THE INSPIRED CAMP COOK.

Things He Must Know to Make Life Pleasant for His Comrades.

Outing tells about camp cookery, including the cook. The genuine camp cook is an artist in his way. The musician makes men hear things surrounding and the painter brings tears to the eyes if inspired. The camp cook gets nearly the very way in which he does his work, makes men hungry.

"The camp cook," says the writer, "should take pride in the artistic handling of his utensils, particularly in the ability to keep half a dozen things going at once, he must keep already cooked things hot, and cook the uncooked things in the meantime. To do this he has to understand the kinds of fire to have, whether large or small blaze, hot ashes or red-hot embers. He should also know how to get the most work at the least expenditure of labor from his comrades. Something many cooks are lacking in is the way to keep camp dishes clean for cooking. An unwashed apple saucepan will serve to fry trout in and give them a pleasant taste, but an unwashed fish spider will scarcely serve to cook apple sauce in. In other words, the cook should know when and what to wash."

A STRANGE CHARITY.

Bread Dispensed Free in the Village of Broughton-in-Furness.

The efforts of the organized charity associations in this country sometimes take on strange phases, as in the woodyards, and in the free coffee stands established a few years ago in the eastern cities. A Cincinnatian who recently visited England tells about a queer charity he noticed there. In the little village of Broughton-in-Furness is a small baker's shop, over the door of which is the following inscription: "One piece of bread, to be eaten on the premises, given to anyone passing through Broughton direct until ten p. m." This extraordinary signboard was affixed on the shop eight years ago by a neighbor, who recoups the baker for the bread which he dispenses in this singular way.

A British army surgeon who has long been at the front in South Africa writes an interesting letter to a London medical journal from Harrowsmith. He expresses the conviction that flies have a great deal more to do with the ravages of typhoid fever than has been generally suspected. He believes that they are the chief cause of the fearful mortality from the pest in South Africa. He argues that inasmuch as nature has designed them to convey pollen on their legs from one plant to another, it is only reasonable to suppose that they are equally capable of carrying and distributing the germs of disease. He points out as a remarkable fact that although there was a terrible outbreak of enteric in Ladysmith during the famous siege, when flies abounded everywhere, there was none last year, when there was a noticeable absence of flies. This latter phenomenon he ascribes to the treatment of all meat and other articles peculiarly attractive to these winged nuisances with some sort of chemical preparation which effectually kept them off. The pertinacious activity of the fly obviously would make him a most efficient agent for the diffusion of poisonous microbes.

SHUTTING OUT TRAMPS.

Difficulty Experienced by Railroad Contractors with Professional Hoboes.

"Since the railroads of the northwest have quit passing laborers over their roads," a railroad contractor said the other day in Portland, Ore., "a large proportion of the hobo element has been shut out from the construction camps. A few years ago any man who said he desired work would be passed free to the scene of operations, and a great many would decline to work when they reached the camp. A gang of men would arrive in the evening at the boarding cars, with the apparent intention of going out with a working crew next morning. They would be given supper, a berth and breakfast, but in the morning they would strike out for some other camp along the line, saying things did not suit them. These same men would reach the next camp and be gladly welcomed by the foreman in charge, and the same programme would be enacted. Such tramps have worked injury to the real workingman who has to suffer for their worthlessness, and now all men seeking employment on railroads are charged one cent a mile to camps. This shuts out the man who is dead broke, but it gives us a better class of workers, as the man who pays his fare to the work is very likely to stay until he earns a stake."

WAITING FOR THREE NAUGHTS

Superstitious Passenger Pays Two Fares in Order to Get a Lucky Number Hung Up.

"Some persons have queer superstitions," remarked the communicative conductor to the man on the rear platform.

"Some time ago I was doing some short runs on the Midvale avenue branch. A man got in and I spotted him by chance and noticed that his eyes glistened as he gazed up at the register at the front. It stood at 8997. His fare rang it to 8998. He gave a start when another passenger got in and the bell announced 8999. You know we pick up but few from there to the ledge. I watched him. He was awfully nervous. He moved and twitched and once changed sides.

"Well, we stopped at the end of the route and still the register said 8999. He came up to me, handing me a nickel, and said:

"'Ring that up.'

"'Why, you paid me,' I said. Finally he coaxed me, telling me it was for luck. I rang up 9,000 and he got off the car, as happy as a big sunflower.

"'I have learned since,' said the conductor, according to the Philadelphia Record, 'that it's considered lucky to be on a car when the register shows a combination ending in three naughts. It's a new bunch.'"

GUNPOWDER IN EARLY DAYS.

Was Possibly Used in Warfare Before the Beginning of History.

People outside of military life who have no connection with the making of gunpowder know it only as a coarse black powder like black sand, which will flash off with a loud report if shut up in a case of any kind, and set on fire.

It is a very queer mixture, made up of three simple and well-known substances, no one of which will explode, although two will burn, says Lieut. John M. Ellicott in St. Nicholas. Nobody knows when or how it was discovered, for as far back into the dark ages as records or tradition will carry us, we find that gunpowder, though not used for guns, was known. It was, no doubt, looked upon with awe and fear by the ancients on account of its flame, its noise, and its rending force; but their limited mechanical skill could suggest very little use for it.

Possibly it was used in warfare long before the beginning of history; but the first man in historical times to form an idea of the terrible destruction which this awful, burning, fiery substance might produce was an English monk named Roger Bacon. Monks, in his day, were the chemists, scholars and writers of the world; and this Roger Bacon traveled and studied much, and made continual experiments in his laboratory to prove for himself and to develop what he learned from others. He probably saw gunpowder among the Moors in Spain, and tried for himself its explosive effect. Then he wrote of its composition in the year 1267, and in his writing suggested that it could be used in engines of war to deal death and destruction to armies of men.

Soon after Roger Bacon's time his suggestions were taken up and guns were constructed first by binding iron bars together with hoops to form a tube, then by casting a tube out of brass, with one end closed. Stones of suitable size were selected as shot, and the powder had to be carried around in chests or barrels and shoveled into the muzzles of the guns, the stones being rolled in after it. In spite of these drawbacks very large guns were built, for there was one used by Mahomet II. against the Greeks at the siege of Constantinople in 1453 which threw a stone weighing 600 pounds a distance of one mile.

JUNGLES OF GUIANA.

A Mass of Vegetation That Can Scarcely Be Penetrated.

The vegetation of the Guianas is a devouring mass of green, which steadily encroaches, and is kept down only by the ceaseless warfare of one plant upon another. A tree springs up, says W. Sephew King in Century, and finds the way to the topmost its energy. It is no sooner established than a parasite begins to climb its trunk and lace itself around the tree, until finally the grip of the parasite kills the tree, and both fall to rain and decay, leaving a space, which is immediately occupied by new forms.

To penetrate such a jungle is impossible with out the aid of a machete and ax. To keep a path open requires constant cutting. If you shoot a bird or an animal, it falls perhaps not more than 20 feet away; but it may require a half hour or an hour to reach it, and unless you can shoot from a canoe and can drop the bird into the water, as a rule you cannot find your game after it is killed. Words cannot describe the beauty of this mass of green, verdurous vegetation, nor can one comprehend the difficulty of conquering such a wilderness unless one has actually grappled with it.

A recognized authority—The Weekly Oregonian.

It's Impure Blood.

"What is it?" asks the mother as she notices the smooth skin of her child marred by a red or pimply eruption. It is impure blood, and the child needs at once to begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the best and surest remedy for impurity of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which corrupt the blood and cause disease. It cures scrofula, boils, pimples, eczema, saltrheum and other eruptive diseases which are the direct result of impure blood. It enriches as well as purifies the blood.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly, but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartnick, of Demster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck, had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

SUMMONS.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE of Oregon, for the County of Morrow.

Willow Lodge No. sixty-six, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs. Fred C. Hawker and ——— Hawker, his wife, and William E. Theodore, and ——— Theodore, his wife, Defendants.

To William E. Theodore and ——— Theodore, his wife.

In the name of the state of Oregon: you and each of you are hereby required to appear in the above-entitled court and cause within six weeks from the 20th day of March, 1902, said day being the time of the first publication of this summons, and answer the complaint of plaintiff filed herein.

You and each of you will take notice that if you fail to so appear or plead, plaintiff for want thereof will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in its complaint to-wit:

For a decree foreclosing the mortgage plaintiff's title to the following described land situated in Morrow County, state of Oregon, commencing at the northeast corner of lot five (5) in block two (2), running thence south thirty-three feet, thence west eighty feet, thence north thirty-three feet, thence east eighty-seven feet to the place of beginning, and barring you and each of you from any claim, right, title or interest in said land, and confirming title in same in plaintiff.

You will take further notice that this summons is served upon you by publication thereof in the Heppner Gazette, the same being a newspaper of general circulation published weekly in Morrow County, Oregon, by order of the Honorable R. R. Eakin, Judge of the Circuit Court of the state of Oregon for the sixth judicial district, which order was made on the 20th day of March, 1902, and prescribes that the date of the first publication of this summons shall be the 20th day of March, 1902, and which is publication for twelve weeks thereafter, and order bears date in open court on said day.

R. W. Fowler, Attorney for Plaintiff.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION AND order of sale duly issued out of the circuit court of the state of Oregon, for the county of Morrow, on the 19th day of March, 1902, upon a certain judgment, decree and order of said court and county, wherein J. A. Bauer, plaintiff, recovered judgment against Chas. W. Ingraham, Martha A. Ingraham and W. A. Ingraham, defendants, I, the undersigned, sheriff of said county, will on the 5th day of April, 1902, at the hour of one o'clock p. m. of said day, at the front door of the court house in Heppner, Morrow county, Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand, the following described property, to-wit:

An undivided one-half of lot 4, block 13, Willis addition to Lexington, with the appurtenances and all buildings and improvements thereon and appurtenances, belonging, or in anywise appertaining, or belonging or appertaining to said land, or any part thereof.

Taken and seized upon as the property of the said Charles W. Ingraham, Martha A. Ingraham, et al., or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the said judgment, decree and order in favor of said plaintiff, J. A. Bauer, Worthery and against said Charles W. Ingraham, et al., together with all costs and disbursements that have or may accrue.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 10, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain. Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 736 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
