Bandon to Gold Beach the latter part of last week returning north yesterday.

Mr. Hopkins, who conducts the Arlington ranch at Corbin, is credited with sending to Portland a sack of potatoes he grew, each one of which weighed four pounds or more. Can you beat it?

A very pleasant surprise party was given Mrs. L. Knapp, who had just returned from Portland, by a number of her friends last Saturday evening. Music and refreshments helped to make the occasion an enjoyable one.

E. L. White has just received a supply of hunting and fishing licenses, and those who intend engaging in these sports will do well to call on him before their neglect and the unexpected meeting of a game warden costs them the price of many licenses.

The State Highway surveyors moved their camp last week from Port Orford to the old Fromm place at Brush creek. It will not take them a great while to complete the survey to that place, after which more rapid progress will be made in running a locating line through the rest of the county.

B. W. Bean returned Saturday from a trip to Roguerivet where he went to investigate some claims that had been sent to the state for fighting fire last fall. These claims had not been paid in when the general settlement was made at the close of the fire season, and hence they are being acted upon at this time.

There was a full house at the church services in Port Orford last Sunday evening. Rev. Van Winkle preached an able sermon on "What is a Christian." A male quartet composed of A. J. Marsh, A. S. Johnston, N. H. Larson and W. E. Best furnished some special music that was a pleasure to hear and a real treat to the audience.

Mrs. L. Knapp returned Thursday from Portland where she had been spending several weeks for medical treatment. Not only was her health benefitted, but she had a very enjoyable time while in the metropolis visiting with friends—Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Tichénor, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Hermann, Dr. Jaeger and family, and others who had at one time or another enjoyed the hospitality of the Knapp hotel.

M. G. Lutsey, ex-Curry county cheese maker, has signed to wrestle Frank Jackson, of Seattle, in Marshfield next week. Lutsey, who lost a contest in the bay town two or three weeks ago to Eddie O'Connell, is being trained at Coquille for this match by champion Walter Miller. Those who witnessed the comparative ease with which Lutsey defeated O'Connell in their second match at Port Orford, still believe he can win from the Multnomah club wrestler when the occasion demands.

Geo. Diehm was in town Monday from his home on Sixes and called at this office. Mr. Diehm has been caused considerable annoyance by being charged with being an alien enemy. People who make such accusations without knowing whereof they speak are doing a serious wrong. Last April Mr. Diehm filed before the editor of the TRIBUNE on his homestead and at that time his naturalization papers were sent with his filings to Roseburg, and from thence, as in all such cases, to the general land office at Washington. They have been written for, but not yet returned. A citizen of this country, no matter from whence he came, so long as he attends to his own business and gives no reason for suspicion of disloyalty is entitled to his full rights as such a citizen and should be free from such annoyance as has troubled Mr. Diehm.

The early gardener is commencing to get busy.

Guy Fennefield, of Rosebud creek, is in Portland where he expects to enter the street car service.

If you enjoy a good dance, don't fail to attend the one given here tomorrow night by the Port Orford band.

Oscar Mather of Sixes, not to be out done by his neighbors on the McPhillamey farm, has also ordered a Dodge automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zumwalt are planning on moving out in the near future to their large dairy farm at Sixes. Postmaster Johnston will assume the management of Mr. Zumwalt's store in town.

Operator E. L. White spent several days last week repairing the local and long distance telephone lines. The wind that put the wires out of commission was the hardest experienced here yet this winter.

Gent Russell and Fred Fish, who bought the hogs on the A. B. Carey place near Corbin, have put up about three tons of ham and bacon and expect to cure about that much more before they are through killing. The hogs there have grown very fat on the acorns, and the young men are going to realize a neat sum from their investment.

When R. N. Stanfield first announced his candidacy for United States Senator, he said he would conduct his own campaign. He is keeping his word. Those who expected to see him fit up elaborate and expensive headquarters in Portland and direct his campaign through some "manager", are disappointed. Contrary to custom, Mr. Stanfield is conducting his own campaign and is his own campaign manager.

E. M. Bogardus was in town over night the latter part of last week returning to his Gold Beach home from a trip to Eugene and Portland, where he went in an endeavor to get in the ordnance department of the army. He was turned down however, or rather, he was informed that he could not get into the service without taking the full military training and he was advised not to attempt this on account of his age. His return at this time will cause some of the politicians uneasiness until it is found whether or not he is officially dead.

Arbor Day Exercises.

Arbor day exercises were held in the Port Orford school last Friday afternoon. Songs and appropriate recitations were rendered by the children, and later they planted a number of small cedar trees on the school grounds under the supervision of Forest Ranger J. B. Curl.

Mr. Curl read a paper to the children which he had prepared on the Forestry question. He touched upon the history and great value of the Port Orford cedar, which they were planting, and also of the important part that wood in general plays in the life of mankind and of the necessity of conserving it. We would like to publish the Forest Ranger's remarks in full, but space prevents us doing so.

Will Cut Aeroplane Material on Euchre Creek.

Fred Fish visited Port Orford last week for the purpose of conferring with N. H. Larson in regard to cutting cedar for aeroplane stock. Mr. Fish owns a mill on Euchre creek and had a considerable number of logs cut, but he found out when here that aeroplane material must be not less than 18 feet in length. Mr. Fish will haul his lumber to Rogue river for shipment. One thing that has discouraged him from doing this in the past has been the high freight rates out of the river. This, however, will be obviated in the future, as the cooperative company starting in business at Gold Beach has assured Mr. Fish that he can get reliable and reasonable shipping facilities on the boat the company is going to put on the run out of that port.

Mr. Fish contemplates selling the mill he now owns, in which event, associated with one or two companions, he will probably build another mill near the junction of Euchre and Cedar creeks that will be used exclusively for the sawing of Port Orford cedar. The 18 foot logs on hand, he will saw and ship to Coos bay where it will be sold to the Fyfe-Wilson company.

Whistling Cause Him to Part Company.

Fifteen dollars is what it cost a young man in whistle in Justice Wright's court at Port Orford Monday morning.

Saturday night D. Davidson and Fred Blackburn, members of a party of campers enroute to Sixes that night, were arrested by constable Jas. Lane for disturbing the peace. Monday forenoon they were arraigned before Justice Wright. During the hearing Davidson, with a cigarette in his mouth, started whistling a jaunty air, whereupon the court gave him a lecture upon the dignity of the law and put his fine at $25, while his companion was let off with a $10 penalty. The young men decided to board their fines out in the county bastile at the rate of $2 per day and were taken to Gold Beach the same day by constable Lane.

When asked if it was customary to whistle in Port Orford Justice Wright replied that it depended upon the tune, the time and the place.

American Lives Lost in First Submarine Tragedy of the War.

The first toll taken by the submarine warfare upon the lives of American soldiers happened last week when the big transport, "Tuscania," was hit amidships by a torpedo and sank within sight of the Irish coast. There were 2179 soldiers and crew aboard the liner when she went down, and while the exact number of lives lost is not known at this time yet it will be somewhere between 150 and 200 people.

The Tuscania was a big ship of 14,348 tons gross. She belonged to the British government, and was convoyed by a British patrol. The periscope of the submarine had been sighted and she was changing her course when struck. A second torpedo missed her. The submarine is believed to have been destroyed by a depth bomb.

A lucky sea and the fact that the ship did not sink for an hour or two after being hit is responsible for the small loss of life. The U. S. soldiers on board are said to have conducted themselves with much valor, and they are now anxious to get at the Huns in retaliation. Four or five Coos county boys were on board, but so far as known there were none from Curry.

Returns Home from Visit at Camp Lewis

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gauntlett and two daughters, Misses Lottie and Estelle, were in Port Orford over one night last week while returning to their home at Gold Beach from spending three months at American lake. They had been visiting with Harry Gauntlett, former cashier of the bank of Curry County, who is one of the soldiers at Camp Lewis. Mr. Gauntlett says that his son, who has been working in the clerical department ever since he went to this encampment, is looking and feeling fine, as are all of the Curry county boys stationed at that place. He says the strenuous work with its regular habits seems to agree with the young men and that nearly all of them are gaining in flesh.

The family were glad to get back to Curry again as they were not without their troubles while away. Mrs. Gauntlett and two daughters had the measles, and the former was also troubled with throat affection. Nor did Mr. Gauntlett escape, as he came home with a badly swollen jaw, the result of some not unlike experience he had been having with an unruly tooth.

While Mr. Gauntlett said the government was caring for and feeding its soldiers well at American lake yet he called attention to one condition that seems like unnecessary and inexcusable procrastination upon the part of the War department. This is in the payment of money to the soldier's dependents. Where the soldier has a family, half of his pay is held up and an equal sum is supposed to be paid with it and the full amount given to the families. To the present time none of the dependents at American lake have received anything from this fund. Mr. Gauntlett said in several instances where the soldier's family had come to Camp Lewis to be near the husband and father, that subscriptions had been taken up to keep them from actual want and suffering because this allotment had not been forthcoming.

Lassen' War Song.

Tune of Sons Song.

Come all you Lassenites
From Curry and Coos,
Come on Boys,
Get out the rusty old muskets,
Roll 'em down the river,
Row 'em in the ocean,
For we're going get the gost
Of old Kaiser Bill.

(Chorus)

Throw on your clothes,
And tighten up your shoes,
Soon we'll have the ghost
For a million sawdusters.
Speed up your donkeys
And jerk 'em down the hills,
For we're going get the gost
Of old Kaiser Bill.

Send 'em down the river,
Load 'em on the car,
For every log we get
Helps to win the war.
Sing as you work
With a right good will;
We're gonna get the gost
Of old Kaiser Bill.

No Place Like Oregon.

C. C. Inman, superintendent of the Hydro-Sixes Mining company where extensive improvements are planned for this coming summer and who is now on a trip east in interest of his company, writes the TRIBUNE, in part, from Providence, Rhode Island, as follows:

"If some of our Oregon friends could come east and see the amount of suffering due to coal shortage and extreme cold weather, and also the shortage of sugar and other staples, it would forever cure them from complaint, as they have everything in the world and don't know it."

Death of Mrs. Helen Nye.

Wednesday Mrs. Fred Belloni here received the distressing news of the death of her sister, Mrs. Helen Nye, of blood poisoning at her home in Reno, Nevada.

Mrs. Nye was reared at Langlois in Curry county where her mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Cope, survives her. She leaves her husband, J. M. Nye, and two children, the youngest only two and a half years old.

The Nye family resided for many years in this city, where they built the elegant home recently sold to Mr. and Mrs. Belloni, and where Mr. Nye was 10 or 12 years ago engaged in the mill business. Mrs. Nye visited her relatives here and in Curry county no longer than six months ago and then seemed the picture of health; hence the news of her departure comes with stunning force.

This is the third sudden death in the family, a brother having been killed in jumping from a moving train, and her father having dropped dead on the streets of Coquille.

The sympathy of all our people goes out in full measure to the stricken family in this hour of their bitter bereavement.

Since the above was written further information has been received by the relatives to the effect that the funeral will be held in San Francisco and the remains will be interred there. Her sister, Mrs. Belloni, will start for Reno tomorrow morning to be with the funeral party.—Coquille Sentinel.

The above account from the Sentinel of the death of Mrs. Nye will be read with much sorrow by the many friends of the deceased in this county. Helen M. Cope was born June 14, 1880, and came to Curry county with her parents when but 7 years of age. She grew to womanhood at Langlois, and for several years was one of our county's most successful school teachers. She was a young woman of fine character, and has a wide circle of friends in this section who mourn her untimely death. Besides her mother, Mrs. Nye is survived by two brothers residing at Langlois—Ralph E. and Lee Cope.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican Nomination for Sheriff, subject to the will of the Republican voters of Curry County, Oregon, as expressed at the coming Primary Election to be held May 17, 1918. If I am nominated and elected I hereby pledge myself to enforce the Bone Dry Prohibition Law strictly and impartially.

Respectfully,
FRED H. BAGBY.
