FRIDAY. JANUARY 12

The Drydock Dewey

The dock was three years in building and cost $1,124,000.

Weighs 11,000 tons and can lift a battleship weighing 22,000 tons.

Covers two acres of the ocean, being over 500 feet long and 134 feet wide.

Floats 50 feet above the surface of the water.

Voyage to the Philippines will take four months and will cost over $1,000,000.

Tolls through Suez canal, $25,000

Towed by three big United States colliers. Cables used for this purpose are of heavies steel over 1½ miles long.

Is equipped with wireless telegraph plant for warning vessels of her whereabouts.

Captain D. J. Cood in command with eight engineers and electricians and 22 sailors.

The Dewey has nothing to do but lie back and wait while Uncle Sam's powerful dray ships pull her across the Atlantic, down through the Suez canal and up into the harbor of Cavite.

In round numbers it costs London $8,000,000 annually for court expenses, arrests and care of prisoners, in criminal prosecutions.

Secretary of War Taft weighed 315 pounds till recently, when he reduced it to 294 through careful diet and exercise. He rides horseback and takes long walks at a lively pace.

When Henry H. Rogers declines to answer questions put to him by the Missouri commission as to the inner workings of Standard Oil and its controlled corporations, he should be treated like any other defiant witness, put in jail till he would answer. However, he is hastening the day of a reckoning with Standard Oil.

A poultry authority says cold, wet feet are often responsible for hens not laying. Cover your chicken yard with sand and fine gravel, and in the fall don't burn your abundant maple leaves, or your neighbors if you have none and can get them, but stack where the chickens may stand on and scratch them over for worms many and many a time, making a clean, warm place for them to stand on all winter. Then throw your feed onto the scattered leaves and let them scratch for it. Don't make your hens stand about and eat in the mud if you want them to keep in good condition and lay.

Fat Girls and Thin Ice

Atchison Globe.

"I can't bear fat people," petulantly exclaimed the thin ice as the 250-pound girl began to put on her skates.
