10 Pounds of Potatoes In Hill
(Register Lane County Special)

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Aug. 24.—Homer Galloway, city recorder, isn't worrying about the high cost of living so long as Mrs. Galloway has her health and a penchant for gardening. One hill of potatoes which she produced bore 10 pounds of tubers, many of them of large size. Mr. Galloway has them on display at his office as an advertisement for the productivity of the soil of the fertile Willamette valley and, incidentally, he does not attempt to deceive those who think he is advertising his own prowess with garden implements, with the names of which he is not even familiar.

COTTAGE GROVE MAN COUNTS 1581 DURING DAY

(Register Lane County Special)

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Aug. 24.—It probably is safe to say that 1000 tourists cars pass through Cottage Grove daily. J. T. Short amused himself the other day by counting the number of vehicles which came into the city and went out of the city on Fifth street during the hours between 5:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. There were 1581 cars, 27 mortorcycles and 29 teams. Of the cars 720 carried equipment to indicate that they were tourists.

A few probably got into and out of the city by other routes and a large number came into and went out of the city after Mr. Short ceased his count. Local cars and trucks were not counted and there were a large number of these.

THOUGHT BACK WOULD BREAK

Nothing Helped until She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"When my baby was born," says Mrs. Posluszny, 106 High Street, Bay City, Michigan, "I got up too soon. It made me so sick that I was tired of living and the weakness run me down something awful. I could not get up out of bed mornings on account of my back. I thought it would break in two, and if I started to do any work I would have to lie down. I do not believe that any woman ever suffered worse than I did. I spent lots of money, but nothing helped me until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel a whole lot better after the first bottle, and I am still taking it for I am sure it is what has put me on my feet."

If you are suffering from a displacement, irregularities, backache, nervousness, sideache or any other form of female weakness you should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass, for Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." It will be sent you free upon request. This book contains valuable information.

CO-OPERATIVES TO MEET

COUNCIL WILL MEET IN PORTLAND IN SEPTEMBER

Question of Federal Intermediate Credit Banks Will Be One of Topics to Be Taken Up

For the general discussion of co-operative economic, commercial and industrial problems in the state the Oregon Co-operative council, an organization composed of the state-wide co-operative marketing associations, the state-wide farm organizations and representatives of the Bankers' association and the chamber of commerce, will meet early in September, it was announced Wednesday by R. A. Ward, president of the council. The exact date of the meeting will be announced later.

At the September meeting the speakers will be leading economic and co-operative workers from the east and representatives from the federal intermediate credit banks.

The co-operative council will also discuss the proposed co-operative work to be carried on in conjunction with the state development campaign of the Portland chamber of commerce. Plans for the agricultural economic congress to be held under the auspices of the Oregon Agricultural college will also be presented by officials of the extension service of the Oregon Agricultural college.

The organizations which are members of the Oregon co-operative council are the Oregon State grange, Oregon farm bureau, Oregon Farmers' union, Oregon Co-operative Grain Growers, Oregon Co-operative Hay Growers, Oregon Growers' Co-operative association, Pacific Co-operative Poultry Producers, Pacific Co-operatice Wool Growers, Oregon State Bankers' association, agricultural committee Portland chamber of commerce, bureau of markets Oregon Agricultural college and the extension service of the Oregon Agricultural college. The officers of the council are R. A. Ward of the Pacific Co-operative Wool Growers, president; A. R. Shumway, of the Oregon Co-operative Wheat Growers, vice-president; Paul V. Maris, director of extension of the Oregon Agricultural college of the Oregon Agricultural college, secretary-treasurer. The associations which are members of the council represent 11,000 Oregon and northwestern farmers who have been marketing their products co-operatively under standard marketing agreements for from three to five years. The business of the associations aggregated over $10,000,000 in 1922. This will be considerably increased in 1923.

DISPUTE CAUSES MURDER

PARTNER KILLS MATE AFTER QUARREL OVER TRAIL

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 24.—A quarrel of George S. Edwards, 28 years old, with his partners, Ralph E. Wolf, 20, and Robert S. Edwards, a nurse in a hospital at Libbyville, Bristol Bay, over the choice of a trail, caused George to be slain, according to word brought here today from Libbyville by Dr. John A. Flanders. A statement alleged to have been signed by Wolf, said that after a dispute over the route to be taken over some hills, Robert Edwards shot George Edwards while George was asleep.

Robert Edwards, who is no relative of George, was arrested on the steamer Starr and both men were in jail at Libbyville when Dr. Flanders left.

Hopkins, was in Los Angeles at the time of the death. Mr. Hopkins was 40 years old.

MRS. STOKES ASKS $1,000,000 DAMAGES FROM HER STEPSON

Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes

Memories of the sensational divorce suit filed in New York city by W. E. D. Stokes, multi-millionaire hotel owner and sportsman, victim of the famous "shooting show girls" a few years ago, against his beautiful wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, have been revived by Mrs. Stokes' suit for $1,000,000 against her stepson, W. E. D. ("Weddie") Stokes, Jr., filed in Chicago. In his divorce suit Stokes mentioned his own son as a co-respondent, among many others. Later he withdrew the charge, but pressed the others and lost in the New York courts. Young Stokes, however, is said to have written a letter to his father admitting indiscretions with his stepmother, and this letter is the basis of the suit. Mrs. Stokes is now living in Denver, Colo.

SITUATION IN GERMANY DISQUIETS WASHINGTON

Capital Privately Agrees That Trouble Is Brewing

HARDING POLICY IN USE

Food Situation Believed to Be Crux of Matter at Present; Big Shortage Might Throw Country into Revolution, It Is Believed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The internal situation in Germany, notwithstanding recent indications of some improvemet, is regarded in Washington with grave apprehension.

Most American officials for obvious reasons have refrained from discussing the question publicly but many members of the house and senate and others who have studied European conditions at first hand this summer agree privately that the outlook is disquieting. In broadly representative diplomatic circles, too, there is a pronounced and almost universal note of discouragement. Some representatives of countries not concerned directly with German reparations regard a crash in central Europe as inevitable.

French Opinion Unyielding

In diplimatic circles a relaxation of the pressure in the Ruhr is not expected because of what is regarded as an inflexible public opinion in France and even in Germany, said to preclude any marked change of policy on outstanding questions at issue. Any such change was held to be impossible long before Premier Baldwin made his initial statement on reparations in the house of commons in what has been regarded as an effort to save central Europe from disaster.

In these circumstances it has been made clear since President Coolidge assumed office that there appears no course open to the Washington government with respect to Europe other than the one mapped out under the administration of President Harding. The wisdom of that policy is regarded at both White House and the state department as already confirmed by events. There is no doubt Washington officials want to do what they can to help but the very elements which constitute the greater danger abroad are regarded as increasing the peril of any effort toward mediation.

What form developments in Germany may take is regarded as highly uncertain. In diplomatic circles at least, the degree of the danger is believed to hinge upon the food situation. Although there may be ample stocks, it is pointed out that these may not be generally available for use because of the serious transportation and currency difficulties. An acute shortage, it is expected, might produce a public desperation leading to the gravest developments. Information received in official circles is said not to be reassuring, at least so far as concerns the food prospects in the Ruhr this winter.

Bolshevism Is Possibility

Although there is apparent in Washington a realization that Germany is confronted with the danger of a collapse into bolshevism under the continued pressure, it is felt that perhaps only a separation movement might result. On the other hand it is pointed out that anything approaching complete dismemberment would serve to increase the social unrest and perhaps lead to communism. In this connection it is contended that the present population of Germany is about maximum possible under a highly organized industrial system and that any considerable reduction in industrial efficiency through the setting up of a number of independent states would only intensify the social problem now regarded as acute.

Although there is said to be no definite information available as to the existence of a liasion between Germany and Russian political leaders, in some diplomatic circles it is felt that any direct communistic movement in Germany would be successful in spite of all efforts of the responsible statesmen, rather than with their assistance. The political leaders, it is contended cannot contemplate lightly any possibility of a union of a red Germany with soviet Russia for fear the resulting military phase to bolshevism might develop an imperialistic attack upon European frontiers with Germany the inevitable battle ground.

War with Russia Feared

Such a war, in some diplomatic opinion, would be disastrous in a military sense to both Russia and Germany, unless the Russian army, contrary to the history of that country almost without exception since Peter the Great, should develop an effectiveness beyond its own frontiers. On the other hand, the present Russian army, according to reports received from several European chancellors, is well officered, of good morale, excellently equipped except for airplanes and heavy artillery and is held to be in a position to do considerable damage.

The political possibilities involved in a central European conflagration are recognized as profound although it is admitted that in such an eventuality prediction would be futile. But it is not forgotten that revolution in Europe slightly more than a century ago liberated political concepts which dominated that continent for many decades and had its reactions even in the United States, then a six weeks' journey away.

FLYER RACES WITH DEATH

VETERAN PILOT HURRYING TO FATHER, SERIOUSLY ILL

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.—Pilot Jack Knight, veteran flier who has performed invaluable service for the nation's transcontinental night mail flying, entered a different type of race tonight at Cheyenne. Knight was informed by wire that his father at Buchanan, Michigan, was not expected to live through the night and he was given permission to use a plane in his race to Omaha.

Flying his machine at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour in his race with death, Pilot Knight landed at North Platte, Neb., going eastward from Cheyenne at 9:15 p. m. central time. He hopped off again 11 minutes later for Omaha, aviation officials here announced.

If Jack Knight, who left Cheyenne in his race by airplane to the bedside of his father who is seriously ill at Buchanan, Mich., succeeds in reaching Chicago before daybreak, the trip will be the longest single night flight in the history of aviation, flying officers declared tonight.

Knight arrived Omaha at 11:45 and left for Chicago at 11:59 p. m. central standard time. With a speed of better than 100 miles an hour he is expected to arrive in Chicago before dawn.

BRIDE'S SLAYING BAFFLES

QUIZZING OF MOTHER REVEALS NO LEADING FACTS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 24.—Four hours of questioning by the police and officers of the district attorney's office failed to elicit from Mrs. E. C. Lowe, mother of Mrs. Elsie Sorgenson Suttle, girl bride, who was beaten and slain by an unknown assailant yesterday morning, any facts which would tend to clear up the mystery which surrounds the tragedy. Mrs. Lowe maintained a defiant attitude during the examination, police say and refused to give any facts regarding her past or that of the girl and reiterated that she knew no one named "Jack," writer of five letters found under the dying girls pillow.

At the close of the examination, Mrs. Lowe, who arrived here from her home in Denver this afternoon was placed in the El Paso county jail. Her husband, E. C. Lowe, a lather, was undergoing a similar grilling at the hands of the district attorney tonight. The police say that stories told by the pair vary in several important particulars.

Air Official Elated

Having arranged a schedule allowing thirty hours and 15 minutes for test flights from San Francisco to New York, air mail officials here were elated over the showing already made. The flights have been so uniformly successful that they have brought forth the congratulations from the postal department and already plans are afoot to make the service permanent.

The tests will end tomorrow. The flights which were to have begun Saturday and ended Sunday have been cancelled. Superintendent Egge of the mail service said the flight had been proved practicable and nothing could be accomplished by carrying mail that could not be delivered Sunday.
