ENGLISH POLO TEAM IS STRONG

Well Balanced, Experienced Quartet, Says Whitney.

CAPTAIN CHEAPE A STAR.

Former Captain of American Championship Teams and Present Coach Gives His Views on Coming Matches. Talk of Making Americans 2 to 1 Favorites Ridiculous, He Says.

Harry Payne Whitney, coach of the American team this year and leader of the teams of 1913 and 1914, speaks as follows of the present polo outlook:

"It must not be inferred because the English team has been beaten that it is not a good team, capable of playing high class polo. Any team is liable to be beaten, particularly in the spring practice games, before the players attain their true form. Personally I think the team selected by Lord Wimborne, now that Captain Cheape is a member, is better than the one we met last year.

CAPTAIN L. ST. G. CHEAPE.

"It will not be the easy thing that most persons fancy to defeat the English players," continued Mr. Whitney. "I have seen them all in action, and I know what they can do. This talk of the American players being 2 to 1 favorites is ridiculous. Men who talk that way have not stopped to weigh the respective merits of the players. Man to man, player against player, there is little to choose between the members of the teams. From a handicap basis the English players rate higher than the members of the team we are now trying out. On this basis it is hard to locate the justification for the reports that the American team should be rated at 2 to 1 on in the betting.

"The defeat of the English players by Walter Buckmaster's team can easily be explained. While Lord Wimborne's team was in Spain practicing Buckmaster was busily engaged gathering together the best lot of ponies in Europe to mount his team for match games against the challengers. When Lord Wimborne's team returned the ponies were not equal to Buckmaster's string, and the result was a victory for the latter's team.

"Then a shakeup in the lineup took place. Captain Cheape was added to Lord Wimborne's team. What was the result? Although the challengers had to ride ponies to which they were comparative strangers—the ponies they had been riding all spring were on their way to America—they held Buckmaster's team even until near the finish of the game and lost by only one goal.

"And you may say for me that I don't think the American team is a sure thing. The English team, I believe, is faster and better than the one that gave us such a battle in 1913."

Shamrock IV. Is Futuristic.

An English critic says that Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV is novel in design and distinctly ugly in appearance. He likens it to the futurist style, but nobody will care, least of all Sir Thomas, if she proves to be fast enough to satisfy the ambition of a lifetime. Again we are told that she is guarded as jealously from all eyes as the famous cup itself.

McAllister-Levinsky Bout.

Jimmy Coffroth, the promoter, may stage a twenty round bout at his club in San Francisco on July 4 between Bob McAllister, the California fighter, and Battling Levinsky. Coffroth wired Dan Morgan stating that McAllister had agreed to the match and asking him his terms for Levinsky.
