Strip Between Oklahoma and Texas in Dispute

LAND IN LOUISIANA, ALSO

Recently Arkansas Was Denied Permission by Supreme Court to Intervene in Boundary Case

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Arkansas is preparing for filing in the supreme court an original suit in which it will claim not only all of the bed of the Red river, recently awarded to the United States in the boundary dispute between Oklahoma and Texas, but that part of Texas east of the 100 degree of longitude west from London, and north of the 32nd degree of north latitude.

Counsel for Arkansas, engaged in the preparation of the case, stated recently that a seventy mile strip of territory east of the present western boundary of Louisana would also be claimed, and that the supreme court would be asked to remove existing confusion as to what constituted the "Mexican" boundary line, referred to by congress in the enabling act of 1836, by which Arkansas was admitted into the union.

Should the supreme court hold that the "Mexican" boundary line which was to be a part of the southern boundary of Arkansas, mean the "Spanish" boundary line as fixed by the treaty of 1819, then the 32nd degree of latitude, counsel for Arkansas will contend, must be the southern boundary of the state from Louisana to the 100 degree of longitude. However, should the court accept Arkansas' interpretation that the "Mexican" boundary referred to by congress was the Rio Grande, its decision must transfer to Arkansas all of Texas east of the 100 degree of longitude.

Arkansas Recently Barred

Recently Arkansas was denied permission by the supreme court to intervene in the Oklahoma-Texas boundary case, when it sought to assert title to the bed of the Red river, which was then in dispute. It claims all the river between Oklahoma and Texas under that part of the enabling act which read that the state should be "bounded on the west, to the south bank of the Red River" by the lines described in the Cherokee treaty of 1829.

Arkansas may also decide in its bill, counsel stated, to assert claim to a part of Oklahoma under the act of June 17, 1844, which it insists annexed to the state "all that Indian country" which had been attached to Arkansas while a territory, a strip described as "bounded on the north by the north line of the lands assigned to the Osage tribe of Indians, produced east to the state of Missouri; south by the Red River; and east, by the west line of Territory of Arkansas and the State of Missouri."

FISH MISTAKEN FOR VESSEL

Peculiar Appearance of Swordfish Gave Rise to Many Strange Stories

In the warm waters of the Indian ocean there lives a strange mariner, who is the cause of many tales among the natives of the nearby coasts. They tell of a wonderful sail often seen in the calm seasons, when not a breath disturbs the water, and the sea rises and falls like an immense sheet of glass. Suddenly a sail appears, apparently driven along by a mighty wind. This sail glistens with rich purple and golden hues. On it comes, quivering and sparkling as if covered with gems; then, suddenly, it disappears as quickly as it came!

Many travelers have listened with unbelief to this strange tale, until, one day, this beautiful craft passed directly under the stern of a passing vessel, and it was seen to be a gigantic swordfish which is now known as the "sailor-fish." The sail was really an enormously developed dorsal fin, over ten feet high, and richly colored with blue and iridescent tints. As the fish swam along near the surface of the water this great fin waved to and fro, so that from a distance it was easily mistaken for a sail.

Prince Louis Honore Rules Monaco

Following the death of his father, Prince Albert Honore Charles, Prince Louis Honore has become the ruler of Monaco, in which Monte Carlo, the gambling resort, is the chief city. Prince Louis is 51 and served in the French army in the world war. He is the son of his father's first marriage, to Lady Mary Douglas Hamilton, who had her marriage annulled by the vatican on the ground that she had been forced into it by her mother and Napoleon III. The civil decree held that the marriage should be regarded as never having taken place, but Prince Louis was declared legitimate. Lady Mary carried her son to Italy, and his father made an attempt to kidnap him, which embittered the son against the father, and a reconciliation was not effected for many years.

Lovely new fabrics

for the fashionable one-piece dress . . .

SILKS, crêpes, serges, prints—all the fashionable fabrics for this season.

Delicately colored cotton voiles and fine cotton crêpes. Printed silk crêpes, too, in summer colors. All are charming—and very fashionable. They are especially desirable for the simple one-piece frocks which demand so much from the materials of which they are made.

We are showing unusual assortments of these lovely fabrics and the new homespuns, ginghams and organdies. Before buying materials for your new frocks come in and see our showing of the spring novelties.

You can duplicate the dress shown here—just as an expert would. With pictures and instructions which apply specifically to the garment you are working on, the Deltor makes successful home sewing possible for inexperienced sewers. Even experienced dressmakers are amazed at their greater success—at the time and material they save when they follow the Deltor, which comes with every new Butterick Pattern.

The Deltor shows you with pictures and instructions just how to cut, put together and finish your garment like a professional.

Come in and see the new Butterick Patterns and let us tell you about the Deltor which enables you to make your clothes expertly.

Design No. 3631. Very fashionable is this charming frock developed in silk crêpe or one of the interesting new cottons. It depends on the long, wide sleeves for much of its distinction. Sleeves such as these add a note of youth to the whole frock. The fabric trimming, too, is very fashionable.

Make yourself a dress exactly like this one. You can duplicate even its look of Paris! With Butterick pattern No. 3631 and its Deltor you can do it easily, simply. And you are sure of success, for the Deltor guides you like a professional dressmaker.
