OREGON CITY, DEC. 14, 1894.

BUSINESS.

The lowest point of the down-grade has been reached in the business centers of the East and the South, and there is a gradual return to business activity and consequent 'prosperity. The scarcity of money is felt more keenly on the Pacific than on the Atlantic seaboard, and that not without reason. An empire lies between Portland, Oregon, and Wall street. We, in this far away West, are but pioneers in a new country. When our resources and our capabilities have been more fully developed, we will not send to the states for our hams, our clothes pins, our coffee mills or our threshing machines. We will feed with our surplus products artisans who will make them at home—in our cities and villages. We send our surplus cash to the East in payment for these concomitants of civilization, and it remains away. That's one main cause of the scarcity of money. We are not self sustaining. But the change desired and needed can only come with the lapse of years.

As long as our farmers found a profitable customer for their surplus grain in the Liverpool merchant, we went along swimmingly. Even we would do much better if the tariff laws, made to suit Eastern manufacturers, were such that an English vessel could profitably bring to Portland a cargo of European goods to exchange for our wheat and flour. Then the Oregon farmer would not be obliged to pay freight both ways. To the English shipmaster the alternative is, in most cases, between dirt, and coal, which may burn his ship in mid-ocean. Were all moneyed men fully certain in their own minds that there would be no relapse from the present gradual awakening in trade, being assured thereby that their investments would be remunerative, cash would be more plentiful, as it would not lie idly in our banks as it does. We may look for a gradual loosening of their purse strings, especially if congress seriously and patriotically takes steps to straighten out the tangle of our national finances. This is the talk of the hour. Whether those half-witted democrats in the senate that thwarted reform legislation during the last session of congress have learned by the Waterloo of last month, time will soon tell. It is but too true that congressmen, surrounded by the artificial atmosphere of Washington society, lose sympathy with the wants of the masses. Their $5000 per annum, besides perquisites, spoils them. It is no harm to the democratic party that so many of the democratic war-horses will soon be turned out to grass among their constitutents. But woe to the republican party if it does no better nor as well as the congress whose final end will come on March 4th, 1895. The American people will stand no foolishness from their high-salaried servants in Washington, no, not even from a democratic president worth $4,000,000. Congress and the administration must come down to straight business for the benefit of the masses. The last election showed the politicians that there is nothing more uncertain than the American voter. He is becoming more and more independent, with a mind of his own. Forsooth, must not he pay his own bills? Then why should he not vote as he believes his interests demand, or, as the hundreds of thousands in the last election, not vote at all and let the other fellows win?

If congress passes an act, in conformity with the suggestions of Secretary Carlisle, enabling national banks to issue currency, the gold bugbear will be allayed, as the greenbacks would be withdrawn and the millionaire bankers could no longer use them to filch gold coin from the national treasury. That measure would give stability to our financial system as it would not rest on a golden pyramid standing on its apex but on the wealth of the thousands of banks scattered throught the land. Such a measure would do much to restore fully commercial confidence and circulate hoardings. Then work would be more plentiful and idlers fewer.

The silver men believe that the only salve for the financial ailment is the free coinage of silver, i. e., give both precious metals an even show and undo the crime of 1873. If an act of congress and the president's signature can maintain the parity of gold and silver, even if $200,000,000 silver dollars be coined next year, they are on the right road. If a law could not uphold silver in competition with gold, with unlimited coinage of the latter, we would be in a worse fix than ever. This question demands calm, deliberate and intelligent statesmanship.

HENRY WATTERSON lays the result of the recent election all on Cleveland. He makes him the Li Hung Chang of the situation and proceeds to divest him of his three-eyed peacock feather and yellow jacket in summary fashion. That's the way of the world. When we get whipped we always lay the blame on the general in command. But what could the best general in the world do with such an army as Cleveland has had for the last two years? With our generals, major generals, brigadiers and colonels all divided and quarreling over tariff, currency, income tax and civil service reform—each faction trying to beat down the other—what was the chance to defeat an enemy that was united? The one lesson of our defeat that every democrat from Maine to California needs to lay to heart is "to get together."—Arkansas Democrat.

For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
