Many Crook countyites have given up all hopes of living to see the O. P. completed through the county.

The people of Prineville have about given up the idea of celebrating the national anniversary this year.

Still the new goods come at the Racket Store. Laces, embroideries and flouncing of all grades; call and see them.

The first of June came on Sunday, hence the monthly advertising bills of the REVIEW will be presented to-day.

W. G. Pickett started last Tuesday for Fort Worth, Texas, where he goes to look at the country with a view of locating.

Manuel Sichel returned last Saturday from Portland. A few weeks in the metropolis seems to have agreed with him.

Although there was a big democratic victory in Crook county, the REVIEW and S. F. Call are yet furnished at $2 75 a year.

Should you receive a statement of your account with the REVIEW please take it as no offense but as an urgent request to settle.

Mowry was the last precinct to hear from after the election, and for a time it was the most important place in the county.

Grain, especially rye, prospects well on Ochoco, the frost having damaged grain less on Ochoco than any other part of the county.

The News calls our attention to the fact that Mr. Dillard, during the absence of the editor, made some conflicting statements in the issue of the REVIEW of May 24. We acknowledge the fact, and conclude it serves us right for having employed a republican to edit the paper during our vacation of a week.

The only fight we heard of on election day in the county was one on Willow creek between Jule Edmund and H. C. Newman.

Agent Luckey was over from the Warm Springs Monday with a number of his associates who all voted the republican ticket straight.

The miners at the head of Ochoco have done considerable work this spring, but water is now failing and work will suspend ere long.

New goods every week at the Racket Store, and they are sold at the lowest prices but we must sell strictly for cash in order to do so.

J. E. Roberts' little daughter, aged six months, died at Newsom creek last Saturday, and was buried at the cemetery there last Sunday.

Ah Doong & Co. received some elegant goods from below this week. All the articles they carry in Chinese and Japanese lines are first-class.

The recent frosts are said to have not materially injured the fruit crop on Bridge creek, the principal fruit growing section of this county.

Hon. C. A. Henry, of Chico, Cal., is here looking after his stock interests in this county. Mr. Henry expects to spend the summer in Oregon.

Election day passed off very peacefully, here, good humor prevailing all day, though there was some hard work done by all interested parties.

Andy Foster, of Summer Lake, and Tex Silman, of Burns, will be here on the 4th of July, each with a stable of horses to take part in the races.

Last Monday a pair of twins, a boy and girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. John Templeton. The little girl only lived a few hours, but the boy is doing well.

Med Moore came in on Thursday from Silver Lake. He brought the returns from three precincts in Lake county, which gave Pennoyer 68 majority and Townsend 80 majority.

Attorneys Parnes and Moore returned last Saturday from Harney City, where they had been attending circuit court. They succeeded in getting their client, Wm. Page, dismissed.

Now, that the excitement of the election is over, we will have more space to devote to the interests of Crook county, and will endeavor to make the REVIEW indispensible to every citizen of the county.

Ladies love a real live count, and there is a very live count just now, waiting for anybody to accept him. His headquarters are at Sichel's store. We refer to the discount Sichel is now making to all buyers.

The report got around town that Sichel had a trying time in his store with a young lady, which resulted in a fit. It was true enough, for Si had been trying on shoes, and gave the young lady a perfect fit.

"Have you heard from Mowry yet?" was the rolling question put by anxious politicians up to Thursday afternoon, when the returns from that precinct came in with a majority of nine for the democratic ticket.

Linn Woods, coroner elect, feels considerably elated to think that he ran ahead of Governor Pennoyer in one precinct. In Mowry he received one more vote than did the governor. Linn is evidently a popular man in that section.

We have downed them again! downed what? the prices at the Racket Store. Call and see the new goods, get the prices and you will be convinced that we have downed the prices on every thing we keep. MRS. S. A. LOOMIS.

Harney county is starting off in the right direction judging from the work of the recent grand jury. It failed to report a single bill of indictment. This speaks well for a new county on the frontier, where it is supposed laws are not always regarded, and says much for the morals of that county.

This week Sam C. Cline took charge of the meat market formerly run by Albert Wilson. Mr. Cline came here from Missouri last fall and is highly recommended as an industrious, competent business man, one well worthy of the confidence of the people. We bespeak for him a good business here.

D. F. Stewart returned from Portland on Friday of last week. While below he had intended to have bought a roller process to be used in his flouring mills here, but owing to the prospects for short crops he deferred making the purchase until later in the season. If the wheat crop turns out well he will put in the rollers.

It is indeed, a rather unpleasant outlook for grain crops at present. The recent frosts have injured much of the early grain, and now abundant rains are necessary to insure late grain making a crop. Should Crook county again fail to raise its breadstuff there will be a great drain on the wealth of the county this fall for flour.

On Tuesday evening, July 8th, Samuel P. Putnam will lecture in Prineville on the "Demands of Liberalism." Mr. Putnam has a world-wide reputation as a lecturer on liberalism, and is recognized as being one of the ablest speakers on that subject in the United States. His lecture will be perfectly moral and will no doubt be appreciated by all, Christians and disbelievers alike.

The "Salt creek" excursion this year will be composed of republicans, with the exception of Tom Davis, who ran on the democratic ticket for constable of this precinct and was defeated. Tom says he will accompany the excursion as pilot, and will pilot the boys so far up the creek that they will not get back in time to vote two years hence.

On last Sunday, June 1st, Mr. P. B. Doak and Miss Eva Dunham were married at the residence of J. A. Douthit, in Prineville, Rev. F. R. Spaulding officiating. The happy couple started on Tuesday for Pullman, Washington, where they will reside in the future, and their many friends wish them a pleasant journey, not only to their new home, but also to a ripe old age of blissful married life.

David Prine Is Dead.

Last Sunday, all that was mortal of one of Ochoco's foremost men was laid to rest in the Prineville cemetery. Grand, noble David Prine. The world will go on, our lives will seem unchanged, but we all will miss the more than generous neighbor, the true friend, the manly man whom we all knew and, knowing, learned to love and respect.

David Prine was born in Jackson county, Missouri, Jan. 2, 1831. He was in the government employ during the Mexican war, then only a mere lad, was married to Elizabeth Rey, April 29, 1850, moved to Oregon in 1852, settled in Linn county where he resided until 1872, when he moved to this county, residing here until the time of his death, May 29, 1890.

His early days were spent on the frontier and amid dangers and toil. The highway of his early youth was the trail through the woods from one settlement to another, surveyed and laid out, not with the rod and chain, but with the axe of the frontiersman blazing the trees to give the traveler or lost woodsman his points of compass and his way onward. His memory dwelt on the very uncertain and ordinary privileges of the pioneer school, and what his boyhood lacked he strove to make up to the children of the day.

Though not a church member, his private life exemplified the virtues of truest religion. He was much given to charity, not merely in the bestowal of alms, but in the kindness of his heart and the tolerance of his spirit toward all. He obeyed the apostolic injunction and lived in peace with all men as far as it lay in his power to do. He never gave the first blow in a personal controversy, and never failed to defend a friend.

We shall see David Prine no more with our mortal eyes. He has gone from his place on earth to the realms of immortality. He is lost to society, home and friends. We will follow him—he will return no more. As long, however, as memory lives we who knew him will cherish his name. Monuments of brass and marble may never lift their heads toward heaven in honor of his fame, but a monument more precious to his memory and more valuable to our little world has already been formend in the hearts of the people who knew him. In the busy harvest time of death there was gathered into eternity no nobler spirit, no more generous heart, no fairer soul than that of David Prine.

Burglars at Pendleton.

Yesterday employes of the Pendleton Hardware and Implement Company were surprised on entering the store to find that the back door had been pried open with a stout poker, which was found lying near, and entrance effected. The thieves were then monarchs of all they surveyed, but as the aric light was burning, were in a hurry to gather in their plunder and go. They hastily pried open the till with an adze, in which had been left about $3 in small change, and then raised the show cases and windows. Two boxes of cutlery, a dozen or more fine Mascotte raisors, about nine revolvers and several small articles were found to be missing this morning. The loss is estimated at $60. There is no clue to the thieves. They must have been acquainted with the store's surroundings and the location of the till.

About a year ago the store was burglarized in a similar manner, the midnight marauders effecting an entrance through a window. Possibly both were committed by the same parties.—East Oregonian.

M. E. Conference.

It is announced in a recent issue of Zion's Herald, an official organ of the M. E. Church, that the next session of the Columbia River Conference to convene July 27, will be held in Pendleton. Bishop J. H. Vincent, originator of the famous Chautauquan system of home culture, which now has reading circles in almost every city, town and hamlet of America, will preside. This will give all Chautaqua students and admirers of the famous and scholarly man an opportunity to hear and see him personally, which they will doubtless be glad to do.

The various census enumerators have probably seemed somewhat impertinent to some, by the questions they ask, but they have a regular routine of inquiries to make, and no one should take offense at their seeming impertinence.

Encouraging R. R. Prospects.

C. W. Brown, an engineer in the employ of The Dalles Southern R. R. Co., spent last Sunday in Prineville. He says the company is in earnest about building a road from The Dalles reaching south into this county, and that a corps of surveyors will be put into the field in about three weeks, who will locate the line as rapidly as possible. He says he has made observations of the route out by Fifteen-Mile and across the Deschutes west of Shearer's, and that it is a practicable route. This is inded encouraging news to the people of Crook, for they have about given up all hope of the O. P. being completed at any early date. Whenever the building of The Dalles Southern is assured all of this county, and especially Prineville, will take a long stride of progress, and times will be as lively as those days of old when the early settlers were all buccaros and wore twent dollar pieces for coat buttons.

The Election.

The weather on election day was all that could be desired; it was neither too warm nor too cool, but just a balmy summer day, with few clouds in sight, except those on the faces of candidates whose political prospects depended upon the whims of voters at the polls. Good humor prevailed during the entire day, and active workers of the opposing parties exchanged many pleasantries as they flitted among the busy throng extolling the virtues of their champions and endeavored to induce voters to accept their views as correct. We believe every voter in the precinct exercised his right of suffrage, every one was "worked" who could be, and that every candidate feels satisfied that his interests were not neglected on election day.

Card of Thanks.

I desire, through the columns of the REVIEW, to thank the people of Mitchell who so kindly and faithfully ministered to the wants of my late husband during his recent and last illness. May heaven's blessings rest upon them.

MRS. ELIZABETH PRINE.

Crop-Weather Bulletin No. 12.

Of the Oregon weather bureau, co-operating with the U. S. Service, central office, Portland, Oregon, for week ending Saturday, May 31, 1890.

WEATHER.

Sunday and Monday were warm and cloudless, the remainder of the week was cool and cloudy with rain, which fell quite copiously in Willamette vally and with showers elsewhere. Rain fell on the 28, 29, 30 and 31 in Western Oregon, and on the 30 and 31st in Eastern Or. On the 28 and 29 it was generally light. Owing to the correspondents having to mail their reports on Thursday the rain is not generally reported. Next week's bulletins will evidently show the general effect of the rain. Cool, windy weather prevailed in Eastern Or. with frost, in sections, which did much damage to tender vegetation.

CROPS.

The rain came down at a most opportune time and has greatly benefited everything. Rain two weeks ago would have insured a large spring crop, but as it is, usual conditions from now on, will allow of a large crop to be harvested. In many sections late sown spring grain did not germinate and the present rains may yet produce yields where none were expected. Rain was badly needed; up to the 28th none of any consequence having fallen since April 20th, and the temperature has been rather high, as a result the ground became hard and there was not that growth which was desired. In Grant Co. on the 26th temperature reached 93 degrees and grass on the hills drying up. Killing frosts in Baker county on the 28th and 30th, and light in Union county which did little damage on the 28th. Grain and other crops are very promising in Grande Ronde valley. In Umatilla county snow fell in the mountains on the 28th. Wheat is heading out and doing finely; in spots it is burned slightly. Spring wheat is very promising. In Morrow, wheat continues promising, more rain desired. Considerable wind during the week. Rain is needed in Gilliam county. Rye has made a good crop, wheat looks well and rain will insure a fine yield. Apples promising well. Frost on the 28th, did some damage; spring grain not doing well. In Wasco and Sherman winter wheat promising. Cool weather very beneficial, late sown grain has not come up well. Fruit is doing well. In Jackson county alfalfa cutting began on the 26th, yield good. The continued warm dry weather unfarvorably affected crops in Douglas county, but the present rain will produce a favorable change. Excellent crops are almost now certain throughout Willamette valley. Fall wheat, when sown on summer fallow, is in fine condition and in any event will produce a good crop. When sown on stubble land it is not so good. The spring wheat has been an uncertain crop, but the present weather will allow of a fair crop to be harvested.

Strawberries are cheap and plentiful. Cherries are nearly ripe. Vegetables are abundant.

It seldom fails to rain at the proper time in Oregon, and the present rane was most opportune.

"Looking Backward."

"A little foresight is better than hindsight." This progressive, radical age is too conservative. A bane to the spirit of progress is the fashion of doing only what there are precedents for. It is the purpose of "Looking Backward" to throw a picture upon the scene of the future in contrast with the present—a very worthy attainment—together with a proposed path into it It is fundamental and simple. The reader is led into a new field of thought, led as it were, by a mysterious and underground passage away from familiar landmarks and ancient customs, into a fair and delightful paradise of birds and blossoms, and left with little to guide him but the sun and stars. He is led a century into the future. He finds society organized upon new principles—a simple and graceful garb invests her. No old complexities and studied art of shams counterfeits. She displays new graces in new ways. And in all the profusion of new wonders one is almost bewildered. He scarce believes his senses. He looks and doubts, and rubs his eyes and looks again. He grasps and shakes his reason to try if it is sound. Are the faithful luminaries which have ever guided the pioneer still shining in the same quarter of the heavens?

What is proposed is to eliminate money from society, to abolish all commercial transactions between individuals, to make the nation the sole patron and regulator of all the industries, the father and guardian of all who claim it as fatherland. The natural results of the system are ostensibly carried out and shown to be all the ends of government and to meet all the needs of society.

Equality is established, education promoted, crime reduced to a minimum. Political economy has received new laws, and the science of giving laws is so fully reconstructed that it is hardly analogous to the present system. It is a legitimate application of the principles of "The Reign of Law," and whoever has read that interesting volume will be much better prepared to appreciate the philosophical merits of "Looking Backward." What is portrayed is certainly a state much to be desired, but its attainment within the allotted time is extremely doubtful.

Yet the author, Dr. Bellamy, seems to see the promise of it. In his mind, society appears to be an immense egg, throbbing with a cramped and smothered life. And he sees in certain internal agitations premonitions of a bursting in to birth. Already he believes he can detect long, irregular glimmering cracks in the crust of conventionality, as though it were about to sunder and let its creature into a new and larger place.

We hope that the egg will hatch and that his chicken will prove as healthy a bird as he promises. This is an age of progress.

F. M. ANDERSON.

The Standard.

"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a well-known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won this position by its undoubted merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alterative and tonic it has never been equaled.

Advertised Letters.
