STATEMENT NO. 1.

For the second time in the great and progressive state of Oregon, the principle of the popular election of United States senators has been emphatically indorsed by the people. In the next legislature, at least 52 statement No. 1 members will hold offiice, a majority of five for popular election of Senators.

The republicans of Oregon have had ample warning on this subject. If the party is to remain in power it must get into the band wagon with the people. It cannot stand in the attitude of being afraid to trust the people and still win.

Had Senator Fulton indorsed the popular election of senator, and statement No. 1 in his Corvallis speech, outlining his policy, last fall, he would have swept the state and would now be the nominee of the people of Oregon for the senate.

As it was he repudiated that principle, defied the people in a sense, and consequently turned the state over to a democratic wave which has elected the United States senator.

The statement No. 1 members will elect Governor George E. Chamberlain next winter within 40 minutes after assembling for the senatorial election. Neither disruption, corruption, bribery, crookedness or prejudice can swerve these men from their purpose. They have given their pledge.

There is no reason in the world why a republican should not be elected to the senate from Oregon. It is a republican state, has plenty of republican timber, and should be represented by republicans.

But the leading republicans of the state have defied the people's wishes, have sought to thwart progress, to hold the state in the hollow of the hand of a few leaders, and the result is that it is now a democratic state, and such it will remain until republicans get right on a number of big issues now agitating the sovereign people of Oregon.—East Oregonian.
