FAMILY BUDGET IS DECLARED CORRECT

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—When the model budget which included an item of $23 average monthly expenditure for food was announced by the household science department of the University of California, the food estimate came in for considerable ridicule both from civic health departments and several woman's organizations.

But $23 a month for food was not a theoretical figure. It was based on actual experience and with the average cost of the year's time, according to the household science department.

The budget was kept at Hesham Tulloch and Ward Austin, students who were married in 1923 before completion of their university studies. The food item for one month was as follows:

Meat [illegible]; milk, cheese $3.[illegible]; eggs [illegible]; vegetables, $1.87; groceries, $4.[illegible]; grain products, $2.57; sugar, $2.[illegible]; vegetables $4.18; miscellaneous $1.17. Total $20.18.

Coast Painting Going to Palace

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal., Sept. 3.—The state corridors of the royal palace in Stockholm, Sweden, will be graced by a large painting of California scenery, from the brush of a California artist.

It has been learned that the painting "October, Point Laboe," by Charles Bradford Hudson, Pacific Grove, was so admired by Prince Gustavus Adolphus on his recent visit to California that Swedish-American friends purchased and presented it to him. The Prince assured them it will hang with the finest works of the palace galleries.

Holy Land Cedar Withstands Fire

LIVERMORE, Cal., Sept. 3.—America's largest stand of Lebanon cedar, a species of Holy Land cedar, has withstood another threat by forest fire which have ravaged large sections of Alameda county.

Flames raged for days in the vicinity of the Lebanon cedar but suddenly veered off when they neared the historic stand, the origin of which has never been explained.

Debt Question Is Now Closed Issue

HONOLULU, T. R., Sept. 3.—Twenty-seven of Great Britain's leading parliamentarians told interviewers here they consider the matter of debt settlement a closed issue and that Britain has only the sincerest friendship for America.

MYSTERY TEAMS TO CUT LARGE FIGURE

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—While Stanford and the University of Southern California boast of their veteran machines loom as the most formidable contenders for the conference grid title, a half dozen "mystery" teams from the Pacific Northwest present such a threat—that difficulty has been encountered in attempting to pick this year's winner with any degree of certainty.

For a number of years University of California walked away with first honors until it was finally taken for granted before opening of conference games, that the Bears would repeat. But with California's upset last year and signs of an even weaker team this coming season the other schools have thrown off their inferiority complex.

One of the most bitterly contested scrambles for the title in the history of coast conference play is considered certain.

Stanford and U. S. C., both strong last year are stronger this season. Excepting the sensational fullback Ernie Nevers, Coach "Pop" Warner at Stanford lost virtually no one by graduation. Warner is grooming "Hank" Milage to fill Nevers' shoes.

Last year's U. S. C. team of regulars is virtually intact again. Barring injuries it is certain to be a blacker threat than last year, and it was a dangerous team then.

Coach "Nibs" Price, successor to the late Andy Smith at University of California will endeavor to rebuild practically an entire team lost by graduation last June. California's outlook is not believed encouraging.

But the Northwest is teeming with "dark horses."

The Oregon Aggies, with Coach paul Schissler, present a team of regulars who have battled together for three years. Among them is the sensational ground gainer, Schulmerich.

With a new coach, Major Frank Millburn, a new spirit, and "Bill" Kelly, captain and quarterback, a whole team in himself, Montana University looks dangerous.

Coach John McEwan at Oregon University will have a stronger team than that which sprang a late-season surprise last year by holding the transcontinental Washington University Huskies to a 15-to14 victory.

Washington, [illegible] as the best in the Northwest, will probably have the [illegible] the conference. Coach [illegible]'s only "nightmare" is replacing Tesreau and Wilson in the backfield.

Last year Idaho built up a new team. The Vandals should be roaring at full blast this season.

Washington State's team will be light and inexperienced. To what extent this outfit will develop under the fighting spirit of Coach Hollingbery will be seen in its tonghest game of the season against U. S. C., early in October.

It appears to critics as if the Pacific Coast conference is in for one of the wildest title battles in years.

"S. P. C. CABBAGES" SUGGESTED IN ENGLAND

LONDON (United Press) — English science may shortly be confronted with a vigorous campaign for the establishment of a "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Cabbages," or some similar organization to take the place of it in the vegetable world beside the Anti-Vivisection Society.

One London newspaper editorially points out that the efforts of science to discover the sensitiveness of plant life "seems to me to have dealt a severe blow to the more sentimental sort of vegetarians."

Referring to Sir Jagadis Bose's recent experiments with the injection of poisons into plants, the columnist demanded, "Is it [illegible] less cruel to dissect a living guinea-pig than a living cabbage?"
