A JOURNEY ROUND THE WORLD

In Less than 80 Days by Two Pretty Newspaper Girls Sent out to Beat

The Record of Jules Verne's Hero in the Novel "Round the World in 80 Days."

THE HERALD will keep its readers informed of all particulars of this novel race to beat a novelists' imaginery record. Jules Verne says it cannot be made in less than 79 days, and Mr. Walker of the Cosmopolitan claims a possibility of it being accomplished in 70 days.

The following is the substance of despatches as we find them in the Daily Examiner the Weekly New York World, and Cosmopolitan Magazine:

THE START EASTWARD.

Nov. 10—The New York World gave Nellie Bly, aged 23 years, the means to make a trip around the world in 75 days, to beat the record of 80 days made in Jules Vernes' novel "Around the World in 80 Days," by Phineas Fogg, the hero. The following program was laid out for her, with liberty to charter steamers and railways:

Nov. 14—Nellie Bly, in traveling dress and small hand valise, boarded the steamer "Augusta Victoria" for Southhampton, 9:30 a m.

Nov. 21—Nellie Bly lunched in London, 8 days after leaving New York.

Nov. 22—Met Jules Verne and wife at Amiens, France.

Nov. 23.—On the India mail express train, bound for Brindisi.

Nov. 25.—Writes a note from Brindisi. Italy

Dec. 11—Nellie Bly, forced by unforeseen circumstances, delayed her departure from Colombo, Ceylon, for Penang five days

Dec. 18.—Arrived in Singapore, and is expected to reach Hong Kong four days ahead of schedule time. She has completed half the journey around the world in 34 days.

Dec 23.—Nellie Bly at Hong-Kong. Sails for San Francisco on Oceanic Saturday; expects to arrive there January 21; was delayed at Colombo because Victoria arrived one day earlier and Oriental sailed one day later than advertised. She is two days ahead of time at Hong-Kong. The World expresses the opinion that she will accomplish the trip around the world within seventy-five days.

Jan. 2.—Nellie Bly was due at Yokohama to-day and sails from there January 6th for San Francisco.

STARTING WETSWARD.

Nov. 14—The New York Cosmopolitan Magazine gave Elizabeth Bisland, aged 24 years, means for making the trip around the world in 70 days, so as to beat Nellie Bly's record:

The program for the trip is not stated as to the time, but she says she is to go from New York to San Francisco direct to Yokohama, thence to Hong Kong, Penang, Colombo, Aden, Port Said, Brindisi.

Nov. 14, 4:(?) p m.—Miss Bisland, in traveling dress, with shawl-strap, hand valise, and small traveling trunk, left New York City on the fast overland mail for San Francisco.

Nov. 19.—Miss Bisland arrived in San Francisco, 5 days after leaving New York.

Dec. 18.—A cable dispatch announces the arrival of Miss Bisland at Hongkong. She sails to-day on the English mail steamer, three days ahead of time expected.

Jan. 2.—A cablegram to-day from Miss Elizabeth Bisland announces her arrival at Colombo on Tuesday and her departure on the same day. She expects to reach New York on her tour around the world seventy-two days from the time of her departure.

The Greatest Sensation of the Age.

"The Crime of the century."—This is the very appropriate title of a book that is being written by one of the ablest journalists of the present time. It is the only complete and authentic history that will or can be written of the assassination of Dr. Patrick Henry Cronin and the chain of events that led to that strange crime. The book is profusely illustrated with original and skillfully executed engravings of the principal actors and scenes of the Tragedy from the formation of the plot to the close of the celebrated trial; it also contains a reliable biographical sketch of the patriotic victim. This Pictorial History of the greatest of Modern Crimes, is not a book of romance but of hard, solid facts and is a marvelous exemplification of detective skill, of the far-reaching power of the law and of those charged with its execution. Those who secure an agency for it will be extremely fortunate. For terms and agencies, address The J. Dewing Company, 813 Market St., San Francisco.

THE HERALD and Weekly Call $3 or our paper and the Daily Call $6—Our Republican subscribers cannot say we do not get cheap rates for them, also. In this combination there is economy and literary merit.

EAST OREGON HERALD and The Public Domain only $3 a year. Settlers, this is your chance, if you want to know all about public land questions.

BABYHOOD contains important popular articles on infants' diseases, departments of "Nursery Problems" in which numerous questions of subscribers are answered; "Nursery Helps and Novelties," comprising descriptions of recent inventions and convenient nursery furnishings; a "Mothers, Parliament," containing interesting letters from readers, etc. etc. The Congregationalist recently said: "Every issue of BABYHOOD confirms us in the opinion which we have often expressed, viz.: that it is peerless in its way. It is full of material of the most practical value to all mothers, and it must be read to be appreciated. It is doing missionary work of a high order."

By special arrangements with the publishers, we are enabled this year to make an unusual offer: The regular price of BABYHOOD is $1.50 a year. We will furnish the THE HERALD in combination with BABYHOOD for $2.50 per year. This is a "bargain" that needs no comment. Make a careful note of a cut this out, or, what is better send us in the amount at once. If you wish to first see a copy of the magazine, address a postal card to "BABYHOOD, New York," asking for one, and a back number will be sent, free.

Boys and Girls

Don't fail to send twenty cents to Boys and Girls, Springfield, Ohio, for the Grand Christmas and New Year's numbers of that beautiful illustrated magazine. Each number contains tales of adventure, scientific and historical articles, puzzles, fun, games and other interesting matter. A year's subscription would make a splendid Christmas present for a young friend. Regular price, one dollar. New subscribers, until December 31st, only fifty cents. This will include Christmas and New Year's numbers. Do not delay; send immediately.

Denman Thompson's Old Homestead.

A story of clouds and sunshine alternating over a venerated home; of a grand old man, honest and blunt, who loves his honor as he loves his life, yet suffers the agony of the condemned in learning of the deplorable conduct of a wayward son; a story of country life, love and jealousy without an impure thought, and with the healthy flavor of the fields in every chapter. It is founded on Denman Thompson's great drama of "The Old Homestead." Street & Smith, 31 Rose Street, New York, are the publishers of this life-like story. it is No. 23 of their Select Series.

The New York Weekly Post.

Thoroughly earnest work is being done in behalf of tariff reform by the New York Weekly Post, which holds that the time to discuss this economical question is now, rather than in the heat of a Presidential campaign. Every issue of the paper contains articles bearing upon some phase of the subject, together with questions by doubting readers, with answers by the editor, all tending to facilitate and simplify the discussion. The Post has been adopted by a number of clubs and other organizations and its discussions are conducted in a spirit of fairness, which entitle it to respect of opponents, as well as its advocates of the revision of a war tariff to adapt it to times of peace. The Post is compiling a directory of active tariff-reform organizations in the United States, and has already published one installment of the list. The Weekly Post is a 12-page paper, and contains all the features requisite for a first class general family journal. Price $1 per year. In combination with THE HERALD, $3 per year. Sample copies free on request.

The Detective Story Paper.

The publishers of that sterling home journal, the New York Weekly, are this season making an offer that exceeds any we have seen. The ordinary price of the paper is $3.00 per annum, and it is well worth it, but to introduce the Weekly to homes where it is at present a stranger, we are authorized to announce that subscriptions for four months will be received for one dollar, and you will be presented free of all expense with a copy of any one of the Street & Smith Select Series of popular American copyright novels, The Secret Service Series of Detective Stories, or the Sea and Shore Series. These books are neatly bound in elegant lithograph paper covers, contain from 300 to 500 pages, and retail for 25 cents each. A sample copy of the New York Weekly and a complete description of the books will be sent free to any address, upon application to the publishers, Messers. Street & Smith, 25 to 31 Rose St., New York City.

Mention THE HERALD in which you see this offer.

"That Peerless Magazine."

A magazine devoted to the care of infants was established in New York a few years ago. Its plan was to procure the best writing that money could buy from physicians, trained nurses, and everyone else who was competent to advise in the perplexities that confront conscientious parents who aim at successful training of their children. An experienced physician was placed in charge as medical editor.

This magazine, BABYHOOD by name, has met with remarkable success the world over. Its foreign subscription list was sufficiently large for it to establish a London office last year and begin the issue of a foreign edition.
