INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

(Portland Correspondent)

A conference held at the Oregon Agricultural College on Monday of this week between the different interests that are working for agricultural education in the state schools resulted in partially outlining a course of study. Livestock interests of Portland have arranged to send out an expert hog raiser over the state to interest boys in raising hogs. This will be a part of the agricultural work of the schools and contests will be arranged, the winners in the various classes meeting in a county contest and the winners of these, in turn, will exhibit at the state fair.

An Oregon hop farm has been sold for $130,000.00. This was the well known Krebd farm near Independence, consisting of 460 acres of excellent hop land, together with all necessary equipment. The buyers, an English company, will continue raising hops on the tract.

LaGrande business men have been getting better acquainted with their state by participating in a special excursion that took them all over the main railway lines of western and southern Oregon. The excursionists charted a special car and travelled in comfort, being entertained at the principal points along their journey.

What is probably the largest mobilization of troops ever undertaken in this country in time of peace will be that in the Klamath Basin this summer. United States regulars and state militia forces are to be gathered for maneuvers. The ground selected for the big camp is about fifty miles north of Klamath Falls, near the Klamath Indian Reservation and convenient to the Crater Lake National Park and the Cascade Forest Reserve.

Wenatchee will send a committee of fruit growers to Portland to confer with representatives of other districts of Oregon and Washington to formulate a better selling plan for the combined products of the leading fruit growing sections. It is hoped by consolidation of interests to perfect a selling agency that shall bring about a better system of distribution than has been in use heretofore.

A new perennial clover, of the alsike species, is reported from Tillamook county where it was first discovered. Experiments are being made with it and it is claimed it yields enormous tonnage to the acre, while it grows the year round. The clover has no seed, bloom or sex and is propagated by cutting up the plant and sowing the pieces. The department of agriculture will make an investigation of the new plant.

Put some oats in a box that will not leak; wet them thoroughly with warm water, cover them well. let them stand one whole day, then turn them into a box that does leak. Keep putting warm water on them morning and night till sprouts are well started. Spread them out thinly, moisten more, and keep this up until the sprouts are of the required length. Some folks let them grow a foot long. No finer feasts for the birds than oat sprouts.—Ex.

While waiting for something to turn up it were better to get the plow ready for turning something up. One of our contemporaries advises scales for the farm, and that San Jose critter is doing its best to supply them.

Farmers are considered the most honest class on the earth, but even the best of them are continually taking advantage of the weather.

If the average man were to imitate the crack baseball player and make a "home run" as soon as he gets his week's pay, the saloons would be obliged to go out of business.
