THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1901.

This is the time when the lady gardeners put clocks on their garden hose.

We understand that Governor Benton McMillan, of Tennessee, has gone to Texas to coquet with the oil octopus. Thus, one by one, the old standbys of the Democracy fall by the wayside.

Now that the Department of Agriculture is meeting with such success in fighting pests with their parasites, it is in order for another fool society "For the prevention of eucly to insects" to be formed.

A California college professor got into trouble by talking politics, and a Chicago college professor got laughed at for talking "Degeneracy." The only thing left for the professors to do seems to be to talk about their studies.

The President shows his characteristic frankness in his recent announcement about a third term. No one will question that he is right—as no one will question the fact that if any man should have a third term, it should be William McKinley.

The canteen question will not down and Secretary Root is going to make a determined effort to restore it and with backing of all the army officers and the National Association of Military Surgeons, he should succeed in re-establishing it.

The residents of Prineville and vicinity have lost no less than $25,000 by the wholesale location of timber lands by eastern corporations. If these lands had been located by local parties the corporations would have had to pay not less than $200 per quarter section for the locators right and as there has been in the neighborhood of 200 quarter sections located it would have amounted to a snug sum, all of which would have been spent in this town. It is now too late to do anything, but try and get all we can out of the mill companies when they set up their mills.

In another column will be found an account of a recent attack on a sheep camp on Rock creek, in which several sheep lost their lives. This is a sample of the work that will no doubt continue to be done until measures are taken to put a stop to outside stock coming into this county. It is contended that a state has no right to make laws to regulate the grazing of stock on the public domain, but if not then it must make some kind of law to regulate taking stock from one county to another. In any event something must be done or the stockmen will take the matter in their own hands and compel outside parties to respect their rights in the premises. This has been done in the district tributary to the North Fork of the John Day river with very satisfactory results, but it took several years to accomplish the desired end and cost several thousand sheep.

HOT SHOT FROM AN OLD LINER

The following communication to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, from a Texan democrat and ex-rebel who voted the democratic ticket forty three years, will bear repeating because it contains sentiments that tens of thousands of old-line democrats, North and South, cherish in their heart of hearts although they may never have put them into speech or action:

"I commenced reading your paper several years ago so as to get both sides of the political question, as any one must do to form an intelligent opinion on any subject. I voted the democratic ticket forty three years. I didn't vote for Bryan in 1896. I didn't hunt for a crack in the fence last fall, but flew clear over, and voted the republican ticket from top to bottom. I regard the present leaders of my old party, from Bryan down, as the biggest lot of demagogues that ever cursed a party, and the greatest enemies the party ever had. For twenty four years after the war we shouted for several years for certain issues, got into power, and can't remember a single pledge redeemed, thus, deliberately stated, betrayed and threw overboard every man who stood for anything in the estimation of the people, threw down the strongest issues, "sound money and expansion," we ever had. You republicans were simply sharp enough to take up the issues and profit by them, so you don't deserve all the credit, but you are right. We laughed for years at the poor old populist heresies, and then entered their camp and stole all they had except the subtreasury, and would have taken that, but thought maybe it contained dynamite. Now, Dave Hill and his gang are praying daily and nightly for inspiration to crawl back to the old democratic issues. Like many other old rebels, I have become impressed with the idea in my late years that the party who assails the flag, courts or credit of this great country will and ought to go down in defeat. The greenbackers and pops tried it, the pops and popocrats joined issues and tried to heave it over the fence, and failed, and now where are they? Henceforth, now and forever, I am an American."
