MORWENA BIRD SAID YES TO EGYPT ROYAL PRINCE

CAIRO IS GOSSIPING OVER MORGANTIC WEDDING

Scion of the Egyptian Royal House Is Secretly Married to an English Girl

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)

CAIRO, May 29.—Cairo is gossiping again. The inhabitants had hardly recovered from the Tutankhamen affair when a scion of the Egyptian royal house secretly married an English girl.

The bride was Miss Morewa Bird, and the royal bridegroom is Prince Said Hamlin, second cousin of King Fuad. The minute the royal relatives of the prince heard about his love for an English maid of another faith they began making objections, but got nowhere with them. The price simply took his sweethart into a Moslem religious court, went through with the ceremony, and ran away to see Europe in the fashion of honeymooners.

Miss Bird since the war has been one of the bright figures of Cairo's ballrooms. Her father was a colonel stationed in Egypt before the war. The prince, who is 25, already has the reputation of being a prophet and a reckless man with his purse.

His talent for getting rid of money came to the public notice when he was sent to England before the war to study under army tutors. He was so extravagant that he had to be sent to Switzerland, where, in those days, there were fewer opportunities for getting poor quickly.

His penchant for prophecies was recognized during the war when he persistently wrote to the newspapers that Turkey and Germany were going to fail. As everyone knows, this forecast came about, in a manner, so the prince is now a prophet with some glory in his own land.

Not Grand Enough—"Your honor, my wife has been drawn on the grand jury. Will you excuse her?"

"What's her excuse?"

"She says she has nothing suitable to wear."—Louisville Courier Journal.

The Critic—"That's what I thought when I read it!"—Sydney Bulletin (Australia).

STATUE OF MONARCH IS AFFRONT TO REICHSTAG

WOULD COST TOO MUCH TO REMOVE HUGE SHAFT

Slim Pocketbook Forces Young Republic to Swallow Scruples Against Wilhelm Memorial

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)

BERLIN, June 19.—Despite the protests of radicals, Wilhelm the First's great marble statue will continue to grace the center of the Reichstag lobby, a place of honor under the rotunda analogous to that occupied by America's Unknown Soldier at the time of his funeral in Washington. It would cost 39,000,000 marks, or nearly $1,000, to remove the colossal piece, hence the young republic's slim pocketbook obliges it to swallow whatever scruples it may have against reminders of monarchial forbears.

The statue was installed in 1905, 11 years after the reichstag building itself was completed. Its erection was ordered by Germany's late emperor, the present refugee at Doorn. Wilhelm I ruled at the time construction of the reichstag was commenced in 1884.

Agitation for having the memorial removed to some less conspicuous spot was begun by the socialists. Their clamor finally reached the reichstag decorations committee, which had also been called upon to consider wiping out all other traces of the former monarchy. Art experts were called and they decided that, in any case, the statue occupied an unfavorable position from an artistic point of view. This opinion brought the democratic faction to the support of the socialists, but the committee has now decided that the operation must be postponed because the expense would be prohibitive at present.

DISABLED VETERANS TO TAKE OVER MINNEAPOLIS

CITY SURRENDERS TO VETS DURING CONVENTION

Mammoth Parade Mardi Gras Festival Some of the Features This Month End

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)

MINNEAPOLIS, June 12.—Like the many towns on the French battlefront which capitulated during the war, Minneapolis will literally "surrender" itself to the 10,000 disabled veterans who will attend the annual convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in this city June 25 to 29.

"The disabled service men will 'own the town' during their stay," says Mayor George E. Leach, himself a disabled service man who led the 151st Field Artillery.

On the opening day, Monday, June 25, St. Paul is given the honor of entertaining the visitors.

Tuesday a mammoth parade will be staged in Minneapolis. The majority will march, but it is estimated that about 40 per cent of the veterans will have to be taken in automobiles, due to their disabilities.

A tour around the city and Lake Minnetonka with the Minneapolis chapter of the disabled veterans' organization as host, is scheduled for Wednesday. Thursday evening is set aside for the grand formal ball, the premier social event of the meetings.

A summer Mardi Gras festival, with fireworks and vaudeville entertainment will share honors with the public dance at the huge Armory here for the final entertainment on the closing day, Friday.

GRASS CHEWERS WARNED

MAN CAN GET LUMPY JAW AS WELL AS CATTLE, CLAIM

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27. — It is just as easy for a man to get lumpy jaw from chewing grass as it is for a cow to get it. This was made known today by Dr. A. H. Sanford of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., in a paper read to the seventy-fourth annual convention of the American Medical association.

Lumpy jaw germs are found in timothy hay, oat straw and the like, Dr. Danford said. Picnickers and others are warned against idly chewing these things while on their outings.

CHILD SUICIDE MOUNTS

APARTMENT HOUSE LIFE IS BLAMED FOR INCREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27. — Dr. John A. Foote, president of the Association of American Teachers of the Diseases of Children, in an address here today, declared that child suicide was increasing rapidly among the children of the United States. One of the chief causes, he said, was the present day apartment house life which, because of insufficient exercise, causes mental disorders among children.

Contrary to popular belief, he said, the child who is dubbed "spoiled" is usually healthy.

GERMAN BACK IN SCHOOL

CALIFORNIA TO ALLOW TEACHING OF LANGUAGE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 26.—The teaching of German in the public schools of the state, banned during the world war, was authorized at a meeting here today of the state board of education.

The action taken today was the result of a recommendation passed at the last high school principals convention and an application by the board of education of San Francisco.

Newspaper Advertising Costs Less Than Any Other Kind

TAKE the circulation of this newspaper and figure out what it would cost to mail a single penny post card to that many readers. Then figure how much advertising space that same money would buy.

The result is illuminating.

Take all the daily English language newspapers of North America with their 30,000,000 daily circulation. The cost of post cards for mailing once to such a list of people would buy more than one full page and a quarter of advertising in all the newspapers.

Compare newspaper advertising rates with those of other mediums and you will find them from one-half to one-third as much.

And when you measure advertising by results and not costs, the newspaper position grows even more impressive.

This is one reason why the newspapers—always the dominent local advertising medium—have now become the great national advertising medium.

Manufacturers and distributors interested in the problems of modern merchandising are invited to write to the Bureau of Advertising, 806 World Building, New York, for a copy of the book, "National Advertising and the Newspapers."
