Aurora, Or., Thursday July 23, 1908

The Cherry Fair at Salem last week was a great success and many were present from Portland and other points.

The Cortelyou Club of Brooklyn, N. Y., was represented in Portland last Sunday by a delegation of one hundred and twenty-five of its members.

A contract for $75,000 for the construction of the foundation of the main building for Swift & Co., to be finished within ninety days, was let last Friday.

The Washington State Press Association enjoyed one of their best annual conventions at Vancouver during three days of last week. A trip up the Columbia River; a trolley ride to Portland and a banquet at Vancouver, were among the features of the entertainment.

Mr. George Oglesby of Macksburg has gone to Nestucca, in Southern Tillamook County, for an outing, and promises Borealis readers some interesting items from that place. Mr. Oglesby is a good writer and we are sure our readers will appreciate his articles from that country.

We had the pleasure last week of attending the Twenty-Second Annual meeting of Washington State Press Association, at Vancouver, Washington. A more lively and generous hearted set of men and women it has never been our pleasure to meet. The newspaper men of Washington are full of vim, enterprise and know how to combine business and pleasure in a way to get the most enjoyment out of their profession. They come from towns that are alive and growing and reaching out after more people and more business. Their business men appreciate the value of newspapers in advertising to the world the advantages to be gained by settlers and homeseekers, and as a result many of the merchants are growing rich through increased business. Their next meeting will be held in Seattle next year, during the A. Y. P. Exposition.

The freshman class entering the University of Oregon this fall will be by far the largest in its history. Every indication points to a freshman registration of 250, and a total enrollment of nearly 600 students, not including the departments of Law and Medicine. Last year one-fourth of all the high school graduates of Oregon entered the University of Oregon, and there is every reason to believe that an even greater percentage will enter this fall, though the number of graduates is nearly a half larger than last year. Another source that will help swell the number materially is the large number of Eastern people coming into the State. The Registrar's office receives many letters each week asking if credits from Eastern high schools will be accepted. The demand for catalogues has been unprecedented, and unless all signs fail, next year's enrollment will be a record breaker.

No meeting was ever called in Oregon which has attracted the universal enthusiasm that has been created by the Oregon Good Roads Conference, which is to be held in the Convention Hall, 6th floor, of the Portland Commercial Club on Tuesday, Aug. 11th. An effort will be made to call the meeting to order promptly at 9:30 a. m. so that there may be a morning, an afternoon and an evening session? The railroads have made a rate of a fare and a third for the round trip for this occasion. Delegations representing every grange, the commercial bodies, and the different counties to be appointed by the county judges, are already reporting that they will be present. Every editor in the state is a delegate at large, as is the mayor of every town, and every county commissioner. A program is being prepared, but every effort will be made to get rid of long winded speeches and get down to actual work that will produce results.
