WILL TEST DEFENSES OF NATION

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 11.—National Defense Test Day on September 12 will undertake to demonstrate to the entire world a new military defense system—a system based entirely on the community—and while no men will be called to arms on that date each town and hamlet in the country will have the opportunity of showing the nation how, with not a single man in uniform today, it could arise and equip its quota tomorrow if an emergency arose.

This new decentralized military system, as opposed to othe large standing armies of other nations and the great concentration camps of this country in the last war, differs materially from all others and is anything but "militaristic."

The British Empire is the outstanding example of the huge standing army idea. It maintains, scattered in various parts of the world 800,000 soldiers. The present French army consists of 750,000 men, most of them being 21 and 22 years of age, and there are in France today more than 2,000,000 young men between 22 and 24 years of age who have completed at least two years of military training since the World War, in addition to the millions of veterans of that war. Japan maintains an active army of 250,000 men and as a result of her compulsory training has more than 2,000,000 young men ready for immediate service.

Small Regular Army

Opposed to these in our Regular Army of 120,000 men; our National Guard, which is wholly civilian and totals about 160,000 men, who drill on an average of one night a week, and some 70,000 Reserve Officers, who train only two weeks in every three years. However, our "amateur" defense system is not in the interest of economy, for the compulsory system permits France to pay her soldiers only five cents a day and Japan six, whereas we must pay wages comparable to those paid by commercial concerns, with whom the War Department must compete for its personnel. Neither, according to the War Department, do we claim that our voluntary system is more efficient; for after four years of labor our system has not produced anything like 2,000,000 men thoroughly trained.

The only explanation, says Secretary of War Weeks, is that our country stands for a principle purely American, and incorporated in that is a military system purely for defense. Our history proves that our people insist on such a system, and, through the provisions of the National Defense act, worked out by General Pershing, the present system has been developed and will be demonstrated to the nation on September 12.

"Workable" Policy

The National Defense act takes our traditional military policy and makes it workable. As a nation the United States has always relied upon a small Regular Army, to be augmented by huge citizen forces in the event of a national crisis.

The system is this: The nation is divided into three army areas and nine corps areas. In each corps area there are to be six divisions — one Regular Army division (now only a skeleton); two National Guard divisions (now recruited up to about 60 per cent strength) and three Reserve divisions (some of the officers of which have been appointed, but all of the enlisted men of which are to come from a selective service draft.) As each of these tactical divisions numbers about 30,000 men, this would give a divisional, corps and army force of about 1,650,000 men which, augmented by staff troops and coast artillery, would bring the entire number to two million men.

Here Is Problem

The problem confronting each community on September 12 will be this : The regiments, battalions and companies of all of these divisions are allocated to certain communities. Over these communities, in charge of the work of organizing plans for the mobilization in case of emergency, are Regular Army officers assigned to National Guard or Reserve work. The community will appoint a defense council. It will mobilize on paper its resources. It will check the number of available young men in the community and estimate how many it could recruit on immediate notice. It will plan how these men will be fed, paid, clothed and drilled while training at home. After this work has been done a report will be rendered to the Regular Army officers in charge of the work in each corps area. These reports will be compiled and forwarded to Washington, where the entire report will be consolidated and the success of the system finally determined.

SAVED FROM RAPID DECLINE

WHEELS OF PRIVIDENCE BROUGHT ME KOREX, SAYS MINISTER

"I doubt whether korex has its equals in the medical world," says the Rev. George B. Pinckney of 507 Lawrence St., Burlington, New Jersey, "for in the eight years of rapid decline, I tried everything known which a poor man could or couldn't afford, and none brought relief. Each day I declined more swiftly, until the wheels of Providence brought korex compound. I'm in almost perfect shape now, and I think is a blessing to suffering humanity."

According to enthusiastic users, the benefits of korex are complete and lasting. Thousands the world over are now using this wonder compound. Weary and worn-out men and women, sufferers from muscular pains, lack of appetite, lessened vigor and low glandular activity, will be interested in learning that the American distributors of korex compound have arranged for korex compound to be sold in Ashland at East Side Pharmacy. Ask about korex compound the next time you are in this drug store.

MECHANICAL STATUS PUZZLES "ENGINEER"

KLAMATH FALLS, August 9 —"Am I a chauffeur or an engineer?"

So asks H. C. Baker, chauffeur for R. E. Strahorn, who is now in charge of the destines of a Pierce Arrow that has been in the service of the Strahorn Railroad Company since 1913. The car is being outfitted with flanged wheels, and will be run on the railroad in the future.

Baker is doubtful of what his future standing will be in mechanical circles in the future. "I'll probably be like the man who was licensed as a doctor and a lawyer," said Baker today. "The lawyers called him 'doctor' and the doctors called him 'judge'."

NEIGHBOR SLAIN IN CROP DISPUTE

SPOKANE, August 9. — Pat Howard is being held in jail here, charged with the murder of J. Sain, residing nine miles from East Republic. The men quarelled over damage done to Sain's crops by Howard's dogs, and a fatal shooting resulted.

It is believed that Howard took his gun with him when he went over to see Sain, and in a flash of temper, shot and killed him. The tragedy occured this morning.

BOND ISSUE IS LOST AT MONMOUTH

MONMOUTH, Aug. 9. — At a special city election yesterday a proposed bond issue of $75,000 to construct a sewer system failed to carry by the small margin of three votes. Only 143 votes were cast, little interest being shown in the project.

Other street improvements on a small scale will be completed this year.

LOSS FROM WEEVIL LESS IN IDAHO

POCATELLO, Ida., Aug. 9.—Damage from the alfalfa weevil, greatest enemy of the southern Idaho hay producer, has been less this year than either 1921 or 1922, according to Claude Wakelend, in charge of the experiment station maintained by the University of Idaho extension division.

Twenty-six Idaho counties are known to have weevil-infested regions and this condition is working a hardship on the producers, for many states have embargoes against their hay.

WILL LIKELY RETAIN BRAZILL AS MANAGER

PORTLAND, Aug. 9.—Frank Brazill, Beaver third-baseman, will likely remain as manager of the Portland Baseball club during the remainder of this season, William H. Klepper, president of the club, made this statement Friday on returning from Seattle with Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league. Klepper said the Fort Worth team of the Texas league is still holding out for an "exhorbitant" amount for the services of Jimmie Middleton, whom Portland was eager to get to manage the club, following the resignation of Bill Kenworthy.

Half Bought

When you buy a piano, or a table, or a sewing machine, or almost anything for the home—well, you buy it, it's delivered, put in its place, and that's all there is to it.

But that's not the case with plumbing or heating. Not by a long shot.

When you buy a lavatory, or a shower, or a hot water heater, or buy a new boiler or some new radiators—why, these are only half bought until they are installed.

And it is the installation that makes a job well bought or poorly bought.

You can buy the best fixtures ever made, but unless their installation is right, the whole thing's wrong.

Don't half buy. Instead, whole buy. That is to say, see to it that your plumbing and heating fixtures are the best, that materials are the best, that installations are the best.

The best is the cheapest. And unless you get the best you are playing tag with your health.
