OLD HOPS CLIMBING

Eleven Cents Paid for Last Year's Crop.

NO CONTRACTS TO BE HAD

Conditions in England Unchanged. New York Market Steadily Advancing—First Car of Cantaloupes Received.

Eleven cents was paid for 1908 hops yesterday. This is the highest price yet realized on the crop. There were 100 bales in the lot, which was bought by Julius Pincus from another dealer. These same hops are said to have changed hands not very long ago at 7½ cents, which shows how prices are climbing.

Several offers of 15 cents for 1909 hops were made yesterday, but there were no sellers at the price.

Klaber, Wolf & Netter received the following cable from their London office:

"Crop prospects about the same. Weather favorable for crop. Market steady at unchanged prices. Vermin prevalent, but no damage done to crop."

Hop market and crop conditions in New York State are reported by the Waterville Times, of June 18, as follows:

The time limit on the much-talked-about options at 20c expired on Tuesday and we are told by W. L. Terhune, representing the buyers, that several of them materialized into contracts. Outside of these contracts, we do not learn of any advance sales.

During the week the only two lots of 1908 hops left in growers' hands have been sold. One of 89 bales, grown by Hewett and Terry, and the other by R. M. Osher. The price of same is held for the present. Also the lot of Frank Cody, of Vernon Center, consisting of 60 bales, has been disposed of at 15 cents.

The New York Bulletin today estimates the coming crop in this state at 45,000 bales. Dealers and others here believe that this is too high by nearly 10,000 bales. It has been stated that the yield last year was 35,000 bales, and those who are in a position to judge pretty accurately insist that there will be less rather than more on account of the decrease in acreage.

There is no little anxiety now about the growing crop which, owing to cold, backward weather, is not making the progress it should and it is getting to be a critical time when unfavorable weather will have its effect on crop prospects. Warm, sunny days are very much needed, but instead, it is very wet and cold.

EASTERN EGG CAMP IS DIVIDED.—

Bulls and Bears Guessing about the Future of Prices.

The uncertain outlook for the Eastern egg market is described by the Chicago Packer, of latest date, as follows:

There is still an unsatisfactory movement of eggs in a retail way and dealers say that the trouble is due to prices being too high for the average quality of stock coming on the market. Trading here is really featureless. Instead of falling off, receipts keep increasing. To be sure, there has been no great surplus of stock, but it certainly serves to call attention to the fact that more eggs are going into storage than many dealers had figured would be put away during June.

The storage egg deal has now progressed far enough to divide the camp into two elements—the bulls and the bears. Some of them who hold few or no eggs are positive there will be a crash before the deal ends because of the extreme prices and, on the other hand, some speculators who are carrying quite a lot of eggs, have it all figured out nicely and expect the profits to compare favorably with last year's deal. It is simply a case of paying your money and taking your choice between the two opinions.

WHEAT MARKET IS SLOW AFFAIR.

Little Disposition Shown to Do Business in New Crop.

No new-crop wheat contracts are reported from the country, as farmers are not disposed to sell at this time and buyers are making no effort to do business with them. A little trading now and then is accomplished between dealers, bluestem being offered around $1.02 and $1.03 and club at 90 cents. The spot wheat market is almost lifeless. Barley for late delivery is quoted at $25@25.50 and new-crop oats at $28.

Local receipts, in cars, were reported by the Merchants' Exchange as follows:

	Wheat	Barley	Flour	Oats	Hay
June 19-20	1	2	12	2	20
June 21-22	2	1	1	2	5
June 22-23	1	1	5	2	1

LOCAL BUTTER CLEANS UP WELL.

Weakness on the Sound, However, Prevents an Advance Here.

The daily make of butter cleans up well and with production throughout the valley decreasing, there is a very firm market locally. Reports of weakness on the Sound, however, the result of the late decline in the East, hold prices in check here. Still, some of the creamery men expect prices to be advanced in the coming week.

The cheese market is firm and the light stocks and strong demand would seem to justify higher prices in the near future.

There was an oversupply of poultry yesterday and hens and Spring chickens were quoted lower. There is practically no demand now for ducks or geese.

The egg trade, as usual at this time of year, was slow. Prices were unchanged.

CAR OF CANTALOUPES RECEIVED

And Four Cars Are Now on the Way to Portland.

The first full car of cantaloupes came in yesterday. They were from the Imperial Valley and sold at $3.75 for ponies and $4.25 for standards. Four cars of cantaloupes are on the way to Portland.

Apricots are firm at $1.25@1.50 per crate. A car was put on sale, which will probably be the last car of apricots of the season from California, as the hot spell that state is now enjoying has cooked the fruit on the trees. Strawberries were scarce and firm at $1.50@2 per crate. Cherries continued weak.

Among the vegetable offerings was a shipment of green corn from Winters, Cal., quoted at $2 per box.

DULL BUT ADVANCES

Stock List Throughout Shows Firmness.

UNION PACIFIC MOVEMENT

Rumors of an Intention to Retire the Preferred Shares Are Responsible for the Rise—Copper Stocks Are Slow.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The intense dullness of today's stock market served to obscure the importance of the price movements which were remarkable in several cases. The general firmness was influenced by sympathy with the strength in special stocks, but most distinctly by the technical factors in the position.

The conclusion of the London stock market settlement with no casualties as a result of heavy declines since the preceding settlement removed a cause of apprehension and brought in some buying of stocks here from that source.

The movement that attracted most notice was that in Union Pacific preferred, which moved to a record price and one out of line with its investment returns, compared with the current money market. Rumors of an intention to retire the stock were given as the reason for its rise. It is supposed that the purpose in retiring the stock would be to avoid the embarrassment of claims from the preferred stockholders' share in the distribution of investment holdings by the company of other shares. Such a distribution was under official discussion at one time when the company was under scrutiny for alleged violation of the Interstate commerce law in holding those shares. The day's rumors had to do with a supposed offer of one share of Union Pacific common stock for two shares of the preferred, or an exchange of a convertible bond for the preferred stock with rights of conversion into common stock, presumably at a price above the current market quotations. There was nothing like official confirmation or countenance for these rumors, but they were extremely effective.

The pronounced dullness which had developed in Amalgamated Copper was responsible for the backwardness of the stocks of the copper companies.

A good deal of discussion was heard of the movement to secure the enactment of a corporation earning tax law and Washington reports that statements of earnings by the corporations were to furnish the basis for the tax were claimed as a promise of softening of the terms, which were feared at first, of the powers of inquisition into corporations, which would go with the proposed law.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $3,359,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.
