Glimpse of the Past.

An odd bit of the past turns up in a list of old publications soon to be sold at auction, namely, to give it its full imposing title, "A Sermon Preached at White-Chappel, in the Presence of Many Honourable and Worshipfull, the Adventurers and Planters for Virginia," and "Published for the Benefit and Use of the Colony Planted, and to Bee Planted There, and for the Advancement of Their Christian Purposes." Rev. William Symonds preached that sermon, notes Christian Science Monitor, and described Virginia as a land "with the fruitfulness whereof England, our mistress, can not compare, no, not when she is in her greatest pride." Yet he preached to rather a sorry congregation, says history, largely composed of immigrants who had failed at home through bad habits little calculated to help in a new country.

LATE BATHERS PLEASE CLOSE THE PARK GATE

Editor Courier:

In conversation last night with the park superintendent, Mr. Marteletti, he stated that he was having a good deal of trouble with automobile parties that visit the park after 11 p. m. The park superintendent remains on duty until that hour, and then closes the gate across the driveway. There are always a certain number of horses and cattle along the county road and unless this gate is shut at night the park would soon be anything but the clean place that it is. The complaint of the park superintendent is that the late visitors afer opening the gate and driving through the park, fail to close the gate, often leaving the gate carelessly thrown aside. Belated tourists who use the auto camping grounds are very careful to close the gate, but it is our own townspeople who cause the trouble. It would appear that 11 o'clock was late enough for anybody to be driving through the park, and if a later visit is necessary, it would show some consideration for the rights of others if these parties would play fair and leave the park gate as they found it.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

On June 5 in 1851 the first installment of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," by Harriet Beecher Stowe, appeared in the National Era, an anti-slavery paper, published at Washington, D. C. Mrs. Stowe received $300 for the serial. The following year the story was brought out in book form. The book, on account of its subject, had a great vogue. It was translated into 19 languages. More than 3,000,000 copies have been sold and the dramatization made of the novel is still being played throughout the country.

BEAT WIVES IN GERMANY

Thrashings by Husbands Common Among Middle and Upper Classes.

Wife-beating is quite common among the German middle and upper classes and the law of Prussia sanctions it, according to Henry de Halsalle, author of a recent work on Germany.

Halsalle said he once stayed a few days in the home of a Berlin merchant and one evening he heard a woman crying upstairs, followed by the sound of blows. Upon asking his host the cause of the commotion, the author was informed that the woman had just received her weekly thrashing, which she got every Saturday night.
