McClure's Magazine
For 1897
SEVEN GREAT SERIALS

A New Life of Grant by HAMLIN GARLAND. The first authoritative and adequate Life of Grant ever published. (Begins in December.)

Rudyard Kipling's first American serial, "Captains Courageous." (Begun in November.)

Robert Louis Stevenson's "St. Ives." The only novel of Stevenson's still unpublished (Begins in May.)

Charles A. Dana. "Recollections of War Time." Mr. Dana was for three of the most critical years of the Civil War practically a member of Lincoln's Cabinet, and is probably better fitted than any other man living to give an authoritative history of this period from his recollections and correspondence.

Portraits of Great Americans. Many of them unpublished. In connection with this series of portraits it is intended to publish special biographical studies under the general title of MAKERS OF THE UNION from Washington to Lincoln.

Pictures of Palestine. Specially taken under the editor's direction.

Stories of Adventure. A serial by CONAN DOYLE, in which he will use his extraordinary talent for mystery and ingenuity which have, in the "Sherlock Holmes" stories, given him a place beside Poe and Gaboriau.

TEN FAMOUS WRITERS

IAN MACLAREN, All the fiction that he will write during the coming year, with the exception of two contributions to another publication which were engaged from him long ago, will appear in McCLURE'S MAGAZINE.

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS. A series of new animal stories in the same field as the "Brer Rabbit" and the "Little Mr. Thimblefinger" stories.

RUDYARD KIPLING. Besides "Captains Courageous," Kipling will contribute to McCLURE'S all of the short stories he will write during the coming year.

OCTAVE THANET is preparing for the MAGAZINE a series of short stories in which the same characters will appear, although each will be complete in itself.

Anthony Hope, Bret Harte, Robert Barr, Frank R. Stockton, Stanley Weyman, Clark Russell will all have stories in McCLURE'S for the coming year.

These are only a small fraction of the great and important features of McCLURE'S MAGAZINE for 1897, the subscription price of which is only

One Dollar a Year

WEEKLY The MONTHLY
Outlook
Published Every Saturday
13 Astor Place New York

The Outlook will be in 1897, as it has been during each of its twenty-seven years, a History of Our Own Times. In its various editorial departments The Outlook gives a compact review of the world's progress; it follows with care all the important philanthropic and industrial movements of the day; has a complete department of religious news; devotes much space to the interests of the home; reviews current literature; furnishes cheerful table-talk about men and things; and, in short, aims to give fresh information, original observation, and reasonable entertainment.

Beginning with the fifty fifth volume, the paper will assume the regular magazine size, which will add greatly to its convenience and attractiveness. The Outlook is published every Saturday—fifty-two issues a year. The first issue in each month is an Illustrated Magazine Number, containing about twice as many pages as the ordinary issue, together with a large number of pictures.

The price of The Outlook is three dollars a year in advance, or less than a cent a day.

Send for a specimen copy and illustrated prospectus to The Outlook, 13 Astor Place, New York City.

METHODS OF MODERN AUTHORS.

Novels Compressed or Padded to Suit the Publisher's Needs.

There is now an author before the public whose writings have a wide audience, but who has recently been told by the critics that his work is deteriorating. This is true, says E. W. Bask in the Forum, and it is not strange that it should be so. He is a man who as a writer shows the highest art in his work, and his earlier books demonstrate this fact beyond a doubt. But he has come under the influence of the dollar, and now writes what is called "to order." Not long ago a magazine editor approached this author for his next work and found him just starting upon it.

"I would like it," said the editor.

"What will you pay for it?" was the author's first question.

"How long will it probably be?" inquired the editor.

"Oh, I can make it just as long or as short as you want it," said the obliging author. Then he added: "It depends upon the price. I can make a 40,000-word story of it if you like, and then it will cost you $6,000. Or I can spin it out to 60,000 words—and that is really what I ought to have to let the story tell itself, but then I will want $7,500 for it. Of course, if you can't pay more than $6,000, I can trim it accordingly."

The real question of the story itself did not enter into the question. It was simply a matter of price. You paid so much and got so much. If you paid a little more you received a little more. It was Anthony Trollope over again.

ESCHEW OVERINDULGENCE.

Don't Allow Your Wheel to Run Away with Your Head.

Moderation in cycling is as necessary as in everything else, and particularly so because it brings into play new sets of muscles and blood vessels in certain parts of the body which are entirely unprepared for the usual strain.

The fascination of bicycle riding is the strongest objection to the sport, on account of the danger of over exertion, and for this reason those who take it up for improvement of health become so invigorated and delighted with the exercise that they who should be the most careful are generally the ones who overdo it. Entering violently into any exercise is bad, and so is cycling, for the reason that it gives the heart more to do than has been customary; but, of course, by going into the exercise gradually, the heart grows stronger and is prepared for exertion

As for the lungs, cycling cultivates a good habit of deep breathing, and does a great deal to strengthen the muscles of the back.

There is no other exercise that is so quieting to the nerves and which at the same time brings into play so nicely and so gently the many parts of the body without giving violent work to some particular set of muscles.

Cycling induces those to take outdoor exercise who have never taken it before, and is the best exercise that can be taken; but let the beginner beware of overindulgence and persist in the pleasure and safeness of moderation.

CHARLEY HOYT'S SPEECH.

He Made One by Proxy in the Course of His Legislative Career.

The scholar in politics has some odd experiences and is in a position to get lots of fun out of them. Charley Hoyt, the playwright, is a member of the New Hampshire legislature. Talking in Boston the other night, says the Troy Times, he related an incident that took place in his political career. He said that he never made, to his knowledge, more than one successful speech, and that was when he was endeavoring to get a certain measure, calling for a large appropriation through the house. Action had been delayed as long as possible, but when the time came a bright young lawyer opposed the measure, attacking Mr. Hoyt in a most savage manner and making many personal allusions. Mr. Hoyt responded very briefly, but the attack had been so fierce as to arouse sympathy, and the measure was carried. Meeting one of his colleagues the next day Mr. Hoyt was asked what action he was going to take about the abusive speech. "Why, nothing," responded Mr. Hoyt. "Are you going to stand calmly by and be insulted in this manner?" the gentleman asked. "I don't exactly see what I can do," returned Mr. Hoyt, with a little more than his usual drawl. "You see, I wrote that speech and paid the man $25 to deliver it."

AN HONORABLE VEGETABLE.

The Onion Has Its Admirers—The Anaconda (Mont.) Onion Society.

The nutritious and wholesome onion occasionally finds its vindicators. At the thriving Montana city of Anaconda there is a dining club called the Anaconda Onion society. Its first feast was recently given with distinguished success.

Down the center of the hall, says the Anaconda Standard, was set a long table, with covers for all the guests. At each plate was a large and juicy onion, in the middle of the table was an array of meats, bread, fruit-crackers, cheese and other things.

At one end of the hall floated the standard of the club in proud conspicuousness. It consisted of a pole surmounted by a string of the vegetables from which the socity takes its name. On the wall hung this motto, beautifully wrought:

IN ONION THERE IS STRENGTH.

Each member wore a pretty boutonniere of little onions. The occasion was greatly enjoyed by all the participants and the society hopes to do much to restore the onion to the honor and esteem of the world.

In Montana, as well as in the whole of the Pacific slope, the onion attains a deliciousness of quality which is comparatively unknown on the eastern side of the continent. If the people of the east could have onions as good as those of Montana and California, it is possible that the Anaconda Onion society might find imitators in the east.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at Conser & Brock's drug store.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Remarkable Cure for Chronic Diarrhœa.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhœa. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great remedy and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. SHERIFFS' FEES.

Laxity Will be the Result of the Supreme Court's Recent Decision.

In reporting the doings of the supreme court at Pendleton recently the Tribune says:

"In the case of Zbeth Houser vs. Umatilla county, the decree of the lower court is reversed and the writ dismissed. This means that the sheriff cannot collect any money from the county for expenses incurred in the county and can only collect actual and necessary expenses when obliged to go out of the county."

This means that sheriffs will not break their necks running up expenses on themselves. The new law is unjust and the laws are in consequence feebly enforced. The bill putting sheriffs on a salary should be repealed at the earliest opportunity.

Politics and religion got badly mixed at Coburg, Lane county, the other day when Politician Tom Vaughan, one of Lane county's representatives to the late disgrace at Salem got into a controversy with Preacher N. N. Mathews and gave him a lashing for saying that Mitchell was responsible for the hold-up. Vaughan is an ardent admirer of the ex-senator and will not allow his good name assailed, says the T.-M. The crescent waves on Cretan shores,
The cross of Christ goes down;
The Turks are helped by Christian powers
Who bombard fort and town.
Columbia's eagle hears not heeds
Poor Cuba's piercing cry;
Then let us drown these shameful deeds
In Sperry's "Linwood Rye."
