The President of the Trunk Line in Prineville.

W. F. Nelson, president of the Oregon Trunk Line railroad company, accompanied by a party of capitalists and railroad officials, passed through the city today at noon on their way to Shaniko.

When asked if he had any announcement to make at this time Mr. Nelson said that as it required at least seven days to make the trip, it was impossible to see all the he would like to look over, and requested that data of tonnage be sent him concerning shipmnts from this part of the county the eastern and southeastern sections, which would cover the territory that he was unable to visit. "Of courss I cannot make any definite statement at this time," said Mr. Nelson, "but the prospects of a railroad for this country are certainly bright. If one road comes another will shortly follow." The party ate a hurried dinner here and left at once for Hay Creek, where they will spend the night.

F. S. Stanley, who was here with the Krutschnitt party, says that the Corvallis & Eastern will be extended to this part of the state within six month.

the present terminus of the Corvallis & Eastern, to Ontario. Still another means of reaching this neglected section of the state and provide it with rail transportation would be an extension of the Columbia Southern southerly to Prineville from it present teminus at Shaniko. This will also be investigated.

All three of these routes will be examined and the report that will be made by the party on its return is expected to be final.

The extension of the Corvallis & Eastern from Idanha to Prineville, a distance of about a 100 miles, is generally considered the most feasible that has been suggested. Such a road could be constructed over the Cascades on an easy grade and would penetrate a section that has for some time been demanding a railroad."

Civil Service Examinations.

Civil service examinations are being held at Prineville by A. S. Ireland, supervisor of the western division of the Blue Mountain forest reserve, for admission into the forest service and promotions in the service.

There are ten applicants and those who pass the examinations that began Tuesday will be eligible for the position of a forest ranger with a salary of from $1200 to $1400 per annum.

The following are the names of those who are taking the examination: Arthur Bennet, C. A. Congleton, J. S. Fraser, B. F. Johnson, C. L. Pearson and Montie Pearson of the Blue Mountain reserve; A. P. South of the Cascade reserve; Walter Morris of the Maury reserve; and G. C. Blake, an applicant who has not been in the service.

To be eligible for this examination, the applicant must be between 20 and 40 years of age, of good health and a native of this country.

The practice of cutting and scaling timber and the shooting contest have been dropped from the examinations.

So great is the demand for good men in this service that most of the applicants will be promoted from the position of forest guard with a salary of from $600 to $700 per year, to that of forest ranger and will be directly in line of promotion for supervisor or assistant without further examination.
